

REMARKABLE DEMONSTRATION.

Pen Picture of the Enthusiasm that Marked
Sir Wilfred Laurier's Arrival at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal

PREMIER WAS TIRED BUT CROWD WOULD HAVE A SPEECH.

Mr. Carvell, M.P., in Premier's Select Party which Made the Trip from Quebec to Montreal.

Montreal Herald—The Premier's arrival at the Windsor Hotel, Saturday night was the signal for a tremendous and gladsome outburst of cheers which rent the air from St. Catherine street to Windsor station. This was continued while the Premier descended from his carriage and mounted the steps of the hotel. In the rotunda of the hotel the guests of the house and a number of well-known citizens had congregated. Sir Wilfred moved towards the corridor leading to the elevator and bowed in acknowledgment of the cheers that greeted him. The demand for a speech was instant and electric. There was no withstanding the appeal, so Sir Wilfred, smiling radiantly, looking bright and supremely happy but tired, as he declared, with much journeying and speech-making, yielded to the general wish and spoke.

"Gentlemen," said the Premier, "you are excessively kind. I cannot deny the very demand which is made upon me, but I have only one word to tell you. I went away obedient to the call of duty, I came back feeling that, greatly as I have loved my country when I went, it is a thousand times dearer to me now than it was. With all my heart I thank you. Do not ask me for a speech. I am saturated with speeches. I have been doing nothing else but speaking for the past three months. Once more accept the expression of my sincere gratitude."

CROWD WOULD NOT DISPERSE.

Amid hearty cheers, Sir Wilfred retired, but there was a great gathering outside which had yet to be reckoned with. It must have numbered at this time at least twenty thousand.

With the voice of a mighty trumpet came the calls for "Laurier." As these grew in volume and frequency, it became apparent that something must be done to appease the multitude. Senator Dandurand stepped into the breach. From the balcony over the entrance he told the vast concourse how greatly the premier appreciated the demonstration given in his honor. "In his name," said the senator, "I thank you most sincerely for the magnificent reception—spontaneous, as it has been—that the city of Montreal has given in honor of the Premier, who has just come back after doing the work—the important and onerous work—entrusted to him." With these words he begged them to excuse the Premier, who was fatigued and greatly needed rest.

But the gathering showed no disposition to disperse. The calls for "Laurier" became even more insistent. The band of the Pious 10th Guard appeared on the scene and began to play selections, but it was other music—the music of the Premier's voice—that the crowd was determined to hear. At last in the midst of a roar of enthusiasm such as had never before been heard in Dominion square, the Premier for a brief moment appeared on the balcony. He spoke first in French and then in English. "I have only to offer you my most sincere thanks," he said, "for the demonstration, by far the most splendid in point of numbers and enthusiasm that I have ever received in my life. Let me offer you my deep expression of sincere gratitude."

That was all he said. But the words were like a magician's spell. The effect upon the crowd was instantaneous. The people had seen him, had heard his voice, and were satisfied. Gradually the throng dispersed. The firing of rockets continued for a time, but long before midnight Dominion square had assumed its wonted aspect of peace and serenity.

The official party which disembarked at Montreal from the Lady Grey, and made the trip from Quebec, was made up as follows: Sir Wilfred and Lady Laurier, Hon. A. B. and Mrs. Aylesworth, Hon. A. B. and Mrs. Bureau, Mr. Bureau, jr., and Miss Bureau, Mr. Carvell, M. P., Mr. Count, Mr. Henri Laurier, Mr. Hance Logan, M. P., Mr. and Mrs. Tourigny, Mr. A. Tessier, M. L. A., Mr. Drolet, Mr. de Martigny, the Premier's assistant secretary, and Mlle. Pauline Laurier.

PLANKED FISH.

The Up to Date Way to Cook Shad on a Wood Plank.

Planked fish are now in such favor that every spring aspiring housekeeper should own a plank. This should be of hard wood about two inches thick and either grooved or slightly hollowed in the center to retain the juices and furnished with clips or wires to fasten the fish to it. The plank must be heated before using. While the ideal way to plank is before an open fire, the upper grate of a very hot oven is a good substitute. Planking is usually associated with shad, but any good white-fleshed fish, as bluefish, whitefish or halibut, is equally good.

Frying is acknowledged the least digestible way to cook fish. It can, however, be done deliciously if the fish is either rolled in flour or dipped in well seasoned egg and breadcrumbs and done in very hot fat. The temperature should be slightly lower than when cooking such things as croquettes, whose interior has been previously prepared. Oil or cottolene is the best medium for frying, as lard is apt to taste.

