FOUND FOR DEFENDANT

Mr. A. G. Edgecombe Loses His Slander Case Against McArthur
in St. John Circuit Court.
There will be an Appeal

After having been out for nearly three hours yesterday afternoon in the St. John Circuit court in the slander case of A. G. Edgecombe vs. Geo. McArthur, the jury returned to the court room with a verdict for the defendant. It was not unanimous, however, as two dissented, but under the law the verdict stands.

A. W. Baird immediately moved for a stay of proceedings with leave for the plaintiff to appeal and this was granted.

ADDRESSES OF COUNSEL.

D. Mullin, K. C., arguing for the defendant, claimed that the alleged reference that Mr. Edgecombe had profited by a fire should not weigh as it was not in the declaration. He claimed that the case might have been disposed of in the police court as one of abusive language, that the $10,000 claim gave the case a fictitious importance.

Mr. Mullin likened the case to Barrell vs. Pickwick. An apology had been offered Mr. Edgecombe soon after the dispute and was refused. The plaintiff's own evidence, he claimed, showed that the defendant had exercised great control over himself.

Mr. Mullin commented on the evidence of Messrs. Edgecombe and Scovil and thought there was a comparison of notes by them. Mr. Scovil was the man pulling the strings and egged Mr. Edgecombe on.

Mr. Mullin claimed that all the language used was only abuse, and could not be called slander.

DR. CURREY'S ADDRESS.

Dr. L. A. Currey, for the plaintiff, said Mr. McArthur should thank God he was not charged with murder or grievous bodily harm.

If the plaintiff had been other than a cool headed man the matter might have been still more serious, for he might have struck the defendant. Edgecombe, he thought, could not get legal advice too soon. Most men would have drawn a revolver or bludgeon and yet, withal, Mr. Mullin claimed it was only abusive language. Mr. Currey asked the jury how they would like to go to a public place, directly from Bible class, and be assaulted by a big, strong bully like Mr. McArthur. It was time that somebody proceeded against such a man as this, who has in all these years gone about the city like a roaring lion.

Mr. Currey said that larceny, robbery, perjury and arson had been heaped up and imputed to Mr. Edgecombe.

No explanation could give any avenue of escape from the words used, and the damage should rightly be large. Nature had kindly endowed the defendant with a strong physique but he used it in coping with a smaller man. People had said, "You don't dare go to court and present the case, he will assault you afterwards."

Mr. Edgecombe he regarded as a God-fearing man, who goes to his prayer meeting and his Bible class. Mr. Mullin had referred to the plaintiff as a recent importation from Fredericton. Mr. Currey did not consider Fredericton people other than respectable.

Half the people of St. John were afraid to open their mouths to Mr. McArthur much less to provoke a fight. It was absurd to think of a quiet, mild-mannered man like Mr. Edgecombe provoking a quarrel with the defendant.

Mr. McArthur admitted having struck the plaintiff.

Abused, beaten, spat upon, what else had Mr. Edgecombe to do but take the matter into the courts of justice.

JUDGE LANDRY'S REMARKS.

In addressing the jury Judge Landry said that the case presented but few difficulties except perhaps in forming a conclusion upon facts. There was no proof of special damages and he explained that there were different views of the case and different forms of damage.

He then submitted to them the following:

"We find the defendant guilty or the first and second counts." If guilty, then, "We assess damages on the first and second counts at—"

"We find the defendant guilty or not guilty on the third and fourth counts."

"We assess damages on the third and fourth counts—"

"Did the defendant assault the plaintiff?"

After three hours consideration the jury announced that they could not agree as to a verdict. His honor, however, after some further instructions told them that five of their number could return a legal verdict and he suggested that they retire again.

They filed out, once more and at 5.03 returned. The foreman announced that the jury had found the defendant not guilty on any of the four counts in the complaint. At his honor's request the foreman announced to the court that they had arrived by a vote of five to two at a verdict for the defendant. The two who dissented are James F. Carmichael and R. Heber Arnold.

Mr. Baird then applied for and obtained a stay of proceedings to give leave to appeal to a higher court.

OPERA HOUSE.

The Klark Urban company comes to the city opera house Wednesday, Sept. 11, for a four night engagement. The St. John Times of Sept. 4th, says:

The Klark-Urban company presented The Girl from Mexico at the opera house last evening, and the laughable situations and humorous dialogue in which this comedy abounds met with the hearty appreciation of the audience. Eugene Powers, in the role of Tom Burnham, was the life and soul of the piece.

Miss Maisie Cecil made Satanella Tink, a very lively and at times vindictive young person, who kept her friends and relations continually on the move. Miss Oingcon was an attractive Flora Strong. The piece went with a swing from start to finish, and was evidently greatly to the liking of those present. The specialties were new and provided excellent entertainment.—d.
