LAURIER'S RETURN.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is home again, robust in health and with additional honors as the leading figure in the recent colonial conference, at which the empire's affairs were discussed by the leading statesmen of Great Britain and her colonies.

All Canada rejoices on the Premier's return, for Conservatives as well as Liberals recognize in him a statesman of empire-wide fame, a faithful son of Canada, whose chief aim is to make his country good and great.

So strong a Conservative as the Montreal Star joins in the universal praise of Sir Wilfrid and his welcome home.

After declaring that the Premier's course at the Colonial Conference met with Canada's approval the Star says:

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier is now a figure of which the Dominion is especially proud upon representative occasions. He is a splendid national spokesman. He has the rare gift of eloquence, and even the rare gift of tact. He can say the right thing on such occasions—what is usually a not too serious or weighty utterance—with the impressiveness of the statesman who never opens his mouth except to give forth opinions that will shape the destinies of nations. The British people have made of him a popular figure; and Canada is the better for his services in this regard."

The Star with an air of enthusiasm for the Premier that would do credit to the most ardent Liberal, then declares that Sir Wilfrid "is an almost ideal representative for Canada to send to Europe—so much so, that there are those who would like to see him proceed there in some permanent capacity when he wears of the strife of our domestic politics. As Lord Laurier and High Commissioner and Canadian Plenipotentiary to the Powers he would round cut a life which has been singularly successful and distinguished."

These are words which will meet the approbation of every loyal and true Canadian, and they are all the more creditable and noteworthy coming as they do from an avowed political opponent of the Premier and his government.

Welcome, Laurier. Canada is proud of the man and his record and delighted beyond measure to have him home again in the best of health and usefulness.

RASCALLY TACTICS.

Because the local government has found the present an unfavorable time to float debentures on account of the tightness in the money market, an opposition organ announces to the world that New Brunswick has no financial credit, that indeed the province is bankrupt and must go to the wall. Of course the remedy suggested is to call in Mr. Hazen and his friends, who will quickly relieve the situation.

It is almost criminal to represent New Brunswick as bankrupt, when as a matter of fact her financial position is relatively as strong as any province of Canada, when her affairs are being wisely and conservatively administered, when all her public services are well provided for and when she has valuable assets which would be far more than adequate to wipe off every cent of indebtedness.

When a party seeks to obtain power by ruthlessly attempting to ruin the public credit, politics have reached a stage which all must deplore.

ALL RED LINE.

The free trade group in the British House of Commons is said to have prevailed upon the Imperial government not to assist the "All Red Steamship Line," which Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been promoting in England, and which had the support of the recent Colonial Conference. They are fostering the belief that the project is too expensive, but it is thought that the enterprise will eventually triumph. A high Canadian authority in London does not despair.

He says: "Of course this may not be the end of the matter. The Canadian Prime Minister who, as in the case of the British North America bill, was able to make the British cabinet turn down its own Winston Churchill, and Churchill's pledges to the provincial prime minister, may find some means yet of securing a British subsidy for the 'all-red project.' The Pall Mall Gazette says there is no probability that the government's decision as to the all-red route will be adverse."

CURRENT COMMENT.

Over two hundred thousand immigrants have landed in Canada so far this year and the number is expected to reach three hundred thousand before the close of the year.

It is expected that on Sir Wilfrid Laurier's return to Ottawa the cabinet vacancies will be promptly filled. This includes the disposal of two of the leading portfolios, railways and canals and public works, resigned respectively by Mr. Emmerson and Mr. Hyman. The anticipated reconstruction of the government will not likely be made for some weeks.

Premier Robinson, at Montreal Tuesday told a press interviewer that there would be another session of the New Brunswick legislature before the dissolution of that body, and a general election, so that Organizer Hubbard's efforts to put the opposition on a war footing will all be forgotten before the actual fight comes on. Mr. Hazen and his friends made the same mistake in the last contest—getting ready away ahead of time.

Mr. Borden, the Tory leader, has not been heard from for some weeks, and it is satisfying to know that he has not entirely disappeared. The distinguished gentleman is cooling off at Kennebunk Beach, Maine, and it is stated that early next month he will commence a political tour of the Maritime Provinces. The farmers will be getting in their hay and grain at that time and will not take kindly to a political campaign which will have little to offer, but the intense Tory desire to reach the treasury benches at Ottawa.

Here is another point for Mr. Hazen in his campaign against the local government. The startling discovery has been made by one of Mr. Hazen's sharp eyed journalists that one of the horses recently imported by the department of agriculture has white eyes. With what avidity Organizer Hubbard will seize on this new line of attack. A horse with white eyes, think of it. The whole Liberal party is doomed to destruction, and even Laurier's return will not save it. This white eyed horse is the Jonah and must be sent back to Europe.

The grand chaplain of the Orange lodge of B. N. A.—who by the way, is a clergyman—attacked Mr. Borden at the lodge meeting in Vancouver because he did not side with Col. Sam Hughes in his attack on Parliament on the priesthood and in a recent interview returns to the assault, declaring that the Tory leader made false statements in Parliament about Protestant clergymen. Col. Sam refuses to retract his objectionable utterance and Dr. Sproule, M. P. backs him up, but Mr. Borden, with an eye to the Quebec vote, practically read the Colonel out of the party, all of which suggests a row of a very large size in the Tory party.
