Fruit Cures Constipation

"Fruit-a-lives" cure Constipation because they are Fruit Juices in Tablet form.

Constipation means a disordered liver. When the liver is weak, bile is lacking. And it is the bile—which the liver excretes—that flows into the intestines and moves the bowels.

Fruit is the great liver tonic. It invigorates the liver and causes more bile to flow into the bowels. Purgatives, powders and purging mineral waters, never reach the liver. They irritate the bowels and FORCE them to move. They generally do harm. They NEVER do any PERMANENT good.

"Fruit-a-lives" are fruit juices—in which the medicinal action is many times intensified by the wonderful change which takes place when the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes are combined.

"Fruit-a-lives" have already proved a cure to many thousands of people in Canada.

These cure Constipation. See a box—6 boxes for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price if your druggist does not handle them.

Why We Get Indigestion.
Recently a medical man gave it as his opinion that the oven was responsible for more dyspepsia than any other household contrivance. The modern cook finds it much easier to bake than to roast. The spit dog has almost gone out of existence, and there is seldom any one in the kitchen to take its place. It follows very reasonably that any food cooked within a confined space will not be so digestible as that done before an open fire, where all gases have freedom to escape.—Country Life.

THE HERALD'S PULPIT.

Roman Catholic Clergyman at Montreal, Preaches on Sin and Crime of Scandal.

At St. Ann's Roman Catholic Church, Montreal on Sunday last during High Mass, Rev. Father Hamel, Superior of the Mission, delivered a forcible and eloquent sermon on the sin of scandal.

He exposed the awful crime of scandal, its consequences, its punishments here and hereafter, its remedies. The scandal-giver, the special agent of the devil, the destroyer of the spiritual part of man, causing many to become derelicts, both for time and eternity, was shown to be the greatest enemy in the world. The preacher took for his text "Woe to that man by whom the scandal cometh," (St. Matthew, C. 18, v. 7).

"There is a crime," said the preacher, "committed in the world, which is most mercilessly dealt with, the crime of murder. The murderer has an indelible character imprinted on him like Cain. Murder is a dreadful crime. Not only people but nations, civilized and uncivilized, religion, reason, history, nature—all condemn murder. The murderer is punished by losing the great gift of life. He has to pay the penalty of his crime upon the gallows or in the electric chair. So much for the murderer who takes away the life of the body. But there is the spiritual murderer, who is a thousand times worse than the one who destroys the body. The soul of a being created by God is murdered by the steel of an assassin.

The assassin is the scandal-giver, so great a crime in the sight of God that it calls to Heaven for vengeance. What is scandal? "Scandal," says St. Thomas, the eminent doctor of the church, "is any word, action or omission of duty which leads another to sin."

There are many who go to confession regularly but never confess the awful sin of scandal. In the family, in the school, in the church, in the unmodest conversation goes on leading people to impurity. Missing respect, yielding to sinful actions, theft and giving away to drunkenness, persons guilty of such sins before others are spiritual murderers. No crime in the world today is so great as scandal. The scandal-giver instructs persons to commit sin, to lose their faith, and leads them to ruin. It is no wonder that Christ says: "Woe to the man by whom scandal cometh better that a mill stone be hanged around his neck and that he be drowned in the depths of the sea."

The scandal-giver exerts and instructs others in the ways of vice and wickedness. Fathers and mothers give scandal when they do or say anything that is not right before their children. Young men who visit saloons and gambling at street corners, are guilty of scandal. In workshops people who carry on immodest conversations are guilty of scandal.

Persons who dress immodestly, and those who give bad books to others to read are using the steel that penetrates the soul and their sin cries out for vengeance and the curse of God.

ARE SPIRITUAL MURDERERS.
Fathers and mothers who allow their children out late at night, learning wickedness in the den of the devil, in the house of impurity, are great spiritual murderers.

If the murderer of the body receives capital punishment, what will the murderer of the soul receive? The curse of God here and the lawful punishments of hell hereafter.

The sins of the scandal-giver multiply and multiply. The war of the scandal-giver destroys the immense work of God. It took Christ thirty-three years of hard labor and bitter sufferings to save an immortal soul, it takes only a very short time for the scandal-giver to frustrate the Master's work. The scandal-giver is worse than the executioners of Christ. He plants in the soul of his victim the image of the devil. He is the agent of the devil and is even worse than Satan.

