The Natural Cure For Rheumatism

"Fruit-a-tives" remove from the blood the poison which causes Rheumatism.

Rheumatism means poisoned blood. The kidneys, bowels and skin should rid the system of waste matter. If either of these vital organs become weakened or diseased, the body cannot throw off this waste fast enough.

One of these body poisons is UREA, which is eliminated both by the kidneys and skin. If the skin action is poor—if the kidneys are inflamed—urea stays in the system—changed into uric acid—carried by the blood to the nerves and joints—and causes Rheumatism.

"Fruit-a-tives" cure Rheumatism because they eliminate urea, by increasing the action of bowels, kidneys and skin. This is the only possible way in which Rheumatism can be cured to stay cured. And "Fruit-a-tives" is the only remedy in the world that completely eradicates the disease from the system.

"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in which the natural medicinal action of fruit is many times increased by the process of combining them.

Then tonics and antiseptics are added and the whole made into tablets. 50c. a box—$6 for $250. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

ODD THINGS WOMEN ARE DOING.

While hanging clothes, Mrs. S. A. has organized clubs of women which influence politics. She is a lawyer and can make an excellent political speech.

Mrs. John Dailey of Williamsport, Pa., thought she heard a rat gnawing in the closet and threw a shoe at the door, which made a loud thump. The "rat" was a bugler sawing at the front door and he was scared away.

When Mrs. Michael Skorpney of Milwaukee heard that her husband was in a saloon fight she went there, rushed among the ten fighting men and dragged her spouse by the collar into the street.

Mrs. Anna Barthleman, of Cleveland, broke a shotgun over the head of a negro who had broken into her house, and held him down with the aid of one of her daughters until another daughter summoned assistance. Miss Helen Varick Boswell is an active politician of New York. She

Miss Irene Denny, 16 years old, of Cleveland, recently beat a man with a gas pipe when he came into the store where she is cashier and said that he was sent in to examine the cash register.

BRYCE'S APPOINTMENT.

His Selection a Compliment from Mother Country to Her Progeny in the West.

London, Feb. 7.—The farewell banquet given last night by the London Pilgrims in honor of James Bryce, the new ambassador of Great Britain to the United States, was a notable Anglo-American event. The most prominent members of the government and representatives of all branches of English official society and literary life participated.

It was held at the Savoy Hotel, formerly the residence of Field Marshal Lord Roberts. The dining hall was superbly decorated, and the colors of Great Britain and the United States were inter-twined. Mr. Bryce occupied the seat of honor, at the right of the President, Ambassador Whitehead, and at Lord Roberts' left. The company included Sir Mortimer Durand, recently British ambassador at Washington, and the Japanese ambassador. The Japanese ambassador replying to the toast "The Guests," made a significant reference to Japanese-American relations. "I am glad," he said, "to be present at this demonstration to the new ambassador to the United States, with which country both Japan and Great Britain have maintained the most cordial relations."

TO MARK THEIR PRIDE.

Ambassador Reid, in proposing the health of Mr. Bryce, referred to the presence of the Archbishop of Canterbury and of conspicuous representatives of the government and parliament, the great universities, English literature, journalism, and business, all testifying to the pride with which his countrymen saw Mr. Bryce set forth on his new duties.

"The good will of the hour will not create any illusions as to the nature of those duties. He knows perfectly well that he is sent first to look scrupulously after the interest of his own country. We should not give him half so hearty a welcome ourselves if we did not expect that of him. But, next, he knew just as well that those interests in this country as in ours, are best promoted by keeping the peace. Of course, any diplomatist who does not steer his course by that North Star in these days is a mere apachism."

DUTY OF DIPLOMATS.

"But duty is now nowhere so clear, nowhere else so overpowering, as with the diplomatist in any way interested with responsibility for the relations between the two great nations nearest to each other in the whole world in history, language, blood, belief and common ideals and aspirations. That is an honorable task to undertake—promoting the tendencies of these great nations to keep in friendly touch with each other. There is none more so in the whole round of public service. Circumstances made it also for your guest an easy task."

"At the heads of the two governments stand the statesmen who, unsurpassed records as peacemakers—His Majesty King Edward VII. and Theodore Roosevelt. It is not too much to say that each has the confidence, not only of his own people, but of the world at large, in his desire for peace and his knowledge how to secure it. How well they are supported in their respective foreign offices is known to all who have business with them."

BETTER FEELING.

Mr. Bryce then reviewed the relations of Great Britain and the United States for the past century, and referred to the steady growth of better feeling between the two countries. He said he was encouraged by the thought that the message he had to deliver was a plain and simple one. It was a message, he said, of true sympathy, in word and deed; a message of friendship between Great Britain and America that both countries would stand unbroken, through all ages.

Sir Mortimer Durand, toasting the visitors, said that President Roosevelt's last words to him on leaving America were of congratulations upon the relations of the two countries. In the President's own words, "Nothing could be more satisfactory," said Sir Mortimer. War Secretary Haldane, Lord Roberts and others spoke, and a cable message from Joseph H. Choate from the Pilgrims in the United States was read.

INDULGENCE IN SENSELESS SLANG LESSENS A GIRL'S ATTRACTIVENESS.

