A Woman's Health

Is a heritage too sacred to be experimented with. For her peculiar and delicate ailments only medicines of known composition and which contain no alcohol, narcotics, or other harmful or habit-forming drugs should be employed. The one medicine which fulfills all these requirements is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—a remedy with a record of over forty years of cures to recommend it; a remedy, the makers of which print its formula on every bottle-wrapper and attest its completeness and correctness under oath; a remedy devised and adapted to woman's delicate constitution by an educated physician—an experienced specialist in woman's diseases; a remedy, every ingredient of which has received the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar diseases; a remedy which has more bona-fide cures to its credit than any other sold by druggists for woman's special requirements. It is not given away in the form of "trial bottles" to be experimented with, but is sold at a fair price by all dealers in medicines.

Delicate, weak, nervous women should especially shun the use of alcoholic medicines which, from their stimulating and exhilarating effects may seem, for a time, to do good, but which from the inevitable effects of the alcohol in shrinking up the red corpuscles of the blood are sure to do great and lasting harm in the long run. Besides they beget a craving for stimulants which is most deplorable.

Only invigorating and nerve strengthening effects can follow the use of this famous medicine for women. It can not possibly do harm in any state or condition of the system. It has been carefully adapted to woman's needs by an experienced physician—a specialist in their diseases. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

If a woman has bearing down, or dragging pains, low down in the abdomen, or pelvis, backache, frequent headaches, dizzy or fainting spells, is nervous and easily startled, has gnawing feeling in stomach, sees imaginary floating specks, or spots before her eyes, has melancholia, or "blues," or a weakening disagreeable drain from pelvic organs, she can make no mistake by resorting to the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will invigorate and tone up the whole system and especially the pelvic organs.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system. As a powerful invigorating tonic, "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For over-worked, "worn-out," run-down, debilitated teachers, milliners, dress-makers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and

"I'm quite positive," said Miss Lovelorn, "that he loves me a great deal."

"How do you know?" demanded Miss Hardman.

"Oh! I can tell by his sighs whenever—"

"Now, don't fool yourself. You can't gauge the depth of a man's love by its sighs."

DIET NOT THE WHOLE THING.

Your table is loaded with food—digestible and wholesome, yet you never gain strength. What's the trouble? Look within, and what do you find? A lazy liver, stomach overloaded with work—useless work because the bowels and liver are not sufficiently active. Relief is quickly supplied by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They make weak folks strong by removing the cause of the weakness. Digestion improves, constipation leaves, liver takes new life, kidneys wake up,—the whole system is enlivened by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. No better medicine for the sick or well, 25c. at all dealers.

If anything is scorched or burned while cooking, set it at once into a dish of cold water and the flavor will be unimpaired.

Mrs. Silas Cornstossle—Now, don't complain. Silas, Hiram is merely sowing his wild oats.

RHEUMATISM ALMOST KILLED HER.

For years Mrs. S. Stahlschmidt of Humberstone, Ont., was a martyr to rheumatism. "I was so stiff and lame I could scarcely walk," she writes. "An attack striking my limbs made walking impossible. Friends and doctors gave prescriptions but I only got relief from Ferrozene. I took twelve boxes and gained from the first. Today I am well, feel stronger, weigh heavier and look the picture of health. Whether muscular or inflammatory chronic or otherwise, Ferrozene does cure rheumatism and sciatica, 50c. per box at all dealers.

SIR WILFRID WAS TOO WARY

Englishman who was a Subsidy Hunter found Premier Careful in making Promises

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The outcome of a Canadian railway enterprise, in which Viscount Frankfort de Montmorency was engaged, was that he now sued Mr. J. F. W. B. Taylor for £200. It appeared that plaintiff, who paid defendant this sum for certain deferred shares in the Quebec and Lake Huron Construction company, endeavored on behalf of Messrs. Steele, Lockhart, and Co., of which firm defendant is a member, to get the Canadian government to confirm certain subsidies in connection with the promotion of the company. The £200 was paid, it was alleged, on a consideration that had failed. For the defence, it was contended that plaintiff was a co-adventurer, and that if the scheme did not go through the £200 was lost.

Plaintiff was formerly in the British Army, and said his counsel, Mr. B. A. Cohen, was through the Sudan campaign. On his return he met the defendant, who wished to use his services in connection with a certain railway company which his firm were promoting in Canada, called the Quebec and Lake Huron Construction company. Defendant suggested that plaintiff should become a director of the company, and should buy 250 shares to qualify him to hold that position. Plaintiff agreed to this, and also paid £200 for certain deferred shares, agreeing to go to Canada with the object of securing subsidies for the company. Defendant wrote plaintiff a letter, in which he "agreed for the sum of £200 to give you participation with myself, bedrock in the deferred shares." The company never, however, went to allotment, and defendant returned plaintiff the money paid for the qualifying shares. Plaintiff now sued defendant for the £200.

Plaintiff said he was in no sense a promoter of the company. Defendant did not join him in Canada as arranged, and he ultimately returned. He asked defendant for the return of the £200 on the ground that the negotiations had been broken off and that the company was not coming out. Mr. Romer Macklin (for the defendant) was it to be a company of which the share capital was to be £100,000, divided into 99,000 ordinary shares of £1 each, and 10,000 deferred shares of 1s each?