Referring to the punishments of the scandal-giver, he said he receives the curse of God in life and in death. The scandal-giver loses his faith, there is no sacrament for him, no mass, he falls into some awful crime, and goes unprepared to meet the judgments of God. He is bound down to the pits of hell, he cannot make the mission, his sins are going up into the millions, swelling to the mountain height. He dies a reckless Catholic, the curse of his own wife, his father, his mother and his children.

The death-bed scene of the scandal-giver was then exposed. Very often when the priest visits such persons he has to give them conditional absolution, while at other times his heart bleeds as the dying sinner refuses to be reconciled with his God. The scandal-giver meets all those whom he exhorted and instructed in wickedness in the pits of hell, but no longer friends, but now bitter enemies tearing and devouring one another like wild beasts.

In conclusion he exhorted those who were guilty of scandal to make reparation to the best of their ability. It was impossible to make full reparation, yet they could do their best and God would accept it. As there was no crime under the heavens so great as scandal, Our Lord pronounced an awful punishment against it. The life of a good Christian, attentive to the duties of his religion, sentence in prayer, would merit the sentence of welcome from the lips of the Just Judge at the moment the soul enters into eternity.

A GREAT LAWYER.

Hon. William Travers Jerome Trains to Trip up Experts.

When District Attorney Jerome a short time ago last threw the counsel for Harry K. Thaw into a panic by the manner in which he held up in the public ridicule their first witness, Dr. Charles C. Wylie, many persons wondered how the District Attorney required such an intimate knowledge of anatomy and medicine as he displayed. Jerome was at his best and when he is at his best few men at the bar are his equal. He showed himself brilliant, versatile, sarcastic, witty and, withal, thorough. Apparently he knew more about subjects than should be within the province of the studious physician's knowledge than did this specialist in nervous diseases.

Mr. Jerome handled such medical text-book terms as "anesthesia," "hyperaesthesia," "acute neuritis," "hemorrhage of the pons," "cardiac nerve," "pneumogastric nerve," with the ease of a skilled practitioner, and tossed off such phrases as "the substance of the brain power, which is separated from the dorsal regions of the spinal column by the cervical region," with the flash of an anatomical expert. When the names of such medical writers as Haeckel, Huxley and Oppenheimer were mentioned he proved himself thoroughly at home. He used the names of the various tests as the "Romberg" and "conensual" tests with the practiced tongue of a broker's clerk calling off ticket quotations. When the learned Pittsburgh physician hesitated as to the exact meaning of certain terms Mr. Jerome explained them in full, even going back to their Greek roots.

Finally Mr. Jerome proved himself an alchemist of no mean ability, as, according to Dr. Wylie's own statement, he converted a question of fact into an expert on insanity, and then swiftly reversing the process, proved the "expert" to be what is commonly known as a "four-flusher," devoid of the knowledge of technical terms such as are taught in the physiology classes of the upper grades in a high school. Not content with exposing the doctor's ignorance, the district attorney humiliated him down to the very ground by a merciless rapid-fire of searching questions and fairly dazed and stunned the physician with a display of a knowledge of neurological, anatomical and medical conditions before which the opposition attorney were silent and dumb.

This performance was a typically Jerome at various times he has astonished a court room by his knowledge of technical subjects. In the Carlisle Harris case, when Mr. Jerome was simply a practicing attorney, he displayed a familiarity with chemistry and medicine which proved to be thoroughly discomforting to the witnesses on the other side. Harris was a medical student. He was accused of poisoning his sweetheart. The trial turned largely on the question of chemistry and the effects certain drugs have on the human body. Mr. Jerome lost his case, but the fight he put up and the grilling he gave to the experts for the prosecution attracted a lot of attention.

In the trial of Albert T. Patrick for the murder of the millionaire the effect of certain embalming fluids and chemicals on the body played a large part. Mr. Jerome showed in this case that he was as well up on embalming as the experts. Jerome once played a prominent part in a case that turned largely on the mechanism and manufacture of bicycles. In this trial he showed himself thoroughly versed in the lore of bicycle mechanics, and eventually proved that he knew more about manufacturing bicycles than the manufacturer himself.

How does he acquire so much technical information? In the first place he is an omnivorous reader, and has a marvellously retentive memory. He does not bar poetry, even. On one occasion when an opposing attorney quoted an alleged extract from Tennyson's "In Memoriam" Mr. Jerome protested that the quotation wasn't from "In Memoriam" at all supporting his contention by proving that the metre was wrong, and finally quelling his opponent by reciting several stanzas from the real poem in question.

