CITY COUNCIL.

THAT WANDERING TURK.

Ald. Hooper wanted to know of the mayor or aldermen had power to revoke or reduce a license fee.
The city clerk said that to answer the question it would be necessary to go over all the city by-laws.

Ald. Hooper said that early in November a man who claimed to be have seven wives went about the city selling carpets and tapestries.
He was told that the license fee was $20, but afterwards obtained an order from the mayor, calling upon the city treasurer to give him a license fee for $10.

The mayor admitted that the man had been granted a license fee for $10. He claimed that he had not been required to take out a license in reason why he should pay here. He (the mayor) had been consulted in that the man be given a discount.
Ald. Hooper said that the stranger had travelled from house to house, and had sold thousands of dollars worth of goods. To one man he had sold $60 worth, and it is safe to say that he had interfered with the trade of merchants. Ald. Hooper thought that no alderman should have power to interfere with the enforcement of a by-law.

The mayor said that the only question raised had been in regard to the interpretation of the law.
Ald. Colter, Hanlon, and Everett were appointed to act with the mayor as a legislative committee.

Ald. Colter promised to have a bill prepared giving the city power to appoint a member of the county administration of Justice Committee.

THE GAS QUESTION.

Ald. Hooper wanted to hear the opinion of the city clerk as to the power of the Fredericton Gaslight Company to shut off the supply of gas in any particular section of the city.

The city clerk said that he did not care to give a public opinion on a matter of that kind, where the city's interests was not involved.

Ald. Hooper thought the matter was one of great interest to the public. The gas company proposed to shut off the supply of gas in four churches, and a number of other buildings. The city war deeply interested in this matter, and he thought the city clerk should give an opinion.

Ald. Moore did not think that the city clerk was the advisor of the churches of the city.

The mayor was inclined to agree with Ald. Hooper that the matter was a public one, and that citizens were interested. He thought the city clerk should give an opinion. He turned off at the city hall.

The city clerk said he did not think the interests of the city as a corporation. He did not think he had a right to give an opinion to the city that he might be able to sell later on for $500. He was ready, he said, to give an opinion on any matter affecting the corporation's interests.

Ald. Hooper repeated that the matter was one of great public interest, and he intended to insist upon it, the city clerk giving an opinion. He had given him notice of the matter on Monday night.

The mayor suggested that perhaps the city clerk had not had time to look into the matter.

Ald. Everett was inclined to think that the city clerk should express an opinion on the action of the gas company.

Ald. Colter thought the matter was of great public interest and he would like to have the city clerk's opinion.

Ald. Moore supported the stand taken by the city clerk.

The city clerk said that it was not true that the gas supply had been shut off from the city hall, although it would be necessary to connect with another pipe. It would be time enough for the city to take action when its supply of gas was shut off altogether. He thought the people whose interests were affected should consult their own solicitors; otherwise they might do something which would get them into trouble.

He wanted it understood that while he was the legal adviser of the city on matters affecting the corporation's interests he was not the law giver of the city.

Ald. Hooper repeated that he thought the matter was one in which the city clerk should give an opinion.
If he refused to do so, of course, he (Hooper), could not compel him. He would like to know if the city clerk would object to the council obtaining the advice of outside counsel and paying for it out of the city clerk's salary. The explanation of the city clerk had not satisfied him, and he wanted his opinion.

The city clerk again replied to Ald.
Hooper, repeating what he had already said, and declining to give the opinion asked for.

After a few words by the mayor and several of the aldermen, the matter was allowed to drop.

A communication was read from Dr. Anglin, notifying the council that they must pay for the maintenance of a patient at the provincial hospital.

Mr. O. S. Crockett, stating that he had been retained by James McKilligan to ask the city to compensate him for damages sustained by his horse runaway. He claims that the sewerage contractors were responsible and places the damages at $142.50.

Referred to the sewerage committee.
The mayor read a communication from Mayor Sears, inviting the council to send representatives to St.
John this month to form a municipalities union to watch legislation.

Referred to legislative committee.
Mr. Havelock Coy, registrar of the University, informed the council by letter that the University senate had decided that they had no right to sell a strip from the college athletic field, wanted for street extension purposes. Referred to road committee.

There being no other matters to come before the meeting an adjournment was made.

When the Sun Will Burn Up.
That the sun is slowly but surely being consumed by its own fires there is but little doubt. No one can tell, however, to a certainty whether it is or not. Astronomers say that its diameter could be reduced two feet per day for 3,000 years before the finest instruments could detect the fact that any reductions had taken place.

The Venetian Riots.
The Riots at Venice is said to have been built from designs of Michael Angelo. It consists of a single marble arch ninety-eight feet long and was completed about 1592.

No Sound of R.
Many languages are devoid of certain sounds quite familiar to us. The Chinese, for instance, has no sound equivalent to our "r." For America a Chinaman says "Yamelika." The Society Islanders could not pronounce either "c" or "k" and the nearest approach they could make to the name of the celebrated navigator Cook, who visited their shores, was "Tut."

The Dardanelles.
The strait of the Dardanelles is less than fifty miles long, but, diplomatically speaking, it reaches to all the capitals of Europe and even to the state department at Washington.

Boils.
A person suffering with boils should eschew pastry, gravies and every kind of meat excepting lean mutton. The boils may be brought to a head by using a warm poultice of camomile flowers or boiled white lily root, by fermentation with hot water or by stimulating plasters.

Odd Books.
In the British museum are books written on oyster shells, bricks, tiles, bones, ivory, lead, iron, copper, sheepskin, wood and palm leaves.

Tenpins.
The regulation tenpin is fifteen inches high and fifteen inches in circumfer-ence at the largest part and two and one-fourth inches in diameter at the base. Pins are sometimes made shorter and sometimes longer and bigger for family alleys, so that they may be knocked down more easily, but fifteen inches is the regulation height.

"Chamois" Skin.
What is known in the market as chamois skin is really oil tanned sheepskin linings. The supply of real chamois skin is very limited and all there is in the world would not supply the United States for a single day.

Sarcasm.
Greene—Whom are your children said to take after, Mr. Enspeck? Enspeck (with a mental reservation)—The younger, with a sweet smile and angelic temper, takes after his mother. The elder, that cross eyed young viper, takes after me, I'm informed.—London
