Let Me Sell You a Chatham Incubator —On Time—

Do you know there is big money in raising poultry? Do you know there is more money in running a good incubator than in almost anything else you can do for the amount of time and trouble it takes? Do you know my incubator will pay you a bigger profit than any other thing you can have on your place?

Well, all these things are true, and I can prove it.
Thousands of people all over Canada have proved it every year for the last five years.

I want to quote you a price on my Chatham Incubator, —sold ON TIME. I want to send you my Chatham book.
This incubator book is free—I'll send it to you for just a postal card. It tells you a lot you ought to know about the Poultry business—it tells you how to make money out of chickens—it tells you how my Chatham Incubator will make you more money than you can make with hens—far more, and with less trouble.

This book tells you how my Incubators are made—why they are the best ever invented—and why I sell them ON TIME and on a 5-Year Guarantee.

My Company has been in business in Canada for over 50 years.
We are one of the largest wood-working factories in the country.
We also operate a large factory at Detroit, Mich. We have the Incubator and Brooder business down to a science.

Chatham Incubators and Brooders will make you money, for a Chatham Incubator will hatch a live, healthy chicken out of every fertilized egg put into it, in 21 days.

Will you write for my book today? Do it now while you think of it. Just say on a postal card "Please send me your Incubator Book"— that's all. Address me personally.

Governor and Mrs. Tweedie Warmly Welcomed and Congratulated in Their Home Town.

Chatham, N. B., March 16.—Governor and Mrs. Tweedie arrived here yesterday and were tendered a reception by the pupils and teachers of St. Michael's Convent.
The 73 Band, a guard of honor and citizens met him at the station and a procession was formed. The address of welcome was read by Little Miss Dunn. Mrs. Tweedie was presented with a bouquet of flowers.
Governor Tweedie expressed his thanks for the welcome accorded him and a programme of songs and instrumental selections was carried out.
The Governor in reply thanked the Tory Organ at Halifax is Being Sued for Libel by Mayor and Leading Member of its Party.

Halifax, March 16.—Judge Meagher in the supreme court yesterday granted temporary injunction restraining the Halifax Herald from publishing reports of the proceedings of the inquiry before the public accounts committee at Ottawa into the purchase of the site for the new I. C. R. round house in Halifax on the ground that such reports as The Herald had published were calculated to prejudice the public mind and prevent a fair trial of the action brought by Mayor Maclellan for libel against The Herald, which charged him with graft. It is stated that the public accounts inquiry was instigated by The Herald in the hope of discovering evidence to help it in its defense.

J. R. Henderson, the head of the new Brunswick-Henderson lead corroding works to be established in Montreal, had also issued writs against The Herald for libel continued in charges made against him in the same matter. Mr. Henderson is a strong Conservative and is one of Halifax's best citizens.

IT RINGS IN YOUR EARS.

That same cough is everywhere you go, deep and hollow because consumptive. First it was catarrh which could have been cured by Catarrhoone. Moral, never neglect a cold, never trifle with catarrh, go to your druggist and get Catarrho-one. It's instant death to colds, cures them in a few minutes. Throat trouble and cough disappear as by magic. Cat-arrho-one is the great throat nose and bronchial remedy today!
Thousands use it, doctors prescribe it why, because it does relieve quickly and cure thoroughly. Two sizes, 25c and $1.00 at all dealers.

Judge—And you, who remained honest until you were 40, have smirched your name and dishonored your family all for the sake of a few francs?

Prisoner—Excuse me, sir. Was it my fault that they were so few?
A regiment of regulars was making firing practice land of Montana last summer. It was a hot, blistering day, and the men, longing for water and rest, were impatient to reach the next town.

A rancher rode past.
Say, friend, said one of the men, how far is it to the next town?
Oh, a matter of two miles, sir, so, I reckon, called back the rancher.

Another long hour dragged by, and another rancher was encountered.
How far is it to the next town, the men asked him eagerly.

Oh, a good two miles, called back the rancher.
A weary half hour longer of marching and then a third rancher.
Hey, how far's the next town?
Not far, was the encouraging reply.
Only about two miles.

Well, sighed an optimistic sergeant, thank goodness we're holding our own anyway.

That spirit of thrift popularly supposed to pervade New England is amusingly illustrated by the observations of a Connecticut farmer.

The good man had been seriously ill in midsummer, but by reason of his strong constitution he quickly refined. On being asked in the autumn how he was feeling, he replied in a cheerful tone:—
"Pretty fair, now, thanks. Anyway, it don't make much difference seem that the farm's well fixed. If I'd died in havin' or harvestin' time I calculate it'd been $50 damage to me." Then, after a pause he added:—
"Come to think of it, that's too low a figure—$65 would be nearer!"

Harry Ward, the minstrel man, who walking along Seventeenth street yesterby an old negro. The negro looked at him closely.

"Say," he said, "seems ter me like I knows you. Ain't you from Rockford, Ill?"
"No," replied the minstrel man.
The old negro scrutinized the white man and smiled as though he didn't quite believe him. "That's funny," came from the negro. "Yo' look jes like a sort of no good, worthless feller I used ter know in Rockford."

