Drive Bridge CountersAT*THE HERALD OFFICE*A LAZY LIVER

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over-work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver complaint," or torpid liver, by its wonderful control over the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system of poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

Symptoms. If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressing feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, bitter or sour "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, or biliousness, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver, or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

Of Golden Seal root, which is one of the prominent ingredients of "Golden Medical Discovery," Dr. Roberts Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, says: "Very useful as a stomachic (stomach) tonic and in atonic dyspepsia. Cures gastric (stomach) catarrh and headaches accompanying same."

Dr. Grover Coe, of New York, says: "Hydrastis (Golden Seal root) exercises an especial influence over mucous surfaces. Upon the liver it acts with equal certainty and efficacy. As a cholagogue (liver invigorator) it has few equals." Dr. Coe also advises it for affections of the spleen and other abdominal viscera generally, and for scrofulous and glandular diseases, cutaneous eruptions, indigestion, debility, chronic diarrhea, constipation, also in several affections peculiar to women, and in all chronic derangements of the liver, also for chronic inflammation of bladder, for which Dr. Coe says "it is one of the most reliable agents of cure."

Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati, author of the AMERICAN DIETETIC, gives it a prominent place among medicinal agents, reiterates all the foregoing writers have said about it, as does also Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati. Dr. Scudder says: "It stimulates the digestive processes and increases the assimilation of food. By these means the blood is enriched.  the consequent improvement on the glandular and nervous systems are natural results." Dr. Scudder further says, "in relation to its general effect upon the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic, useful in all debilitated states * * *"

Prince Wilhelm of Sweden told a New York reporter that Americans all worked hard and looked happy.

In my country, the Prince went on, we work hard too, but we have not your happy look. Perhaps it is the climate. At any rate, we tell a story that will give you some idea of our national expression, though not, I'm sure, of our national character.

A Frenchman visited a Swede in Stockholm, and one morning the two friends set out for a walk. Suddenly the Frenchman exclaimed impatiently:

You look as sour as a pickle. Why don't you smile? Why don't you have pleasant, good-natured air when you are out of doors?

What! growled the Swede. And have everybody stopping me for a match or asking me how to get somewhere!

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of Golden Seal root: "It is a most superior remedy in catarrhal gastritis (inflammation of the stomach), chronic constipation, general debility, in convalescence from protracted fevers, in prostrating night-sweats. It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb." (This agent, Golden Seal root, is an important ingredient of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for women's weaknesses, as well as of the "Golden Medical Discovery.") Dr. Ellingwood continues, "in all catarrhal conditions it is useful."

Much more, did space permit, could be quoted from prominent authorities as to the wonderful curative properties possessed by Golden Seal root.

We want to assure the reader that "Golden Medical Discovery" can be relied upon to do all that is claimed for Golden Seal root in the cure of all the various diseases as set forth in the above brief extracts, for its most prominent and important ingredient is Golden Seal root. This agent is, however, strongly reinforced, and its curative action greatly enhanced by the addition, in just the right proportion, of Queen's root, Store root, Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot, Mandrake root, and chemically pure glycerine. All of these are happily and harmoniously blended into a most perfect pharmaceutical compound, now favorably known throughout most of the civilized countries of the world. Bear in mind that each and every ingredient entering into the "Discovery" has received the endorsement of the leading medical men of our time, who, for reasons stated above, in the highest terms, commend it to the public. What other medicine put up for sale through druggists can show any such professional endorsement? For dyspepsia, liver troubles, all chronic catarrhal affections of whatever name or nature, lingering coughs, bronchitis, throat and lung affections, the "Discovery" can be relied upon as a sovereign remedy.

A little book of extracts treating of all the several ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines, being extracts from standard medical works, of the different schools of practice will be mailed free to any one asking (by postal card or letter), for the same, addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and giving the writer's full post-office address plainly written.

Not long ago a young lady of Macol Ga., visited the home of her fiancée in New Orleans. On her return home an old colored woman, long in the service of the family, and consequently privileged to put the questioned, asked:

"Honey, when is yer gwine ter git married?"

The engagement not having been announced, the Macol girl smilingly replied:

"Indeed, I can't say, auntie. Perhaps I shall never marry."