As far as I remember the transaction, if the scheme had gone through, £200 would not have been one-fifteenth part of these deferred shares?

I put it at one-twentieth. When you said the company was not formed, I take it you meant it had not been formed in the sense of acquiring this concession?

I meant they had not got the money subscribed.

Defendant, in his evidence, stated that plaintiff told him he could be of considerable assistance in connection with the Company in Canada, and asked witness if he could not take a participation with witness in some of the promotion profits. It was agreed that plaintiff should pay him £200 for a participation in his profits.

His Lordship: He had the same participation in the deferred shares as yourself?

Yes, my lord.

"I saw Sir Wilfrid Laurier," continued witness, in reference to the question of subsidies, "but when one got at close quarters with him he was like most Prime Ministers—very wary in what he said." (Laughter.)

His Lordship: Is that a characteristice?

I have not observed it.

His Lordship, in giving judgment, said he thought that by the agreement, said he thought that by the agreement in the event of Mr. Taylor not participating in profits as he expected, the fact that plaintiff had paid him £200 would not entitle him to receive that sum back. He had come to the conclusion that the parties were co-adventurers, and that it could not be said that the consideration had failed. There would accordingly be judgment for the defendant with costs.

CO-OPERATIVE BASIS

British Dominions United with Imperial Government by Creation of New Department.

LONDON, England, November 15.—Lord Elgin's despatch to Earl Grey and the other governors, dated September 21, is published here.

It is a formal official recognition of the new status of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, as dominions of the king, as distinct from Crown colonies like the West Indies. These self-governing dominions now have their own departments under the colonial office, and with it is linked a new secretariat of the Imperial conference. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's principal of British ministerial responsibility for the secretariat of the conference is carried out, while Mr. Deakin's plan of a separate and independent secretariat, the servant year in and year out of the Imperial conference and financed by the conference is rejected.

Mr. Just, who becomes permanent secretary of the Imperial conference, has served in the colonial office since 1878, and he is associated in control of the new dominions' department with Mr. Lucas, the senior assistant under the secretary of state for the colonies, while Mr. Lucas is again controlled by the permanent under secretary of state and the colonial secretary himself. Mr. Just will, however, correspond direct with Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the other colonial ministers through the governor-general. Time alone will show how far this seemingly elaborate machinery of control will allow of ready and efficient administration. What at first glance it seems most likely to affect is greatly to increase the importance of the high commissioner as the direct channel of communication between British and Canadian ministers. The efficiency of that channel has now been proved by long experience.

Mr. Just's brother is a member of the Canadian Appraisal Audit Company of Montreal, and another brother was formerly one of Sir Charles Tupper's secretaries, as high commissioner, and is now a leading official in the Canadian government emigration department.

ON THE EVE OF MARRIAGE

Ontario Man was Accidently Killed while Hunting.

HUNTSVILLE, Ontario, November 15.—William Knott, aged about 28 years, was passing through a thicket in a hunting expedition with two companions when one stumbled and fell. His rifle was accidentally discharged and the ball entered Knott's knee and he died from the loss of blood before medical aid arrived. Knott came originally from New Liskeard, Ontario. He is known throughout New Ontario as the discoverer of the first rich find at Larder Lake, and received $10,000 for his share of the claim. He came to Dorset recently to marry a young lady and the ceremony was to have been performed next week. He left his fiancée $25,000.

COMMITTED SUICIDE

President of Knickerbocker Trust Co. now in Liquidation overcome by Financial Worry.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Charles T. Barney, deposed president of the Knickerbocker Trust Company, and until recently a power in the financial world, died by his own hand in his East 38th street home yesterday.

Death was due to a bullet which entered his body just below the heart. His loans with the bank, it is said, are amply secured, and when he was forced from its presidency he was, to all intents and purposes, eliminated as a factor in banking circles.

In distress of mind over the dissipation of his private fortune and the loss of his high standing among business associates, intimate acquaintances find the drift that broke his health and reason.

And even much of his personal wealth might have been saved. At the moment that Barney was dying at his beautiful home, a few friends at a down-town office were concluding an arrangement by which the loose ends of the bank's many enterprises were to be gathered up and financed by a stock company which would at least rescue sufficient income to insure Mr. Barney's future financial condition.

The conference broke up at the announcement of the death. Mr. Barney's undoing came with the disclosures in the Knickerbocker Trust Company's management, which followed the failure of Otto Heinze & Company. Mr. Barney had been associated with O. T. and E. R. Thomas and Charles Morse, and when these three men eliminated from the banking business, suspicion was directed toward the Knickerbocker. On the afternoon of Oct. 21 the National Bank of Commerce notified the clearing house association that it would no longer clear the Knickerbocker. A meeting of the trust company's directors was hurriedly called. That night Mr. Barney resigned the presidency. The following day there was a run upon the Knickerbocker, which forced it to suspend. Mr. Barney took the matter greatly to heart. The receivers, however, soon determined that Mr. Barney's dealings with the institution were proper, and that so far as he was personally concerned, the bank was in no trouble. Freed from banking connections, he set about to straighten out his personal affairs but soon seemed to lose courage.

The circumstances of the tragedy showed that Mr. Barney was a victim of acute melancholy. His recent troubles weighed on him heavily and when friends sought to cheer him he repeatedly said: "It is no use; it is all over with me."
