SEA YIELDS ITS DEAD.

Decomposed Body of a Man Found on Beach Near Point du Chene.

Moncton, May 31.—(Special) The body of a man was found on the beach about half a mile below Point du Chene last night. It is believed to be the remains of one of the sailors of the Swedish bark Adeona, wrecked off Richibucto last fall.

The body was considerably decomposed, and had evidently been in the water a long time. The flesh was eaten, apparently by fish, off his face and hands, and the features were unrecognizable.

Coroner Smith was notified and the body was ordered to be buried.
This is the second victim of the Ade-ona wreck found on the shore within two or three weeks, the other body being found at Buctouche a short time ago.

PRESENTATION.

Dr. Bailey Kindly Remembered by University Students and Other Associates.

A very pleasant incident took place at the close of the University Economia Thursday when the veteran Dr.
Bailey, who is retiring from the University faculty after forty-seven years of faithful service, was called to the front and presented an arm chair and farewell address by H. A.
Carr, on behalf of the student body.
He was also presented with an address by Dr. George F. Matthews on behalf of the N. B. Natural History Society, and by B. C. Foster, on behalf of the Alumni Society.

Although taken quite by surprise, the doctor made a witty and graceful reply to each address in turn. He was given three rousing cheers by the assembled students at the close of his remarks.

EVIDENCE ALL IN.

Col. Marsh will Give Decision in Libel Suit on Monday---Thursday Afternoon's Proceedings.

The preliminary examination of James H. Crockett, on a charge of defamation libel preferred by Hon H.
Emmerson, was practically concluded in the police court yesterday afternoon, but Col Marsh took until Monday next to look over the evidence and decide whether or not he would send the accused up for trial.

There was a big crowd of spectators in attendance yesterday afternoon expecting to hear some evidence of a sensational character but they were doomed to disappointment. A young man named Harry Dean, who according to the evidence at one time had a job scrubbing the floors at the St. Lawrence Hall, and afterwards filled the position of night porter, did swear that he heard laughter and loud talk emanating from a room in the hotel occupied by Hon H. R. Emmerson.

He said that Skelington has been doing some work for Mr. Fowler, and will be heard from at the trial. Mr.
Hazen intended putting him on the stand yesterday, but changed his mind at the last moment.

Even political opponents of Hon.
Mr. Emmerson, who attended at the court yesterday afterwards admitted that the promised startling disclosures had not materialized, although they seemed to think that the defence had something up its sleeve, which would be produced at the trial.

For some time past Mr. Crockett's signature, and that the signature was not natural. When this matter was casually mentioned by the Attorney General yesterday, Mr. Hazen promptly denied that anything had been said about Mr. Emmerson's signature.

THE EVIDENCE

Mr. Harry Dean of Montreal continuing his evidence Thursday afternoon said that he told the lady that he would have to make less noise He looked into the room and saw that the bed had been occupied. When witness returned to the office he saw the lady following him. He also saw Mr. Emmerson in the corridor. Witness saw one of the ladies talking to Mr. Lloyd in the office shortly afterwards. Later he saw Mr. Emmerson and the ladies leave the hotel.

To Mr. Pugsley the witness said he first worked as a lineman and then got employment at the St. Lawrence Hall. There was a light in the bathroom empty afterwards. There were a lot of other women in the house that night. The distance across the parlor would be about one hundred feet. He did not see the faces of the ladies as they went across the parlor. Witness told those in room No.
137 that they had to make less noise or get out. Witness then went down to the office, and Mr. Emmerson and the ladies left the room. The next time he saw the tall lady she was in the office paying her bill. Mr. Lloyd swore the tall lady was in the office twice, but witness only saw her there once. He saw her before that time going towards the office. She might have remained there all the time for all witness knew. He saw Mr. Emmerson crossing the parlor before the lady paid the bill in the office. One lady went across the parlor with Mr.

Emmerson, and they seemed to be going towards the public entrance.
Chapman the night porter, brought their baggage down stairs.

The witness did not remember the location of the door of room No. 9.
He did not look into the room, but merely closed the door.

To Mr. Hazen the witness said that he last saw Chapman during the latter part of July. It was after twelve o'clock when he saw two ladies passing through the drawing room towards room No. 137. They were the same ladies that afterwards left the hotel with Mr. Emmerson.

When he first heard the noise in 137 he went to the office and reported it.
He then went back and told the tall lady who opened the door, that they would either have to make less noise or get out. He had not during the evening previously spoken to the ladies who occupied room No. 9, and did not hear of their being insulted that night.

To Mr. Pugsley the witness said he supposed the lady got cross when he told her to make less noise or get out.

The witness declared that it was on the second occasion that he visited room No. 137, that he saw the two ladies and Mr. Emmerson go out into the hall.

At the suggestion of Mr. Hazen His Honor took the recognizance of witnesses Lloyd, Smythe and Dean.
Mr. Hazen announced that the defence did not propose to call any more witnesses at this stage.

The Attorney General intimated that a witness of the prosecution thought of calling was not very well, and consequently not available at the present time.

The counsel for the prosecution then held a brief consultation, after which the Attorney General announced that they would call no more witnesses.

Mr. Hazen—We have no further witnesses.

Col Marsh said he wanted the stenographer's notes, before he decided whether or not he would commit the accused for trial.

It being announced that there would be no addresses by counsel. His Honor said he would give his decision on Monday morning at eleven o'clock.

If the case is sent up for trial it will go to the York Circuit court, which opens on June 18th. Judge Landry, presiding.

ARTIFICIAL WARMTH.
Its Use an Inherited Habit and a Sign of Luxury.

With the big, restless, energetic world outside of this tropical belt, however, the matter of keeping warm is ever present, troublesome and expensive, throughout half of each passing year.

As a matter of fact, the world of humanity dwelling in stoveland never has been in all the ages really and comfortably warm in winter. It is largely our own fault. Mankind is the only animal which employs fire in the effort to survive the cold of the winters. The hardy lower animals do not need it, however much they luxuriately enervated representatives, the dog and the cat, may enjoy it when they have a chance.

Ancient man only got himself rid of his provident coat of hair and his surficient latent heat when he began to loaf around the family cooking stove and absorb the intoxicating comfort of artificial warmth. This faraway ancestor is responsible for the fact that the present day human being, outside of the belt aforesaid, is obliged to keep close to a thermometer registering nearly or quite 70 degrees F. from October to May, besides which he must needs wear extra clothing. This also is an inherited habit.

A traveler west once asked a half naked Indian in midwinter how he managed to stand the weather. The Indian replied: "Your face no got a coat. It no cold. Indian face all over."

Paint.

If a tin of paint has to be left open, stir it thoroughly, so as to dissolve all of the oil, then fill up with water.
When it becomes necessary to use the paint pour off the water, and you will find it as fresh as when first opened.

British Birds.

It is said that only two kinds of birds are absolutely peculiar to Britain. These are the red grouse and the coal tit.