The old woman's jaw fell.

"Ain't dat a pity, now!" she said. "But, after all, missy, dey do say dat ole maids is de happiest critters dere is, once dey quits strugglin'."

USELESS TROUBLE.

Tomlinson's Experience While on a Southern Business Trip.

Tomlinson had gone south on business, and early one morning he set out to call on a customer several miles from town. There were no transportation facilities, and Tomlinson after having found that he couldn't even hire a horse decided to walk. He had accomplished a little more than half of his journey when he arrived at the bank of a river, where a robust negro operated a ferry.

Dipping into his pockets for the necessary change, Tomlinson discovered with considerable chagrin that he had left his money at the hotel. He hadn't a cent with him. Assuming a bold front, however, he asked:

"Eh, do you take people across the river?"

"Well, boss, Ah reckon hit wouldn't do me no good ter opehrate dis yeh ferry of Ah didn't."

"Come, then; take me over. I'm in a hurry."

"Ah on'y chahges 5 cents."

Tomlinson again felt in all his pockets and, failing to find a coin of any kind, said:

"Very well; that will be all right. I forgot to bring any change with me but I'll pay you when I come back."

"Ain't yo' all got 5 cents?"

"No, I forgot to bring my pocket-book. But it will be all right. I'll pay you when I return. Come, I'm in a hurry."

"All Ah chahges is 5 cents."

"I know," Tomlinson impatiently replied, again searching his pockets. "I don't happen to have the change, but never mind about that. I'll be coming back this way in a little while, and I'll pay you then."

"Jes' 5 cents. Dat's all Ah eber chahges fo' takin' enybody oveh."

"I understand that fully, but it will be all right. I must get over immediately. Hurry now! I can't afford to waste time listening to your explanations. I don't object to your price."

"An' yo' all ain't got 5 cents?"

"No, no, no! How many times must I tell you that I forgot to bring any money with me?"

"Hit's on'y 5 cents."

"You've told me that a dozen times. I'll see that you get it when I return."

"An' yo' all hasn't got 5 cents?"

"Confound you! Do you suppose I'd stand here wasting time if I had? Come now, hurry. I must get over there at once."

"Well, boss, hit seems ter me dat a man whut ain't got 5 cents might jes' as well be on one side ob de ribber as de yutheh."—Judge

The Venturesome Squirrel.

I have often wondered what passes through the minds of small creatures when they find themselves in strange places. This occurred to me very forcibly one day when I stood for half an hour watching the antics of a gray squirrel that had tried to cross a road on a two-inch cable and whose progress was not only blocked by the huge traveling steel bucket used to carry earth from an excavation to wagons, but when it got in the bucket's way it was compelled to run at top speed every time the bucket came toward it. But the moment the latter began to ascend the cable the squirrel, as cocky as ever, scrambled along behind.

GRULL BACKACHES.

The Trouble Usually Due to Poor Blood—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the Cure.

There is a common notion that backache is a sign of kidney disease, but this is absolutely wrong. Not one backache in a thousand has anything to do with the kidneys. Hundreds of people die of kidney disease who never had a backache—and hundreds who suffer continually from backache have nothing wrong with their kidneys. By far the most common cause of backache is muscular rheumatism. Nearly all the rest of the backaches are due to weakness and poor, watery blood, or in the case of growing girls and women, to those secret ailments that make the lives of so many of that sex miserable. Don't let a backache frighten you into the belief that you have kidney trouble. What is really needed to cure the average backache is a tonic, blood-building medicine, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the greatest blood making medicine science has yet discovered. Every dose actually makes new, rich blood, thus curing such common ailments as anaemia, headache, backache, heart palpitation, indigestion, neuralgia, rheumatism and the ailments of girlhood and womanhood. Mrs. Geo. Gee of Stratford, Conn., says: "I was so run down and was tormented with headaches and backaches and dizzy spells. I doctored for a long time but was no better than when I began. Then I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they completely restored my health."

Get the genuine pills with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around the box. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Many Cases.

Say That Spring fever is Prevalent. Don'ts Feet Drowsy, Gull, I I Tired.

