KEEP COOL.

The high toned newspaper of which the Mayor is one of the owners and directors, devotes half a column of sickening adulation of that official, praising him as one of the greatest features that ever appeared on the political horizon, a very giant of intellect and ideal of correctness, honesty, etc., etc.

It also attempts to break the force of the Mayor's criticisms for the mayor's double shuffle to secure election to the mayoralty, but its explanations only excite the ridicule of the public, which fully understands the situation.

The mayor's close personal and political friends are not those who are especially concerned for the success of temperance reform, but nobody denies that Dr. McLeod has exerted himself in that line so that the combination of interests are expected to continue to the advantage of His Worship.

The Mayor's newspaper is very angry with the Herald for exposing the deal, and calls hard names, but any person under similar conditions would probably feel the same way.

We advise His Worship and his organ to keep cool for the campaign is likely to be a lengthy one, and bluster and bluff will not win.

The Mayor's unsuitability for a position of responsibility has been proved, and no fulsome flattery of His Worship will deceive the people, who are asked to float him into a position, where his negligence of public duty would further imperil the interests of those professions to serve.

CURRENT COMMENT.

It is to be hoped the Crockett and McLeod feud will not reach bloodshed stage, as affairs of that kind often do in Kentucky.

Now we know why Ald. J. King Kelly of St. John, did not run against the Attorney General. He does not like the smell of the common people.

An Oxford professor has discovered that the Sun spouted flames Friday morning, but none of it came this way. The thermometer was below the freezing point.

The friends of Mr. John Stanfield, the Tory candidate in Colchester, are booming as "a son of Colchester," but it turns out that he is a native of P. E. Island.

"What is hell?" is the suggestive enquiry at the head of an article in the Woodstock Sentinel. Search us. Possibly something like a hot political campaign in Carleton county.

Probably if Thos. F. Collins had had the blessing of a mother like Mrs. Steeves, the Hillsboro lady who kindly ministered to him in his last hours, he would not have met the ignoble end of death on the scaffold.

The Truro Sun seeks to make political capital against Mr. Charles Hill, the Liberal candidate in Colchester, because he has invested some of his means in western lands. Hi, there, Mr. Fowler, what have you to say to a canvass of that character?

Montreal Herald: The Toronto World has discovered that "there does not seem to be any dissatisfaction with Sir Wilfrid Laurier among his following." This will be good news to any anxious Liberals who might have been worrying about it.

The Fredericton Herald announces that Mr. John E. Moore is to become a government candidate here in place of Mr. George Robertson, who is to accept office.—Telegraph. (The Herald did not announce Mr. Moore as a candidate, but we stated that rumor associated his name with a place on the government ticket.)

Woodstock Sentinel: It looks as if there will be a big duel early in the parliamentary session between the leader of the opposition and the new Minister of Public Works. This will be for blood, and it should be pretty safe betting that when the fighting dies away the honors will be found with the suave New Brunswicker.

"Make me police magistrate of the city tomorrow, and I will guarantee to seal up the saloons so that the proprietors will think they were always sealed," was Dr. McLeod's declaration at a recent temperance meeting. Well, we cannot make the Doctor police magistrate for he is not qualified, but we have made a very near relative of his Mayor, and there doesn't seem to be much progress in the sealing business. Why?

The Telegraph suggests that Sir Frederick may make a statement in parliament respecting the insinuations of the Tory newspapers against his personal character. Perhaps he may, but in that case there should be a general experience meeting of parliamentarians, at which some Tory M. P.'s might be expected to unbosom themselves with respect to public discussion of their moral standing.

Colchester Tories have imported into that constituency a number of defeated candidates to stump for Mr. Stanfield. The list to date includes Mr. Ritchie, twice defeated by Mr. Fielding in Shelburne-Queens; Mr. Hanwright of Halifax, who was beaten in Hants; Mr. J. C. Mullin of Halifax, who was Mr. Borden's companion in disaster in the last election in that constituency, and Mr. C. R. Smith of Amherst, who was badly snowed under in an effort to secure election in Cumberland to the legislature.

