SUFFERING THE SURE PENALTY

Health Thus Lost Is Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women do you know who are perfectly well and strong? We hear every day the same story over and over again. "I do not feel well; I am so tired all the time."

Miss Clara Beaubien

More than likely you speak the same words yourself, and no doubt you feel far from well. The cause may be easily traced to some derangement of the female organs which manifests itself in depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or do anything, backache, bearing-down pains, flatulency, nervousness, sleeplessness or other female weakness.

These symptoms are but warnings that there is danger ahead, and unless heeded a life of suffering or a serious operation is the inevitable result.

The never-failing remedy for all these symptoms is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Clara Beaubien, of Beaufort, Quebec, writes:

"For several years I have suffered with a female weakness which proved a serious drain on my vitality, sapping my strength and causing severe headaches, bearing-down pains and a general worn-out feeling, until I really had no desire to live. I tried many medicines, but did not get permanent relief until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In two months I was much better and stronger, and in four months I was well; no more disagreeable discharge, no more pain. So I have every reason to praise the Vegetable Compound, and I consider it without equal for the ills of women."

For twenty-five years Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, has under her direction and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge. Her advice is free and always helpful. Address, Lynn, Mass.

The steamship Ponce, disabled but safe, is riding at anchor in St. George's Bay, the Bermudas, and her crew of 52 and seven passengers are "all well." The Ponce had been given up as lost. Her commander, Captain Harvey, is a Nova Scotian.

NIGHT ROBES.

They Were Once Very Gorgeous and Worn in the Daytime.

In the middle ages night robes, as a general thing, were unknown luxuries. Under the Tudors royalty and nobility had them made of silk or velvet, and, as the old books say, "hence no washing was necessary."

A night robe of black satin bound with black taffeta and edged with velvet of the same color was daintily fashioned for Anne Boleyn.

More luxurious still was one owned by Queen Bess. It was of black velvet, fur lined, and greatly offset by flowing borders of silk lace. And in 1568 her majesty gave orders that George Brodigan should deliver "threescore and six best sable skyppes, to furnish us a night gown." Four years later her highness orders the delivery of "twelve yards of purple velvet, fringed on the back side, with white and russet silke," for a night gown for herself and also orders the delivery of fourteen yards of murrey damask for the "makinge of a night gowne" for some one else.

Night gowns for ladies of a later period were called "nyght vails." In Queen Anne's time it was the fashion to wear them over the customary dress in the streets in the daytime, when out on a pleasure walk. And, as was fitting, ladies who indulged in night-caps had them also made of silk or velvet, with "much pretty garnishing of lace and glittering cords," and the fair ones made presentation of costly caps to each other as tokens of respect or affection.

The Oldest Religions.

Judaism is the oldest existing religion. Brahmanism is second, Buddhism third and Mohammedanism fourth. Buddha was born in the sixth century B. C., at Kapilavastu, in India, near the Himalayas. He was named Siddhartha and Gautama. He was the son of a wealthy Sakya chief, called a king in modern parlance. Buddha lived to be very old. Brahma is the all pervading soul of the universe, the creator of the universe, his brother gods being Vishnu and Siva. Mohammed was born at Mecca, in Arabia, in 570 A. D., and died in Medina, Arabia, June 8, 632. No one can say when the worship of God began. It is probable that the very earliest man worshipped some unknown power, who was his God. The religion of the Chaldeans antedated the Jewish religion. Noah worshipped God; so did Abraham. Judaism did not begin until late in Abraham's life.

FATAL MONTREAL FIRE.

Bank Clerk Loses His Life in Boarding House Blaze—Others Injured in Their Escape.

Montreal, Jan. 11. —Aroused from sleep by the hoarse shouts of the firemen, Arthur Basil Greene this morning fought a fierce fight with death in fiery shape, and Death won out. He had stopped to pull on his trousers and overcoat, and that delay proved fatal. He was a son of C. Price Greene, of St. John's High school, and was a clerk in the Dominion Bank.

The fire was at the corner of Fort and St. Catherine streets, in the building occupied by Baker & Co., grocers, and A. Gauthier, butcher, below, and a boarding house above.

"I left the store a few minutes after seven o'clock last evening," Mr. Baker said to a Herald reporter as he walked about the building and blackened goods this morning. "When I left everything was just as usual."

Mr. Baker lives with his family at Ahuntic. He left the store with everything as usual last evening, and when he first set eyes on his place of business this morning he received the greatest surprise of his life.

"I left the store a few minutes after seven o'clock last evening," Mr. Baker said to a Herald reporter as he walked about the building and blackened goods this morning. "When I left everything was just as usual."

Mr. Baker estimated the value of his burned stock at $4,000, and that of the butcher store at $1,200. He thinks that a gas jet must have been left on in the latter establishment, and that the escaping gas caused an explosion.

"NOT THIS MORNING THANK YOU."

While Mr. Baker was at the scene of the fire a great many of his customers arrived to do their daily shopping and, of course, wanted to know all about it. He was busy answering the questions of a little group of ladies when the bread driver arrived on his daily call.

The latter eyed the charred ruins of the store in astonishment for a few minutes and then remarked, "I don't suppose you want any bread this morning."

