The Ideal Laxative for Children

Mothers cannot be too careful in what they give children to move the bowels. Calomel, cascara, senna, salts, cathartic pills, castor oil, and purging mineral waters irritate the bowels—upset the stomach—and eventually lead up to chronic non-action of the bowels—Constipation.

Fruit-a-tives

are the finest medicine in the world for children.

It is just like giving the little ones apples, oranges, figs and prunes—because "Fruit-a-tives" ARE the juices of these fruits—but so combined that the medicinal action is increased many times.

Fruit-a-tives are perfectly safe for the children. Keep a box always in the house.

Anna's brilliant entertainments began to be the sensation of Paris, entirely eclipsing Countess Jean's hopes of social supremacy.

It is generally believed by Mme. Gould's friends that she will ignore Boni's demands for alimony until, in desperation, he consents to give up all claims on their children, although he is legally entitled to see them at certain intervals and direct their education.

The high society women whom Anna antagonized by exposing their relations with Boni, are banded together against her, and the opinion here is that she can never regain her position in society because of their revengeful insolence.

"Expert legal testimony" says a well known member of the New York Bar, "can easily be made a two-edged weapon in court."

A clever and capable mining engineer was obliged to take the stand as an expert in a suit in Nevada a couple of years ago. The case involved large issues.

"The examination was conducted by a young and smart attorney, who patronized the expert with all the authority of half a dozen years of practice."

One of his questions related to the form in which the ore was found, a form generally known as "kidney lumps."

"Now, sir," said the attorney, "how large are these lumps. You say that they are oblong in shape. Are they as long as my hand?"

"Yes," replied the expert, "but not nearly so thick."

BONI THREATENS SUICIDE.

Paris, Feb. 1.—"If you don't consent to see me, I'll commit suicide," was the threat Count Boni de Castellane made in a letter recently written to his former wife, "Madame Gould."

She is receiving weekly and even daily, entreaties from the spendthrift Count beseeching her to see him. He desires an interview in the hope that he can wheedle her into settling an annuity upon him, but thus far she has turned a deaf ear to all his pleadings and to the constant overtures of the entire Castellane family.

Even the Countess Jean Castellane, who has all along been one of Boni's strongest champions, has buried her animosity toward Mme. Gould and implored her to make desirable money arrangements. Countess Jean, who before her marriage was wealthy, has long been hostile toward Boni's American wife and has not spoken to her for four years. Her dislike dates from the time when Countess

THE B. C. ELECTIONS.

Premier McBride will have Twenty-six Supporters---The Vote in Vancouver.

Vancouver, Feb. 5.—"Let well enough alone" was the winning cry in British Columbia on Saturday. The fear that the inflow of Eastern and British capital might be checked for a time while the owners await developments and sized up the situation under a new regime, has brought about the endorsement of the McBride administration by the return of at least twenty-four supporters.

In Victoria, B. C. Feb. 4.—The Conservatives made nearly a sweep of the province in the election that took place on Saturday. They have 25 seats, with five districts to hear from, two of which are expected to go Conservative.

So far the Liberals have ten and Socialists one. The Liberals will likely secure two from districts not yet reported, and Independent Labor one.

From the present situation Premier McBride will likely meet the Legislature with 27 straight Conservatives, with 27 straight Conservatives were elected, McBride leading the poll with a handsome majority and he was also returned in his old constituency, Dewdney.

There are 42 members of the Legislature. The government will have a majority over all parties of twelve. In the last election the government had a majority of four.

There is no doubt that Premier McBride's stand at the recent Ottawa conference strengthened him throughout the province.

In many places the result of the election was a surprise. In Cariboo, Charles Wilson, ex-Attorney General, was defeated and two Liberals elected. Vancouver City came strong for the Conservatives and elected five. W. C. Wells, a strong Liberal, who was elected by acclamation last session, was defeated. Mr. C. E. Pooley who has represented Esquimalt as a Conservative for the last 24 years, was defeated. Hon. Mr. D. M. Eberts, Attorney General in the Turner government, regained his seat in Saanich. Mr. J. A. Macdonald, leader of the Opposition, was elected in Rossland, after a hard run.

FROM FLOOR SWEEPER TO HEAD OF STEAMSHIP COMPANY.

