ADVENTURESS ARRESTED

English Girl Who Has Beaten Swell Hotels and Entered
High Society in the Toils at Toronto

Toronto, Aug. 6.—(Special)—When Miss Eva Fox Strangway, the alleged adventuress who was arrested on Sunday at the instigation of the authorities of Philadelphia, arrived in Toronto a little over a week ago, she took up quarters in a hotel near the Union station, and two days later moved to a well known department house on Jarvis Street. The proprietor of the place was impressed with her deportment, and the woman made many friends among the guests. In fact Miss Fox Strangway, or Miss Sinclair as she called herself, was not at all loath to appear among them, nor to talk about her past life, and frequently spoke of her friends in New York and Philadelphia and of halcyon days in the Place Viger, Montreal, when she had four maids and $500 per month. This in fact was the means of her undoing, for within a week a report from New York papers, was published in Toronto, telling of the quest for Miss Eva Fox Strangway in Canada, and many of the gentlemen who had been impressed with her stories saw a striking likeness between the adventures of Miss Strangway and those of Miss Sinclair. Miss Fox Strangway was almost in a state of collapse when arrested and the governor of the gaol had to summon medical attention yesterday. Her condition was serious last night. She had but two cents on her when arrested.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE

Millions of Valuable Timber Burning---A
Whole Island Swept and Fire Still Raging

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 6.—(Special)—The fire brigade and a hundred deputies are out fighting a great fire which threatens fifty million feet of the best timber on Gambier Island, ten miles from Vancouver. On Valdez Island a great fire is burning practically over the whole island, and is destroying thousands of dollars worth of timber. The crew of one camp were forced to abandon work on Saturday, and to make their escape to the shore. So fast did the fire run that the crews saved their donkey engine only by holding wet blankets to shelter the engine down to the beach.

CRICKET AT HALIFAX

Boston Team Which Played Here Last Week
Badly Beaten by the Wanderers

Halifax Chronicle: The Wanderers won a decisive victory over the Massachusetts cricketers on the former's grounds on Saturday, defeating the visitors by a score of 280 to 101. The American team batted first, and the first men up made a good stand the score at lunch being 70 runs for three wickets. When play was resumed the visitors' wickets fell rapidly, the whole team being retired for 101 runs. Page topped the score with 27. W. T. Thorp coming next with 20, and Shepherdson with 19 were the only double figures. The bowling of Wright of the Wanderers was very effective, he having taken eight of the visitors wickets. For the Wanderers Ritchie batted in great shape, scoring 95 before he was caught by Shepherdson. He batted freely and scored rapidly, having seven fours and four threes to his credit. Page, Thorp and Murray did the most effective bowling for the visitors.

A HEARTY OLD GENTLEMAN.

Half and hearty while hearing the fourscore mark is the case of Mr. Robert Anderson, Sr., who resides with his son on the Woodstock road. Mr. Anderson has led an active life and was always well known through out the river districts. In the sporting line he was a most successful fisherman and probably took as many sturgeon and salmon from the river as any other individual. He also has a record in grappling for drowned bodies, having raised nearly fifty from their watery graves. Last evening Mr. Anderson presided at a small gathering of relatives and close personal friends, the event being in honor of the birthday of his son, Mr. Robert Anderson.

ACCIDENT ON THE I. C. R.

Four cars on the I. C. R. train from Chatham to this city left the track near Boiestown yesterday and the train was delayed three hours in reaching the city in consequence. The cars to leave the track were the refrigerator car and three cars containing raw cotton for the Marys ville cotton mill. Fortunately no damage was done beyond the inconvenience and delay. The cause of the accident is somewhat of a mystery as the best of steel rails have lately been placed on the road at this point and conditions are very favorable for safe travelling.

THE STOCK MARKET.

(Special to Herald.)

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 6.—The stock market was extremely dull again today, their being no signs of further liquidations in early trading.

Montreal Power weakened from 92½ yesterday, to 91½, but Damioion Iron was firm at yesterday's one point advance to 21½.

