Mr. Briefem, the most famous K.C. of his day, had retired from practice for good and all, and most people were content that it should be so. He bought a fine plot of land and had a magnificent house built upon it. But now came an important point. What should he call the house? It was a very puzzling question, and though he pondered it night and day a successful solution evaded him. As a last resort he wrote to a brother lawyer begging a suggestion for a suitable name. In due course the reply came; "Dear Briefem," it ran, "what is wrong with 'Dunrobin'?"—English Magazine.

An author was once called upon to pay a bill he owed. The creditor spoke strongly, and insisted upon some definite date being mentioned for settlement. "Certainly," the author replied, "though there seems to be a rather unnecessary commotion about this trifling matter, I will pay the bill as soon as I think of it after receiving the money which the publisher will pay me in case he accepts the novel which I will write and send him just as soon as I feel in an energetic mood after a really good idea for a plot has occurred to me!"

TORY OPINION.

Toronto Mail and Empire's Comment on Mr. Emmerson's Resignation.

Toronto, April 3.—The Toronto Mail and Empire, Conservative, today says editorially, that the dramatic resignation of Mr. Emmerson does not clear the air at Ottawa but, on the contrary, it opens the door to speculations and suspicions, and renders the cabinet crisis more acute.

After expressing approval of Mr. Emmerson's course in entering suit against the papers which have made charges with regard to his moral conduct, with a view to setting himself right and in a companioning action by resigning his position in the cabinet, The Mail and Empire goes on to point out that it is in the acceptance of the minister's resignation that the difficulty comes.

"It will be observed," it says, "that resignation is agreed to on the day preceding the introduction of the morality question in parliament by Mr. Bourassa and this suggests a determination to throw somebody to the wolves."

In concluding, the paper says that it is impossible that the manoeuvre will have the effect intended, and that whatever is wrong with the cabinet as a whole cannot be changed by any half measure. The country looks for something more than the removal of a minister.

Montreal, April 3.—The Montreal Star says:

"Hon. Mr. Emmerson has taken the only course open to him under the circumstances. There will be general relief too, that the premier has permitted him to take that course, and has not been misled by any false notions of chivalry by insisting that he retain his position, while vindicating his character."

In offering his explanation to the House, Mr. Emmerson asked for a suspension of judgment until he had an opportunity to lay his case before the courts, and this is a request which should be granted on grounds of law and justice."

"It will not be retorted by Mr. Emmerson's best friends that he was well advised in either that or the matter of his statement to parliament. It is difficult to tell from it whether he appeals to our sense of justice or to our sympathy for the common humanity."

His denial, however, of the specific charges is explicit, and the country can only await his appeal to the courts."

THE RESTIGOUCHE ELECTION.

at the time, he said this. As a matter of fact, he was not afraid of Mr. Reid.

To Mr. Sweeney, the witness said that he did not hear any other voters say that they would have voted for Mr. Stewart, but were afraid of Mr. Reid. The witness folded the ballot before placing it in the envelope.

To the Premier, the witness said that he had been talking with Mr. Mott during the afternoon.

To Mr. Hazen, the witness said that when he told Mr. Stewart he was afraid to vote for him on Mr. Reid's account, he must have been drunk.

To Mr. Sweeney, the witness said that he had voted the way he wanted to vote.

To Mr. Clark, the witness admitted that he owed Mr. Reid a few dollars. Mr. William Savoie told about going to the poll and depositing his ballot for Mr. Stewart. The witness held the envelope in his own hands at the time of the election he was working for Mr. Reid. He did not go behind the screen.

To Premier Pugsley, the witness said that when he entered the booth he had two ballots, but only put one in the box. The witness admitted seeing Mr. Stewart two days before the election, but could not remember having any little business transaction with him. The witness assured the Premier that his vote was all right.

To Mr. Clark, the witness said that he had two ballots but he declined to say how he voted.

The Premier.—You voted a secret ballot.

The witness said that he would tell how he voted if he got a big price.

Mr. Joseph Landry was next put on the rack and examined by Mr. Hazen. He said he was working for Mr. Reid at the time of the election.

On entering the booth Mr. Reid gave him a ticket and he placed it in an envelope. He did not remember who held the envelope.

To the Premier the witness said he saw Mr. Mott in Balmoral last week. Witness did not think Mr. Arsenau could tell how he voted. His recollection of what took place that day was not very good.

To Mr. Sweeney the witness said he voted the way he intended to.

Mr. Joseph M. Bernard swore that he received a ballot from Mr. Reid and placed it in an envelope which Mr. Arsenau gave him. He did not read the ballot which Mr. Reid gave him.

To the Premier the witness said that he knew Mr. Reid was acting for Mr. Currie. He folded the ballot before putting it in the envelope.