"No," replied Mr. Baker with a rather forced smile, "I guess we don't want any bread this morning."

BEN HUR ACTRESS HURT.

Next door, on St. Catherine street, Mrs. H. Roy keeps a boarding house. Singularly enough this good lady has, during her three weeks' occupation of the premises, been troubled with vague fears of fire. She had no specific grounds for her foreboding, still it was her intention to remove in the spring. But the fire has come. Her fears have found their realization only too quickly.

"About half-past three," she said, "I was awakened by a strong smell of smoke. In an instant I was out of bed. 'What is that?' I shouted to my uncle. 'The stable is burning,' he replied. Then we heard the crash of the explosion. The whole building next door seemed to be lifted off its foundations. It was a raging mass of flames."

"We have some of the Ben-Hur company staying here. One of them—a Swiss lady—cut her forehead badly getting through the window. Her face was covered with blood, but no one else was hurt."

The police came and moved us all out of the house. Some of us went to the police station. I rushed out of the house in my bare feet and in my nightgown over my head. I thought the house was tumbling down."

VICTIM WELL KNOWN.

A. B. Green, suffocated in the fire at the corner of Fort and St. Catherine streets, was a son of Mr. C. Price Greene, principal of St. John's High school. He was twenty-nine years old, and was very well known in St. John's. He was employed recently in the National Drug Co., which he left to enter the services of the Dominion Bank. Previous to that he had worked in the C. P. R. audit office in Montreal, and Vancouver, and had been for one year purser in the C. P. R. Steamship Co., plying between Japan and China. He was well known in aquatic sporting circles, having been in the crew which won the intermediate and junior fours championship of the C. C. A. in St. John's in 1905. He was a member of the Masonic lodge in St. John's, and also a member of St. John's A. A., and the St. John's Yacht Club.

That there was some sort of an explosion and a heavy one, too, is known by the appearance of the interior of the store. The counter is flung up against the shelves at the

Millions in Gold and a Cheap Soap Ad.

London, Jan. 12.—There was, I am credibly informed, a very amusing object in the bed chamber of the late Shah of Persia. It was the only thing in the room that lacked beauty and intrinsic worth. The Shah's bed was magnificent with its incrustations of jewels, and the other articles of furniture fitly matched it in splendor. The prayer rug was fringed with gold and precious stones. The clock was of almost fabulous value. The paintings, bric-a-brac and hangings were wonderful. But in the midst of all this grandeur and artistic loveliness there was conspicuously displayed in a magnificent gold frame a cheap print copy of one of those grotesque pictures used in advertising a certain brand of English soap. It is said the Shah was as fond of that picture as of anything in the room.

CHARGE JUDGE WITH IGNORING THE LAW.

Murder Trial in Kentucky Stopped by Writ of Prohibition From Court of Appeals.

Jackson, Ky., Jan. 12.—The trial of Judge James Hargis and ex-Sheriff Callaghan, on the charge of participating in the assassination of Dr. B. B. Cox, in this city, three years ago, was suddenly postponed yesterday by a writ of prohibition issued by the Court of Appeals of Kentucky. This writ was granted upon the application of Attorney-General N. B. Hays and James B. Adams, commonwealth's attorney for the second judicial district. The petitioners alleged that Special Judge Wm. Carnes, of Williamsstown, who was appointed by Governor Beckham to try the case of Judge Hargis and others charged with the assassination of Dr. Cox, is conducting the trial in an arbitrary manner, and as overstepping the law.

The principal objection to Judge Carnes is his ruling which temporarily suspended Sheriff Bruce Crawford, and named Robert Burton to do sheriff's duties. The petitioners allege that he has directed Burton to summon bystanders for the jury, which is in violation of a statute passed at the last session of the Legislature.

A jury cannot be selected here, as it seems 12 men cannot be found in Breathitt county who will pass judgment on the prisoners. An effort will be made to have the trial held elsewhere. The city is full of armed mountaineers, and attorneys on both sides have been warned to be careful.

Much excitement was caused by the declaration of Judge Carnes that his life was in danger, and his request for steps to protect him were made. He asserted that he would not proceed with the case unless protected. Adjutant-General Lawrence arrived last night and conferred with Judge Carnes. He said that he would take no action as to the Judge's request for troops until the writ of prohibition has been argued before the Court of Appeals.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY A SAFE MEDICINE FOR CHILDREN.

It contains no opium, or other harmful drugs, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by all dealers.

JUSTICE IN KENTUCKY.

Judge Appeals for Troops to Protect Him.

Jackson, Ky., Jan. 12.—This city is excited over the trial of ex-County Judge Harris and ex-Sheriff Callaghan on the charge of murdering Dr. B. B. Cox four years ago. Judge Cornes, specially assigned to try the case, has appealed for troops for protection to protect him. A jury for troops to protect him, as it seems twelve men cannot be found in the county who will pass judgment on the prisoners. An effort will be made to have the trial held elsewhere. The city is full of armed mountaineers, and attorneys on both sides have been warned to be careful. Armed men through the courtroom during the sessions. The Governor has sent militia officers here to investigate.