With men slang is excused; with a schoolboy it is expected as a necessity; with a girl it is simply horrible. Many girls, though, pass through the "slangy stage," especially what we call "schoolgirls"—that is, all of you who are still in the "school room," and those who belong to a large family where there are plenty of brothers to introduce the latest new words.

Girls in their teens think it necessary to copy their friends in most things, and slang, naturally, comes under their notice. They even think it is rather fine to have coined a new word, and brought out a "patent" for it, and the poor, unfortunate little word is used until it is fairly done to death with so much execution. And those elders who hear this special language—if they are wise—smile with a superior smile and take no notice, for they will recognize these new, uncomfortable words as the "trade mark" of a school girl.

But though we can excuse you at the age of fourteen, and up to twenty, for using slang, after that, when your skirts have lengthened down and your hair ascended, then slang should be put away as a worn-out plaything belonging to your youthful and "silly" days.

Slang, however, has a very disagreeable habit of refusing to be shaken off in an easy way. The use of these certain words becomes, or seems to become, so essential in your conversation that to get rid of them appears to be like starting a fresh language. And it is because slang is so catching, and so clinging when it is caught, that I want to impress upon you the necessity of avoiding it as much as possible, and, also, any unnecessary forms of speech, and any words that are not strictly applicable to the conversation.

When you come to think that there are thousands and thousands of words of mind, and language is indeed a part of every man's character.

Remember that what you say may be regarded as revealing your thoughts. Therefore if your words are corrupt, so must your mind be. At least, it must have been at one time, or you would not have learned the words which you may now use quite thoughtlessly. But your words must convey to outsiders what is in your heart, so do choose those with a sensible and sound meaning, and not let slip off your tongue stupid and senseless words which very likely you do not mean.

There is no necessity, either, to go to the other extreme and be prudish in your talk, neither need you utterly avoid words which are harmless, although they may come almost under the catalogue of "slang," so long as there is some sense in them. But do, my dear girls, try to break yourselves of the habit—if you have it—of using senseless slang.

Try to raise the "tone" of your conversation; try to speak pure, good English. Use your words in their right places and never, even when you want to emphasize yourself, fall back upon that unstable and broken reed called "slang."

LOSING MUSCULAR POWER

The First Signs of Mental Decay-- The Warning of General Break-Down.

Changes in the nervous system manifest themselves slowly. They show first by muscular weakness a feeling that threatens paralysis, or by a fullness in the head that indicates approaching apoplexy.

It seems like stiffness but you soon discover there's a lack of power—that the endurance of this or that muscle is not what it ought to be. Your friends may notice a slight thickening of speech or that your memory is decidedly failing.

These symptoms may grow worse very quickly if they are not treated by Ferronze. You must build up the nervous system. This can be accomplished in no other way as thoroughly and permanently as by the use of Ferronze.

This remarkable remedy, which has cured tens of thousands of Canadian people, increases enormously the digestive power, stimulates the formation of blood, the rich, red kind that puts new life into the nerves.

The first signs of these changes is increased strength.

Natural circulation quickly follows, and that fullness in the head, so disturbing and alarming, too, quickly passes away.

These changes are wrought in a natural way, for the reason that Ferronze treats the causes that excite these troubles.

For the aged and weak who need strength for those run-downs and thin, for the sickly and nervous who lack staying power—nothing compares with Ferronze.

No tonic gives such lasting good health; try it yourself. Sold by all dealers in 50c. boxes.

WAASIS STATION.

Feb. 5.—The weather of the past week has been very cold. There was quite a heavy snow storm on Tuesday last.

Our school has re-opened under the skillful management of Miss Mabel Gaynor.

Miss Gerrie Phillips made a flying trip to Rusagons last week.

Ottie and Roy Dewar have returned from the lumber woods.

Rev. Mr. McLeod is holding special meetings here this week.

Miss Leslie Nason is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Gereau of Rusagons.

Mr. Alex Boyle has returned home, and was the guest of Miss G. Phillips last week.

Miss Luke Nason and Mrs. John Stanix of Frenchville, were the guests of Mrs. P. Lowney on Sunday last.

The birthday party held at Mrs. M. Grass' was a success. All reported having a jolly time.

ASTONISHED THE DOCTOR.

Mrs. Eaton Recovering, Although her Physicians said she Might Drop Dead any time.

"The Doctor told me I had heart disease and was liable to drop on the street at any time," says Mrs. Robert Eaton, of Dufferin, Ont.

"My trouble began four years ago with a weak heart. I was often afraid to draw my breath, it pained me so. I was bothered with nervousness, shortness of breath, dizziness, loss of appetite, smothering and sinking spells, and I could not sleep."

"Sometimes a great weakness would seize me and I would have to lie down to keep from falling. My hands and feet would seem to go to sleep and a numbness would come over me and perhaps immediately after the blood would rush to my head and a series of hot flashes would envelop me."

"I took all kinds of medicines, but kept gradually growing worse until about eight weeks ago, when I began using Dr. Leonard's Anti-Pill."

"From the start I improved until now my appetite has returned, I can sleep well, and have no nervousness, dizziness, palpitation, faintness, or any of my other troubles. They have all entirely disappeared. I feel much stronger, look better, and altogether Anti-Pill has made a new woman of me."

"I am entirely cured and cannot say too much for this wonderful remedy. I would most heartily recommend Anti-Pill to anyone suffering as I did."