Mr. Ward laughed. "Well," he said, "that's quite a compliment. I must say. But I'm not the man. You believe it, now, don't you?"
The old negro turned his head sideways. "I don't know whether I does or not," he said. "That no-good feller was an awful liar."—Den-

Judge—Prisoner, explain how the fight began.
Prisoner—Like this, Excellency.
Checco, who was drunk, suddenly sprang up exclaiming: "You are all pigs, dirty pigs."
Judge (interrupting)—Please address yourself to the jury.

PRINCE RUPERT.

Old Methods Reversed In the Grand Trunk Pacific's Ready-Made City
—A Metropolis of To-Morrow.

A ready-made city is an innovation even in an age which delights in upsetting the customs and traditions of its predecessors. Dalny was perhaps the first attempt at such a departure, when the Slav built on Corea Bay an entrepot for military aggression.
The cue has been taken by the Grand Trunk Pacific, which is busily bringing into existence on the northwest coast of British Columbia a great commercial terminus for its transcontinental line and for its ocean greyhounds to the opulent Orient.

In the process, old methods of city building will be reversed, and even old proverbs will be repealed. "Rome was not built in a day," but Prince Rupert will spring almost full-armed into the arena to dispute supremacy with cities which measure their age by half centuries, and their wealth by millions of dollars.

The manner of growth of this new hub of trade will differ from that of any other city in the world. From the stone age communities have grown in but one way. A hunter finds on the shore of a bay, or a farmer on the banks of a stream, a convenient point to form a base for his activities and labor. He rears his cabin, and by and by other families join with him to form a community, whose common needs are soon supplied by village store, and school and church.
With expanding population, increased products, and greater needs, transportation facilities follow, first in the form of a wagon or canoe, and ultimately by locomotive or by steamer.
The trails become streets, the shacks business blocks of granite or brick, and the chance location of the squatter becomes a vested right of varying value, according to the proportions which the community assumes. A name for the aggregation of dwellings is considered only when the place requires identification for postal purposes.

In the embryo city under consideration, all this has been reversed, and the ultimate carefully considered in the preliminary. When, by an arrangement with the Parliament of Canada the company was empowered to proceed with the construction of a new overland railroad which, in conjunction with a national line, would extend from St. John on the Atlantic seaboard to an unnamed port on the Pacific, one of their first concerns was to secure an ideal deep water bay on the shores of which they might find a fitting terminal for wheel and keel.

But it is in the detail work of preparing the future home of thousands that the company has reversed all precedent. Five survey parties have spent the summer carefully going over every foot of the ground and collecting data as to elevations, and other points for the information of a board of engineers and landscape gardeners. Not an acre of land will be sold until every point with respect to drainage, sewerage, water supply and general effect has been considered. First of all, ample terminals for wharves and yards will be provided for, in all probability on the lower levels near the shore, where miles of coast line make the question of shipping facilities a simple one to solve.
The plateau extending inland from or from half a mile to two or three miles back from the water, will likely be the location selected for the business and residential section, while the slope of the mountain which rises at the back of the town will afford delightful drives, parks, and choice locations for more pretentious homes.

WELL KNOWN IN ONTARIO.

Late Mr. Wrigley an Honorary Member of Canadian Press Association.

George Wrigley, who died in Winnipeg recently, was a journalist well known throughout Canada because of the advanced position taken by him on temperance, Socialist, anti-war and political questions generally.

Mr. Wrigley was an honorary member of the Canadian Press Association.
He started life as a school teacher, and in the late seventies established the first educational journal published in Canada, he being at that time headmaster of one of the schools in London West. During the past quarter of a century he was engaged in newspaper work, having been editor of the Wallaceburg Record, Canada Labor Courier, St. Thomas; Drumbo Record; Canada Farmers' Sun, Toronto; Royal Templar, Hamilton; Canadian Country, and Socialist Justice, Toronto, as well as on the staffs of the New York Exporter, London Advertiser, Toronto Globe, Toronto Mail and other publications.

Mr. Wrigley was born in June, 1847, at Wrigley's Corners, near Ayr, Ont.
Three years ago he suffered several strokes of apoplexy as a result of a clot of blood forming on the brain.
The family removed to Winnipeg in 1904 in order to benefit Mr. Wrigley's health.

The deceased leaves a widow, Mrs.
Sarah Wrigley, well known in W. C.
T. circles in Ontario and Manitoba, and three sons: S. E., advertising agent, Winnipeg; Weston, editor of Hardware and Metal, Toronto; and R. E., with the Henderson Directory Co., Winnipeg.

Mr. Wrigley was a veteran of the Fenian Raid of 1866, and was a member of several fraternal societies, chief among which was the Harmon Lodge, A. F. and A. M., Toronto; Royal Templars of Temperance, and the A.
O. U. W. Although not recently a member of the I. O. F., he was the first Chief Ranger of that society for the province of Ontario, and initiated the Hon. Dr. Oronhyatekta into the order in London a quarter of a century ago.