Besides these staple ways of preparing fish, delicious rechauffes, croquettes and salads may be made from leftovers. Escaloped fish in little individual forms or shells is good either for a family lunch or as a course at more formal affairs. It should always be served with sauce tartare or at least with a rather acid mayonnaise.

Every one should own some of the interesting fish molds which now are very inexpensive. These give most attractive forms in which to prepare left overs or, indeed, new creamed fishes. The sauces in which the fish is prepared should always be a little stiffer than when it is not to be molded. A very attractive way to serve salmon, either fresh or canned, is in timbale molds. It is also very artistic as a course for a dinner when chopped, creamed and molded in the shape of a huge curled fish and served on a flat platter, covered with caper sauce and garnished with parsley and lemon.

TOILET HINTS.

A tiny sore at the corner of the lips should be at once well powdered with boracic acid powder and kept covered with it until it disappears.

A red nose is much benefited by bathing in really hot water night and morning. Dry very thoroughly afterward, more especially in the morning if the weather is cold.

A little olive oil, if gently rubbed on any irritating spot, will generally allay the irritation. Eczema spots, which sometimes appear in cold weather, soon disappear if treated with it.

For a corn a vinegar bread poultice soon effects a cure. Steep a little bread in vinegar for two or three hours, make a poultice, bind on the corn at night and keep on till the morning. After one or two nights' treatment the corn will drop out.

After doing dirty work do not at once wash the hands in water. First rub a little grease well into the skin, more especially the dirty parts. Mutton fat is excellent. Then wash in the usual way. The grease loosens the dirt, and hands treated in this way will never become ingrained with dirt.

A Sewing Lesson.

To apply insertions by machine baste the lace on the material; then run a row of machine stitching as close to the edge as is possible. Cut the goods from under the insertion, leaving sufficient edge to turn back and sew down.

Bloomer trousers may be finished without the rubber at the knee, to which many mothers object on account of its interfering with the circulation. As a substitute a narrow band may be used as a finish, and into it a short fitted lining and the full bloomer should be stitched.

For children from two to four years of age the animal plushes make serviceable and warm winter coats. Perhaps the most popular of these materials is the bearskin, which comes in a number of different colors.

A SMART SUIT IN STRIPED SERGE

Summer requires its coat suit quite as much at Spring and Fall and this year the fabrics are very appropriate for such wearing. Here is a smart suit for a girl in her teens which may please the mother who is planning some garment of this kind for her young daughter. The coat is a loose one shaped a bit under the arms and having cutaway fronts. The plaits which broaden the shoulders and lend excellent lines to undeveloped figures are applied and may be used or not as desired. The skirt is a seven-gored tucked one fitting nicely about the top and flaring prettily at the hem. Three tucks near the lower edge are very chic and effective. A serge, mohair or linen might serve for the suit, omitting the coat plaits for the latter material. 1 1/2 yards of 54 inch material are needed for the coat and 3/4 of 44 inch for the skirt in the medium size.

over-burdened. Among the pleasant

Woman is often referred to by man as "doubbling his joys and halving his sorrows." That may be complimentary but it would seem to be rather hard on the woman. For in plain terms it means that where things are going well with the man his wife makes them go better. But when things are going ill with him, he expects the wife to share half his burden. And there is more truth than poetry in this presentation of masculine selfishness. Men don't appreciate the fact that the strain of motherhood alone is a burden bigger than all the loads that rest upon male shoulders. They see the wife grow thin, pale and nervous and learn without a thought that she is letters received by Dr. Pierce are those from husbands who have waked up before it was too late to the crushing burdens laid upon the wife, and in the search for help have found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a restorative which has given back to the mother the health of the maiden and the maiden's happiness. "Favorite Prescription" always helps, and almost always cures. It has perfectly cured ninety-eight out of every hundred women who have used it when afflicted with diseases peculiar to women.

The Ideal Laxative for Children

Mothers cannot be too careful in what they give children to move the bowels. Calomel, cascara, senna, salts, cathartic pills, castor oil, and purging mineral waters irritate the bowels—upset the stomach—and eventually lead up to chronic non-action of the bowels—Constipation.

Fruit-a-tives

ROSY CHEEKS FOR PALE GIRLS.

Don't be debared from strength and spirit, don't give in to illness and despair. Ferrozone supplies tone and vigor through which all functions of womanly life are maintained and fortified. From New Richmond Que., comes the following statement from Mrs. Isidore Boissoneault: "I take deep pleasure in testifying to the powerful influence of Ferrozone. For years my daughter has been pale and sickly—showed signs of advanced anaemia. Her lips got so white and her cheeks so devoid of color I feared consumption. I can certify Ferrozone made an excellent cure, and to-day my daughter's health is the best." 50c. per box at all dealers.
