SELECTIONS

THE ROYAL BABY.

King Alfonso XIII.'s Son and the Spanish Succession.

The birth of a male heir to the Spanish throne has for the present simplified the question of the succession, a matter that has been responsible for much disturbance in the empire as well as in the rest of Europe.

The trouble was acute so long ago as 1700, when Charles II. of the house of Hapsburg died childless after making Philip, grandson of Louis XIV. of France, his successor. This first Bourbon king of Spain was not recognized by the other powers till after a long war, concluded in 1713. Philip, known as the fifth of Spain, proclaimed the Salic law the next year, limiting the succession to his male descendants.

His great-grandson, Ferdinand VII., one of the royal victims of Napoleon's ambition, was restored to the throne in 1813. In 1829 he married his fourth wife and abrogated the Salic law in spite of the protests of his brothers and of the French Bourbons.

His daughter Isabella, born in 1830, was proclaimed queen on his death, three years later, with her mother as regent. Isabella's uncle, Don Carlos, asserted his claim to the throne under the Salic law, but the regent succeeded in maintaining her daughter's position. Don Carlos' descendants have ever since been pretenders to the Spanish throne. The present Carlist claimant is his grandson.

Queen Isabella was driven from Spain by a revolt in 1868, and two years later the Spanish succession caused a fresh commotion in Europe. The proposition to call to the throne a prince of a branch of the Prussian royal house of Hohenzollern was the apparent though not the real cause of the great war of 1870 between France and Germany.

The throne was offered to Prince Amadeo, a son of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, but the task of governing Spain was too much for him, and after a few years he abdicated. Then a republic was set up, but it lasted only two years, and Alfonso XII., the son of Isabella, was restored to the throne without the shedding of a drop of blood.

On Alfonso's death in 1885 his daughter Maria succeeded him and was queen till Alfonso XIII., the present king, was born, a few months later, the ninth of the house of Bourbon to rule over Spain.

If the new prince should die and Alfonso have no other children his sister's son would succeed him, and in the remote contingency of the direct line of descent from Ferdinand VII. becoming extinct the Carlist claimant would become king.—Youth's Companion.

Steel Pavements.

Paris is experimenting with what is called steel pavement. It is really a concrete pavement re-enforced with a steel framework. The metal part of the pavement is a plate of perforated steel, with strong bolts of steel running through it between the perforations. Each section has some resemblance to a steel harrow, only the prongs project equally on each side and they are square and blunt. It will be superior to asphalt in ultimate economy and to wood both in the better footing that it affords to horses and in the fact that it will not admit of dangerous ruts developing. The sample laid cost $5.40 a square meter, a little more than a square yard, but when the work is done on a large scale it is believed the price can be cut to about $4.50.

A Midday Nap Club.

"What we need down here in the rushing office district is a midday nap club," said a lawyer of large practice, "a place where a fellow can run in for a few winks of midday sleep without the danger of being awakened by some erratic caller. A quiet lounge in a secluded room, every fellow to himself and a man to call you at the moment designated, and I venture the thing would be a success. Moreover, I believe a few winks of sleep in the middle of the day would do much to relieve the nervous tension under which most of us labor, prolong our lives and avert many a case of nervous prostration. I make the suggestion in all seriousness and hope soon to see it put into effect."—Philadelphia Record.

"The" Tyrol.

Apropos of Major Martin Hume's recent protest against the incorrect use of the definite article before "Asturias," it is interesting to hear the denunciation of "the" before Tyrol, made by Mr. Baillie-Grohman in the London Chronicle. It is "Tyrol" without the article, he says, for there is only one Tyrol. A "Bavarian Tyrol" and an "Italian Tyrol" do not exist, and therefore "the Austrian Tyrol" is also a wrong expression. Still, probably half of the people who visit Tyrol, in summer or winter, throw in the superfluous "the."

Coolness In Danger.

One of the women in the Kingston earthquake showed what she thought was great coolness. When the first shock had passed she hurried out on to the lawn in front of her hotel, blessing her stars for her escape. She felt that she was perfectly cool, for she remembered that she had left her powder puff behind and determined to have it. Her manner of recovering it was as cool as the rest of her conduct. She sent a black servant into the tottering building after it.—Chicago News.

