CONSPIRACY CHARGE

Three Italians Arrested at Toronto in Connection With Banker's Failure

(Special to Herald.)

TORONTO, Ont., August 24—As an outcome of the meeting of parties interested in the affairs of Banco Gianetti, held in the office of Detective Duncan yesterday afternoon, three of the participants, Deomnico Vitronile, Femartirani, and H. Forti were placed under arrest on a charge of conspiracy. The charge is that they did by deceit and fraudulent means, defraud one Gennora Girsari of the sum of $2,300.

THE HUNTING SEASON

New Brunswick Likely to Have More Visiting Sportsmen Than Ever This Year

The hunting season for duck, woodcock and snipe opens on September 1st, and that for all kinds of big game as well as partridges opens on Sept. 15th. Moose, caribou and deer are reported very plentiful in all sections of the province, and the influx of non-resident sportsmen this year promises to be greater than ever before. Last year the local government collected about $27,000 from game licenses, and it is believed that this year the amount will easily run over the $30,000 mark. There are over two hundred registered guides in the province, and the great majority of them already have their services engaged for the months of September and October. As a general rule American sportsmen prefer to do their hunting during the calling season, and November therefore, is usually a slack month for the guides.

Mr. Charles Cremin, the well known guide of Scotch Lake, left this morning for the headwaters of the Nepisiguit to get his camps in readiness for the opening of the hunting season. Mr. Cremin has already made engagements with ten hunting parties, and will undoubtedly have a very successful year. Mr. A. C.

Brown, a prominent lawyer of New York, is now on a fishing trip to the Nepisiguit, and will remain for a try at big game under Mr. Cremin's guidance. A sportsman from the old country has arranged to spend six weeks at Mr. Cremin's camps, beginning on October 1st.

Under an amendment to the game law, made last session, non-residents who come to the province to hunt birds will be required to pay a license fee of ten dollars. This will likely keep out hunters from Maine, who have been in the habit of invading the counties of York and Charlotte in search of partridges during the early part of the season.

Non-residents who come to the province to hunt deer may obtain a license on payment of ten dollars under certain conditions. They must first satisfy the Surveyor General that they do not intend to hunt in sections frequented by moose to any great extent. Localities like Bonny River, Magaguadavic Lake and Davidson Lake will come under this section of the law. Non-resident sportsmen are prohibited by law from hunting in this province without first employing a registered guide.

THE ANTHRAX CASE

Is Causing the Hospital Trustees Considerable Anxiety

The case of Bliss Randall, the young man from Upper Gagetown, who is undergoing treatment at the Victoria Hospital for anthrax, a most dangerous and contagious disease, is causing the trustees of the institution considerable anxiety. Randall has been at the institution since Monday, and as he is perfectly well physically the nurses have been allowing him considerable latitude. He has been allowed to bask in the sunshine on the verandah, and yesterday he took a stroll down town for a change, and dropping into a shoe store purchased a pair of boots. This was brought to the notice of the trustees and this morning the matron was instructed to see to it that the patient is kept in his own room during the remainder of his stay at the institution.

The medical staff were asked by the trustee board to report on the case and four members met yesterday and passed a resolution which they forwarded to the trustees. It set forth that the disease was a very dangerous one and called for strict isolation.

The trustees met last evening to take action on the report of the medical staff and heard a statement from Dr. Atherton, who has charge of the case. He admitted that the disease was very contagious, but contended that Randall's case was yielding to the treatment and there was not the slightest danger of the disease spreading. He further stated that he would not be afraid to have the patient in his own house.

The difference of opinion among the doctors left the trustees in somewhat of a quandary and they decided to refer the whole matter to the local board of health. If that body should deem it inadvisable that Randall should longer remain at the Victoria Hospital he will be removed to the isolation hospital on the hill. The disease is new to the medical profession here.

This morning Secretary Sampson officially notified Chairman Weaver of the Board of Health of the case, and that body will probably hold a meeting to decide what action should be taken in the premises. Dr. Atherton, who is the only local physician, who has seen a case of anthrax heretofore, does not think that it is necessary to keep Randall confined to his room, as he does not consider there is one chance in a hundred of the disease being communicated to others.