Sir Alfred Jones, whose Name is Prominent Regarding Kingston Relief, has had a Great Career.

A "nick name" however appropriate to his position, says the London Daily Express, "Years ago, when Sir Alfred Jones was, with characteristic energy, developing the importation of bananas into this country, he was christened the 'Banana King,' and now the most familiar anecdote about him is the oft told 'chestnut' concerning his dish of bananas, and its use in bringing interviews to an end."

But Sir Alfred is much more than a monarch of bananas. To his wonderful energy South America and Canada owe something, but West Africa and the West Indies both owe him an incalculable debt, and it is signally appropriate that he should be in Jamaica in the hour of Jamaica's dire affliction.

Al. L. Jones' career deserves to be included in a new and up-to-date appendix to Samuel Smiles' "Self Help." A more conspicuous example of the self made man is not to be found in this country.

He began his business life at fifteen as the junior clerk in a Liverpool shipping office, sweeping the floor and turning the handle of the copying press were his earliest occupations. It was not until he was twenty that his week's salary in shillings equalled his years.

Now he controls half a dozen great shipping lines, with a fleet of nearly two hundred steamers.

Shipowning, however, is only one side of his multitudinous interests. He is also a banker and a merchant in many commodities.

MANY ENTERPRISES.

With his cooling and cold storage at the Canaries, coal and equipment at Sierra Leone and on the Congo, vast demands of this formidable catalogue of affairs?

The secret of success is work. Sir Alfred understood this principle when he migrated to Liverpool from his native Carmarthen, a raw lad of fifteen, with nothing to help him but his own active brain, wiry frame, and keen Welsh intuition. So he got furiously to work, and he has been working furiously ever since.

His energy is prodigious. He is incapable of a moment's idleness. He starts work every morning with his secretaries, and often he works until after midnight. Even on a holiday he carries with him piles of work and secretaries to cope with it. His friends say he is even too busy to marry.

Sir Alfred's work is mapped out in a "geographical triangle" with Liverpool, Cardiff and London at the corners. The early part of the week he spends in Liverpool, the middle at his town house in Stratton Street, Piccadilly, and the end in Cardiff, conducting his huge concerns in the Welsh metropolises.

FAMOUS MEALS.

In London, his luncheons at the Constitutional Club and his dinners at one or the other of the great restaurants are famous. His guests are always interesting, and in his hospitality he often combines business with pleasure.

Philanthropy of a practical kind, characteristic of the man, engages the Banana King's enthusiastic attention. He has devoted much time and very large sums of money to remedy the great trouble of our West African possessions, the unhealthiness of the climate, and the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine has done much fine work in this direction under his guidance.

He has sent hundreds of clerks and others to the West Indies, and given many a poor man a rich man's holiday. He sent, at his own expense, a number of influential labor delegates to Canada and the United States to investigate for themselves conditions and methods of labor. He has also sent parties of undergraduates to Jamaica with a view to widening their knowledge and experience.

"It is a wonderful education for these young fellows," he said, "to show them what the empire means, and to teach them the way of the world. They would be a long time at Oxford before they could find out what they see in a month in the Colonies."

In Liverpool his benefactions are familiar as household words; indeed, his fellow citizens have several times subjected him to the ordeal of gorgeous banquets and costly presentations in recognition of his services to the city.

As has been said, the popularity of the banana is directly due to Sir Alfred Jones. He created a trade by providing good means of transport and by opening agencies in this country for its distribution. His ready resource was characteristically shown when he transported hundreds of London costers to Liverpool to hawk his early banana imports in opposition to local vested interests, which by this means, he succeeded in immediately breaking down.

She complains that even to walk upstairs leaves her breathless. Danby of Tilbury, Ont., is one of the many that proves that no medicine can compare with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in curing the ills of woman-kind. Mrs. Danby says—"I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a blessing to suffering women. For a long time I was a great sufferer from the ailments that affect so many of my sex. I was extremely nervous at all times, and suffered a great deal with headaches and indigestion. In fact I was in a thoroughly miserable condition when I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills but after taking them a short time I began to improve, and through their further use, I am now feeling like a new woman. I am sure if all sick women would take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills they would be convinced of the great good they can do."