Mr. Frank Savoie gave the committee to understand that he was at the election and received a ballot from Mr. Reid. He put the ballot in an envelope which Mr. Arsenau held for him. He was not told to go behind the screen to vote.

To the Premier the witness said that his memory was not hazy as to what took place on that day. He only took two drinks and was sober. Mr. Elodie Arsenau, an elderly man with bushy whiskers, was next called upon to testify. He said he had worked for Mr. Reid many years ago. He saw Mr. Reid at the poll on election day, and he asked him if he was well. He held the envelope in his own hands and Mr. Arsenau did not tell him to go behind the screen.

To the Premier the witness said he obtained a ballot from Mr. Mott a few days before the election. His ballot was secret and he did not propose to tell how he voted. He kept open house for Mr. Stewart and served meals for him. He might have gone behind the screen had he been told to do so. Mr. Stewart did not tell witness to go behind the screen. Thomas Savoie arranged with witness to keep open house for Mr. Stewart.

John F. Dixon, who was next sworn on, being questioned by the Premier in French, said he knew a little English, but not enough for this job. The witness was examined through Mr. N. A. Landry, who who acted as interpreter said he was at the poll all day about one day of the voters went behind the screen. He did not hear any conversation between Mr. Reid or Mr. Stewart about voters going behind the screen. Witness voted at the table, and was not told to go behind the screen he did not see Mr. Reid follow the voters to the table.

To the Premier, the witness said that Mr. Stewart might have told the voters many times to go behind the screen without him hearing him. The voters generally knew that the screen was there for their own use. The witness did not help put up the screen. Mr. Stewart handed ballots to the voters as well as Mr. Reid.

Mr. Thomas Hunt, a rather old looking gent, was next called by Mr. Hazen and gave his testimony. He told about going to the poll and casting his ballot. He met Mr. Reid at the door, but he did not show him his ticket. Mr. Arsenau held the envelope in his own hand, and did not tell witness to go behind the screen.

To the Premier, the witness said that nobody in the school room saw his ballot.

To Mr. Hazen the witness said that he held his ballot in his closed hand as he passed Mr. Reid.

Mr. W. Albert Mott was the next witness called by Mr. Hazen and was sworn. He said that he received a number of summonses for witnesses in connection with the case and had some of them served. He gave the committee the list of names of the ones served, and also those whom he had failed to find. He spent a whole day in the parish of Balmoral in connection with the matter.

To Mr. Pugsley, the witness said that he had not served the subpoenas until he had met and talked with the men. He could not recall the names of the men whom he had interviewed. Perhaps he had interviewed a dozen more than he had summoned.

Mr. Hazen announced that he had no more witnesses to examine. The committee then adjourned until 10.30 Thursday morning.

VALLEY RAILWAY.

Bill Authorizing Guaranteeing of Bonds Passed the House.

When the bill guaranteeing the bonds of the St. John Valley and International Railways was before the legislature Tuesday evening, a vote was taken on the question of reading the bill section by section, which was carried by the following vote:

Hon. Messrs. Pugsley, Robinson, Sweeney, LaBillico, Farris, Jones, Messrs. King, Copp, Scovill, Murray, Campbell, Burden, Currie, Ruddick, Tweeddale, Robertson, Burns, Young, Burgess, Leger, Martin—21.

Nays—Hill, Hazen, Flemming, Smith, Grimmer, Morrison, Glasier, Maxwell, Hart, Morrison—10.

Mr. Hazen moved an amendment to section nine that the Valley Railway shall be no where more than two miles from the St. John river.

Hon. Mr. Pugsley said that such a provision might defeat the object of the bill for there might be points such as at the Devil's Back where it might be necessary to go more than two miles from the river. He would move a section that the route of the railway must be approved by the governor-in-council.

The intention is that railway shall go down the St. John River Valley. The amendment was lost by a vote of 19 to 9.

Mr. Smith moved an amendment that the railway must start from Centerville, thence to Woodstock, and thence down the valley of the St. John.

Hon. Mr. Pugsley said there was no necessity for this as the bill already provided for Centerville which had been put in the bill at the instance of Hon. Mr. Jones. If the route was left to the governor-in-council it would be sufficient.

Mr. Flemming said no section of the Province needed railway facilities more than the district about Centerville. The amendment was lost by a vote of 19 to 9.

Hon. Mr. Pugsley moved an amendment that no bonds be guaranteed unless the route selected was approved by the governor-in-council.

This was carried and the bill agreed to.

In an Irish court recently an old man was called into the witness box, and, being infirm and just a little blind, he went too far in more than one sense. Instead of going up those that led to the box he mounted those that led to the bench. Said the judge good humoredly:

"Is it a judge you want to be, my good man?"

"Ah, sure, your honor," was the reply. "I'm an old man now, and maybe it's all I'm fit for."
