

Events of a Day

FOOTBALL MATCH.

The McAdam football team arrived in the city by the noon train and are playing the R.C.R. team this afternoon. This evening the visitors will be entertained to a smoker at the barracks.

AN AUTO TRIP.

A party composed of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Norton-Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. F. Winslow left for Woodstock this afternoon in Mr. Winslow's automobile and expect to return on Monday.

BROUGHT HERE FOR BURIAL.

The body of the late Mrs. (Capt.) Lyon, formerly of this city, who died in Boston recently, arrived by the noon train, accompanied by her son, Mr. E. S. Lyon. It was removed to Christ Church Cathedral, where a funeral service was conducted at three o'clock this afternoon by Rev. Sub-Dean Street in the presence of a number of friends. Interment was made at the Rural cemetery. Undertaker John G. Adams was in charge of the arrangements.

CAME TO COLLEGE.

Messrs Fraser, Armstrong, George Cockburn and Royden Smith, three bright young men from St. Andrew's, arrived to-day to enter the University as undergraduates. Mr. Armstrong who is a son of Mr. R. E. Armstrong, editor of the St. Andrew's Beacon, is to take an engineering course, and during the past summer had had practical experience on the staff of the Intercolonial. All the young men are guests at Mrs. Colwell's University Avenue.

LOWER INSURANCE RATES.

Mr. Peter Clinch, Secretary of the New Brunswick Board of Fire Underwriters, spent yesterday in the city. In conversation with a Herald representative he stated that as soon as the people of St. Marys complete the water works system which they are now installing, they would come in for a substantial reduction in their insurance rates.

The Misses Upton left last evening for Portland, Maine, where they will spend the winter.

TREED BY A MOOSE.

Thrilling Experience of Two Fredericton Sportsmen While Hunting.

A resident of the Nashwaak who was in the city today had rather a sensational story to tell concerning the experience of a Fredericton business man, who recently left here in company with one of his travelling salesmen on a moose hunting expedition. The two sportsmen took to the woods somewhere in the vicinity of Covered Bridge, and having a shotgun and rifle along, and also a bird dog, were apparently equipped for all kinds of game. The salesman it seems had been boasting of his prowess as a moose caller and claimed that all he wanted was the opportunity and the moose, and he would show his companion how the trick was done. The companion on the other hand who is also given somewhat to boasting, guaranteed that if the moose could be enticed to a point within two hundred yards of him it would never get away alive. It appears that while rambling along over the portage road discussing business matters the twain came suddenly upon a young bull moose only a few yards away from them. The animal although somewhat surprised at the sudden intrusion did not run away as the two sports expected he would, but assumed a fighting attitude and gave vent to a succession of low grunts. It was plainly a challenge for a fight and so alarmed the two hunters, that they made a break for the two nearest trees and were soon safely perched in their branches while the plucky dog which was less expert as a climber started in to drive the enemy away. The moose, so the story goes, soon made friends with the dog, and after romping about with it for a time finally laid down to rest directly beneath the tree in which the business man had sought safety. This gave the salesman his opportunity and creeping stealthily down the further side of the tree to the ground and grabbed his gun and ran as fast as his legs could carry him to the settlement for help.

A couple of stalwart farmers were dispatched to the spot indicated and were not long in frightening the benighted moose away and rescuing the business man from his perilous position. It is said that so pleased was he to escape with his life that he afterwards sold each of his rescuers a bill of goods on time without interest. The business man's explanation for not shooting the moose was that he neglected taking his rifle up the tree with him.

BIG GAME HUNTERS.

Many Sportsmen in the City en Route Home from the Woods.

Dr. H. F. Tomb and W. E. Mittenberger of Johnstown, Pa., who have been hunting big game on the Crooked Deadwater with Mr. Alex Turnbull of Stanley as guide, arrived in the city today by the noon train. They each shot a fine moose as also did Dr. Matthews and Mr. W. G. Mittenberger, who accompanied them. The largest moose taken by the party had an antler spread of fifty six inches and thirty-eight points.

Messrs H. D. Williams and W. A. Stanton of Philadelphia and J. J. Brown of Pittsburg returned yesterday afternoon from a hunting trip to the headwaters of Little River. They did not succeed in getting a shot and attribute the reason of the fact of their being on the ground too early. They had Mr. W. H. Allen of Peniac for guide.

Mr. Frank E. Sibley, who has been gunning on Cain's River, with Mr. Richard Evans, of Zionville, as guide, returned to the city by I.C.R. express to-day. He brought with him the head of a moose with an antler spread of fifty inches, which he will take home as a trophy of the chase.

Messrs. George F. Dominick and E. F. Bator, of New York, who have been hunting at Mr. Arthur Robinson's camp at Holmes Lake, arrived in the city by the noon train today enroute home. They each shot a moose and a caribou with fair sized heads.

Mr. Fred H. Cowles, of New York, returned to the city today from a hunting trip to Trout Lake, made in company with Mr. William Griffin, the veteran guide of Cross Creek. He shot a moose with an antler spread of forty-five inches, and had a very enjoyable outing.

AROUND THE MARKET.

The market this morning was quite the equal of any this season, and a great deal of country produce, mostly of excellent quality, changed hands. Eggs were fairly plentiful at twenty-four cents per dozen, but the demand was brisk, and the supply exhausted by nine o'clock. Chickens were rather scarce, and brought from 75 cents to $1.00 per pair. Other prices were about as follows: Lamb, per lb. 10 and 12 Veal per lb.6 and 7 Potatoes per bbl. $1.00 Turnips per bbl.05 Cauliflowers each10 Corn per dozen80 Plums per peck12 Crab apples per peck01 Cucumbers each20 Tomatoes per peck $1.00 to $2.00 Apples per bbl. $1.00 to $2.00