MOBBED BOURASSA

HOTHEADED MEN RESENTED HIS INTRUSION INTO LAURIER'S CONSTITUENCY AND BROKE UP HIS MEETING---FIGHTS AND ARRESTS

QUEBEC, Aug. 6.—Blood was shed, windows and electric lights smashed and five arrests were made in the course of a tumultuous meeting on Jacques Cartier place where Mr. Bourassa, M. P. for Labelle, before 20,000 people attempted to outline, hindered by hooting and a hail of stones and eggs, the program which he mapped out since his entry into provincial politics. The meeting will be memorable in the political annals of the country as one of the most largely attended and at the same time the most dramatic. The disturbance, which started at the outset, was carried on by a set of about 100 young ruffians who stationed themselves near the speakers' platform on the south side. Armand Lavergne, M. P. for Montmagny, had no sooner opened the meeting than they began to hoot and sing so that only those nearby could hear the chairman. Seeing that did not have the desired effect the disturbers threw a small bottle on the platform. Mr. Lavergne nevertheless, kept on speaking, trying to raise his voice above the charivari in an attempt to deprecate such a conduct. J. P. Simard, a member of the Quebec Trade and Labor Council, did the same and finally Mr. Bourassa took the platform. His appearance was greeted with cheers, while others whistled and hooted. He said he had not come to hurl invective at any one or to answer charges made against him, but simply to explain his program. He knew very well that those who were trying to disturb the meeting did not represent the opinion of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's constituency. "If anyone is to regret these scenes," went on the speaker, "it will indeed be the prime minister himself, who always respects liberty of speech." Mr. Bourassa then related how a set had attempted to break up a meeting in Toronto at which he was to speak against imperialism but the sensible majority of those present had prevailed and allowed him to go on. He hoped the same thing would take place on the present occasion. Despite those arguments the disturbers kept up the noise, which grew so deafening that Mr. Bourassa had to stop speaking. There were cries of "Down with the platform," and suddenly the crowd began to sway to and fro. Sympathizers of Mr. Bourassa who were massed in front and on the north side of the platform began to shuffle in the direction of the disturbers and when they met there was a free fight, the combatants striking or tugging at each other. Some thirty policemen under the command of Sub-Sheriff Walsh, who all the while had been watching the movements of the crowd, decided to interfere. They beat their way into the compact mass and after a sharp struggle, succeeded in landing three of the troublemakers in the cells. This considerably angered the rest, and Mr. Bourassa resumed his speech, declaring that he did not hold either the Liberals or the Conservatives responsible for the disturbance. He was pelted with stones. Dr. Dorion of La Libre Parole, and a man named Bergersen were struck on the head sustaining scalp wounds, which caused them to bleed profusely. Both men were almost stunned. The projectiles which inflicted the injury being fragments of rock the size of an egg. Ernest Tetrau, a Liberal barrister of Montreal, and three Montreal newspaper men were also struck, the reporter of the Herald being so injured at the wrist that he had to drop his pencil. The arclights above the platform as well as those on the square were smashed. Things got so bad after a while that the police made another charge and dragged two more disturbers to the cells. Though the stones whistled about his uncovered head, Mr. Bourassa escaped injury. He addressed the gathering whenever the noise sufficiently abated to make himself heard if not from all the mass of humanity which thronged the square at least from those in the immediate vicinity, some of whom kept shouting during his moments of silence, "Speak on Bourassa speak on, let there be light." A little after 10 o'clock the swaying of the crowd was followed by a scuffle on the south side, the seat of the disturbances, and the word went round that Alexander Taschereau, who defended Hon. Mr. Provost in the Provost-Asselin case, and who also is the representative of St. Peter's ward in the city council, was trying to prevent the police from making arrests. "I am told that an alderman is trying to stop the police from doing their duty," shouted Mr. Bourassa to the crowd. "It's not true," vociferated Mr. Taschereau, coming to the front. The young lawyer was surrounded by friends who raised him on their shoulders, while the crowd pushed against the group of contrary manifestants. Meanwhile Mr. Bourassa was attempting to make himself heard. When Mr. Taschereau's friends cheered the young lawyer the member for Labelle joined in and asked him to come up to the platform and speak like a gentleman. Twice he repeated this invitation, but Mr. Taschereau did not come. He was carried off shoulder high instead, soon to be carried back again. The riotous proceedings continued and finally Mr. Bourassa was forced to cut his speech short. Eggs, stones and sticks flew right and left, and many in the front of the crowd were struck. Mr. Bourassa himself escaped injury. When the politicians returned to the Chateau Frontenac, the editor of one of the French dailies, came to blows over the trouble.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS

Correspondent Who Wants to Know
What Has Become of the Citizens' League

To the Editor of the Herald,
Dear Sir—What has become of the Citizens' League, which with promise of reform, and enforcement of law and order, was organized a few months ago? Is it dead? Or have the civic and social reformers concluded that since the election of the present City Council no reforms are needed. Is this the case? What have they to say about the gambling and pool selling, in connection with the Fredericton races, patronized by leading civic officials, and the pool selling, held, as the Herald informed us, in a room of the brick building on the corner of Queen and Regent Streets, the bidding being audible and the bidders easily seen from the sidewalk. How many pastors have denounced this glaring breach of law from their pulpits? Then there are the questions of the noise and smoke from the I. C. R. trains and the screeching of the tug boats which continue to annoy the aristocratic residential East End, and the caterwauling of the cats and the disturb the slumbers of the aldermen of the West End. Cannot the Citizens' League grapple with these important questions? Something might also be done by the League in discussing the great unfairness and injustice of the administration of the new assessment law, by which the manufacturers, merchants and business men, who give employment to labour, and thus encourage the much needed increase of population and tax payers, are called upon to pay excessive taxes on their capital, thus beneficially employed, while miserly unenterprising fellows, with their money locked up in bonds or debentures or hid away in secret investments, get off with an absurdly low assessment.

What have President Weddall and other officers of the League to say about this? And then, of course, there is the ever present question about the enforcement of the Scott Act, which the League had especially in view, if the newspaper reports of the aims of the Society were correct. Has there been any improvement in this regard under the regime of the present Council? If not why are the temperance orators and clergymen now so dumb. In fact is not the present situation very