Politics make strange political bedfellows. A despatch says that the editor of the local Tory organ and Mr. Hazen have been travelling together to Ottawa and back, and yet it is not so long ago that the editor in sizing up the local Tory leader, expressed the opinion that "Mr. Hazen has never proved himself to be a man of genius or even of great ability in any other line; he has taken no leading position in law or any other way; in fact he may be said to be the result of an accident. The fact that he always makes the same speech in the same way shows a poverty of intellect." Mr. Hazen's opinion of the editor is not on public record, but it is well known among his more intimate friends. And the two are travelling together. Well, well, well.

KILLED IN RUNAWAY

St. John County Farmer met Death in Street of the City.

William Secord, aged about sixty, a farmer belonging to Red Head, St. John county, had his skull fractured in a runaway accident in Princess street, St. John, yesterday afternoon and died early this morning in the General Public hospital. He and a boy driving with him were thrown from a load of hay but the boy escaped unhurt.

Mr. Secord and the lad drove into town with a single team load of hay for John A. Davidson. This was to be delivered at Mr. Davidson's barn at the foot of Princess street. About 4.30 o'clock the team reached the top of the steep Princess street hill, down which it was necessary to go to reach the barn. When about one-half the distance to Pitt street was reached the horse ran away and the sudden jolting caused Mr. Secord to lose his seat and he slid down the front part of the load.

It is thought he fell in front of the wheel and was run over, for one of his ears was almost torn from the head and it transpired afterwards, his skull was fractured.

Meanwhile the horse continued down the hill, the boy clinging to the top of the load. The cart struck the fence along the dump at the foot of the hill and this brought the horse to a standstill but it also dislodged the boy from his place and he fell to the ground. He was unhurt, however, and was able later to take charge of the horse.

Mr. Secord had been picked up by some workmen near by and Dr. Wm. Warwick was hurriedly called and the ambulance telephoned for. Dr. Warwick's examination brought the opinion that the man's skull was fractured and he ordered him to be taken to the hospital.

The injured man lingered unconscious through the evening and died about 12.30 o'clock this morning.

BANDIT KILLED

Exciting and Successful Chase After British Columbia Outlaw

KAMLOOPS, B. C., Nov. 16.—H. Stewart, murderer of Bob Williams, the Caribou trader, was himself shot and instantly killed by Donald Gordon, special constable under Chief Constable Fernie. The chase for the murderer had been a hard one, and he eluded his pursuers some days. He had abandoned the stolen horses, and the police were of the opinion that he had hidden in the mountains waiting for opportunity to double back to Edmonton.

Tuesday night an Indian woman, procuring water from the river saw a canoe slip by in the darkness, and this gave a clue that he was attempting to escape. A strict watch was kept on the river and all trails in the valley. Last night Donald Gordon and Duncan McLean came upon the man crouched in the bush. They immediately covered him and placed him under arrest. He gave up one revolver, and with the words "I have another gun," drew a 44 from his holster and shot point blank at McLean at such close range that the side of the constable's head was seared and powder-burned. Both specials shot and Gordon's bullet penetrated the outlaw's neck, severing the jugular vein. The dead man left his canoe above the fish rapids and had reached a point within eighteen miles of the town, when he met death.

CENTRAL PHARMACY ARTHUR J. RYAN

QUEBEC BANK ROBBERY

QUEBEC, November 16.—No clue has yet been discovered to place the detectives upon the track of the four burglars who robbed the Bank of St. John at Napierville at an early hour Thursday morning. The only topic of conversation in the village today is the story of the robbery and several of the inhabitants believe they had seen some strange men hovering about the locality within recent days.

Mrs. Fortin states that a few hours before the burglary took place she was standing at her door and saw two men pass up the main street. She thought, as they were strangers, that they were probably a couple of commercial travellers staying at the hotel, but the description given of them does not tally with any business visitors who have been in Napierville of late.

It is a fortunate thing for the Bank that the day before the burglary the president, Hon. Philippe Roy, took with him $5,000 to the headquarters of the bank at St. John. Had the men been a day earlier they would have secured a much heavier booty. The loss sustained by the bank is covered by insurance.