A NOVEL SUSPENDER FROCK FOR THE SMALL GIRL

The suspender dress has ever been a favorite with mothers of artistic tastes, and deservedly, for there is no more becoming design for a little maid's frock. The mandarin suspender shown in the accompanying sketch is a novel and attractive variation of this popular model. The short straight skirt is so arranged as to give the long waisted effect that is now so much in vogue, while the pretty, full waist, pleated at the neck and gathered at the belt line, is of such shaping as to adapt itself gracefully to any little figure. As pictured the dress is made of golden-brown nun's veiling and trimmed with narrow velvet ribbon of a darker shade, the waist portion being made of pongee; but it may be modelled in any preferred silk, woolen or tub goods, with skirt and waist of the same material, with or without the suspender attachmet, and with full-length or shorter sleeves. To model the medium size 3⅞ yards of 27—inch material will be required. 4225—7 sizes, 3 to 9 years.
The price of this pattern is 10c.

To the Fredericton Herald:

Please send the above mentioned pattern, as per directions given below, to Measurement—Waist..... Bust ... .

CAUTION.—Be careful to send size of pattern wanted. When the pattern is bust measure you need only mark 32, 34, or whatever it may be. When in waist measure, 22, 23, 26, or whatever it may be. If a skirt, give waist and length measure. When miss' or child's pattern write only the figure representing the age. It is not necessary to write "inches" or "years." Patterns cannot reach you in less than three or four days from the date of order. The price of each pattern is 10 cents in cash or postal order or stamps.

Cortes' Army.

When Cortes invaded Mexico for the second time he had eighty musketeers and eighty crossbowmen.

South's First Cotton Mill.

The first cotton mill in the south was built near Lincolnton, N. C., on the south fork of the Catawba river, in 1815 and operated by water power. It had seventy-two spindles, and yet it was the beginning of the great factories that are today busy turning out products of the fleecy staple. This mill was enlarged to 3,000 spindles in 1819.

Heavy Armor.

In the fourteenth century armor became so heavy that many soldiers only thirty years old were deformed or permanently disabled by its weight.

Faded Black Cloth.

The reason why black cloth becomes green with wear is that the bichromate of potash used in dyeing is converted by the action of the air into green chromic oxide.

Peter Cooper.

In the New York directory for 1812 is the entry, "Peter Cooper, machinist, 98 Elm street." Elm street was then one of the poorer localities.

An Old Beverage.

Next to our grape wine it is believed that Japanese sake, or rice wine, is the oldest alcoholic beverage known to man, its use in Japan dating back over 2,000 years.

A Tart Motto.

The American cents of 1787 bore the motto "Mind your business."

An Old Naval Battle.

A naval battle between the Romans and Carthaginians off the coast of Spain in the first Punic war was lost by the latter because the galley slaves could not keep their seats when the ships rolled.

The Mouseng.

The mouseng, a Japanese coin, is worth about the one-hundredth part of a cent.

Ancient Glass Specimen.

The oldest specimen of pure glass bearing a date is the head of a lion in a collection at the British museum. It bears the name of an Egyptian king of the eleventh dynasty.

CURIOUS BURGLAR TOOLS.

Up-To-Date Cracksmen Use Rats and Dogs.

Rats and dogs must now be included among the assistants of the expert burglar. The animals are used by the burglar to ascertain if the coast is clear, the mode of operation being somewhat as follows:

"The 'cracksman may have fixed upon certain premises where he suspects there are burglar alarms. He accordingly forces open a small window and puts through two or three rats, brought to the scene in a basket. Accompanying him also is a ratting terrier, and this animal he also puts through the window. If there is a burglar alarm anywhere about, the bounding of the dog after the rats will set it in motion, and the burglar leaves the dog and the rats to their fate. Should there be no ringing of bells he enters.

"Another common dodge is for the burglar to send a telegram to a suburban housewife as follows: "Come at once to —— Hospital. Husband very ill. Should the telegram effect its purpose the burglar sets to work.

"Oysters are sometimes aids to a felony. After the husband has gone a man will call at a house with two or three dozen oysters displayed with a tray. These, he will declare, have been ordered by the master of the house, and while they are being gathered up by the servant or wife a second rogue will enter the house by the back door, pick up all he can, and hide. In a little while the oysterman will return with the statement that he has mistaken the house. The oysters will be brought back to him, and while they are being placed one by one on his tray, his confederate finishes his work and makes his escape."

ROSY CHEEKS FOR PALE GIRLS.

Don't be debarred from strength and spirit, don't give in to illness and despair. Ferrozone supplies tone and vigor through which all functions of womanly life are maintained and fortified. From New Richmond Que., comes the following statement from Mrs. Isidore Boissoneault: "I take deep pleasure in testifying to the powerful influence of Ferrozone. For years my daughter has been pale and sickly—showed signs of advanced anaemia. Her lips get so white and her cheeks so devoid of color I feared consumption. I can certify Ferrozone made an excellent cure, and to-day my daughter's health is the best." 50c. per box at all dealers.