In the spring time the vigor and resisting power of the body fall very low. Instead of being rich and nourishing, the blood is thin and watery. As a result the bodily forces become less active, sleep fails to bring rest. An ever-increasing tiredness develops into over-powering weakness.

People suffering from this spring sickness feel heavy and drowsy; they don't want to eat, they don't enjoy work—about half sick and half well. This is just the condition that favors pneumonia and typhoid, and you must build up as quickly as possible. You must increase your blood supply and make it rich and red.

The only way this can be done is by using Ferrozone, which is acknowledged to be the most efficient spring medicine.

The marvelous purifying and tonic properties of Ferrozone are quickly felt, because the blood is at once supplied with the elements it needs, to become rich and red. It is ironized, vitalized and rapidly brought to its normal strength.

The very best ingredients for toning up the system are contained in Ferrozone, and if you use it you are sure to get back your old-time strength and spirits.

If you suffer from debility, insomnia, nervousness, loss of appetite, or any of the symptoms of disordered blood, nothing will so rapidly tone you up as this great food tonic Ferrozone. Its record of successful cures is its recommendation by the public, by druggists and doctors' comments to every thinking person.

You need Ferrozone to make you well. Why not get it today? Sold by all druggists, price 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50.

VALUE OF A MOUSTACHE.

Owner Assessed It at $250, a Jury at Five Dollars.

William Smith, a commercial traveler, of Wadsworth, England, recently brought action against a dentist to recover $250 damages for the loss of his moustache.

Mr. Smith stated that he went to Mr. Cox's surgery to have a tooth stopped, and at the assistant's suggestion, he agreed to have his teeth sealed. When this was being done the hair of his moustache became entangled in the machine, and some of it was torn out by the roots.

"The whole of one side of my lip was bald before I realized what had happened," he continued plaintively. "The assistant became very excited, and used a brush, scarcely knowing what he was doing, and tried to brush part of the centre of the moustache over the bald portion."

"The assistant offered to put a hairdresser for putting the moustache right," Mr. Smith declared. "I saw Mr. Cox, and he advised me to have a clean shave. He said he had known a man to have the centre of his moustache pulled out."

"I replied, 'Shave.' Indeed, no, not after twenty years." In cross-examination Mr. Smith said he was satisfied that he would never have a proper moustache again, and that he would probably have to have it shaved off.

"I suffered great pain," he added, "but it is not for that I am asking damages—it is for the great disfigurement. It has been a constant worry to me."

"Much depends on the value of a moustache," said the judge. "Some people may think them valuable, and others that they are worthless. Whether Mr. Smith would look better without one is a matter for the jury." The jury awarded Mr. Smith one guinea damages.

Died at His Post.

Dying in his signal-box at Peterborough, Northants, England, the other day, a signalman nobly did his duty and averted a possible railway disaster. The man, whose name was Edward Woods, aged 52, was suddenly taken ill while alone in the signal-box at Peterborough, on the Great Northern Railway. He had just passed a train, but, remembering the fact that his further inactivity would result in grave peril to passengers, he blocked the line and died. Death is supposed to have been caused by heart disease. A pathetic feature of the tragedy is that Mrs. Woods is lying dangerously ill. The brave action of Woods is similar to a deed performed some time ago at Maidene West Junction, Monmouthshire, when Signalman Morgan locked his levers and set his signals at danger at the moment of becoming insensible from sudden paralysis. The advisability of having more than one signalman in a box in case of sudden illness, has often been the subject of discussion. Early last year a signalman named Greenhalgh was found dead in his cabin near Blackburn, on the Lancashire and Yorkshire main line, having apparently been seized with a fit. The discovery was made by a driver of a train who found the signal of Greenhalgh's box against him, and, getting no response to his repeated whistles, sent his fireman to see what was the matter.

Red and Dark Hair.

Dark hair and complexion in races as well as in individuals signify strength. Dark skinned races are always behind the lighter hued peoples in the civilization because the physical predominates among them to the exclusion of the mental. Coarse red hair indicates marvelous physical endurance.

The Sabre.

The sabre is an oriental weapon. It was introduced into the French cavalry in 1710.