Friends of Mr. Jerome say that when he once takes hold of a big case he goes into it with his whole heart. He studies it from all angles, perceives its different bearings and anticipates, so far as possible, every move on the part of the opposition. He then reads widely on everything in any way pertaining to the subject consults authorities and experts, and gathers information from every possible source.

He realized many months ago that the question of insanity in some form would play a large part in the defense of Thaw. He probably read up on the subject of insanity in all its possible bearings. The different forms, the symptoms, the general forms, the laws of heredity, the workings of the brain, the physiology and anatomy of the human body—with all of these he must familiarize himself and that he did his preparation exhaustively is shown by his cross examination of Dr. Wylie. He evidently consulted all the leading authorities on insanity, as his acquaintance with the names of the leading writers on the subject showed. His familiarity with the legal aspect of the case as concerned with insanity, according to the laws of the State of New York, was plain from the lengthy quotation he gave off-hand from the statutes and from previous decisions. The amount of work he did on this branch of the case must have been prodigious. Many of the questions with which he pitted the physician after the "expert's" undoing was fairly complete were of course, such as any bright schoolboy who had taken an elementary course in physiology could have answered. But many of his questions were of a very obtuse nature and showed that the District Attorney had absolute command of his subject.

Few persons appreciate what a tremendous amount of work a conscientious lawyer must put in to master a big case and know it in all its details and all its phases. The work in the court room is hard, but it is child's play to that which goes before.

SAVED BABY'S LIFE.

There are many mothers throughout Canada who do not hesitate to say that Baby's Own Tablets have saved the lives of their little ones. One of these is Mrs. John Shortell, Georgetown, Ont., who says: "I have no hesitation in saying that I believe that Baby's Own Tablets saved my little girl's life. From the time my little girl was three months old she cried all the time with indigestion. She was frail and puny; her food did her no good, and I was literally worn out taking care of her. The doctor treated her for some time, and finally told us that he could do no more for her, and we did not expect that she would get better. It was then I learned of Baby's Own Tablets, and decided to try them. Before I had given her a box of the Tablets there was a great improvement. Her digestion was much improved, and her bowels, which had been terribly constipated, moved regularly. From that time she began to thrive splendidly, and is now as healthy a child as you could wish to see. We are now never without a box of the Tablets in the house. Baby's Own Tablets will promptly cure all the minor ailments of babies and of young children, and the mother has a guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine contains no opiate or harmful drug. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

At the pit of a coal mine in Pennsylvania there are, during the past few months, quite a number of accidents whereby innocent bystanders have come to grief. Accordingly, some kind official has caused to be posted a notice that reaches the acme of politeness. It reads: "Please do not tumble down the shaft."

SEVERE PAINS IN THE GROIN.

Trying Experience of a Well Known Citizen in St. John, N. B.

The case of Mr. Charles F. Olive, for years foreman in the "Gazette" of St. John, N. B., is a striking evidence of the power of Ferrozone.

No remedy has such a record for restoring sufferers from acute stomach and kidney trouble; it invariably does cure. "For several years," writes Mr. Olive, "I have had kidney trouble and until quite recently I suffered torture. A few months ago my condition assumed a very serious form. I consulted several city doctors, used different pills, but without the slightest benefit. I suffered from an intense pain in the groin, increasing in seriousness of my trouble prompted me to try Ferrozone. It gave me quick relief, and a half-dozen boxes cured me. Ferrozone I can recommend as a specific for disordered kidneys."

Won't you try Ferrozone too, 50c. per box at all dealers in medicine.

A stranger wishing to play golf at North Berwick saw some one in authority upon the matter.

"What name?" asked the dignified official in charge.

"De Neufeldt," the stranger replied.

"Mon," said the official in a tone of disgust, "we cannot fash ourselves with names like that at North Berwick. You'll start in the morning at ten fifteen to the name of Fairgusson."

great household panacea of today.

THE TONIC BUILDS UP.

Many medicines stimulate, break down, leave you worse than ever. Ferrozone is different—it's a blood-former, a nerve-strengthening, a body-builder. Pale anemic girls are given color and vigor. The tired and sleepless are strengthened and restored. "Better than all tonics I found Ferrozone," writes Mrs. E. F. Castle of Woodstock. "I was completely run down, cheeks were blanched, lips white and had signs of anemia. Ferrozone added to my weight, gave me strength, ambition and good health." Nothing better, try Ferrozone yourself, 50c. per box at all dealers.
