WHY THE BROOK SINGS.

How the Nightingale Lost Its Once Brilliant Plumage.

Long, long ago, thousands of years before man came on the earth, the nightingales were the most splendid plumage of any bird. As they were also the sweetest singers, as now, you may imagine that none was their superior in the bird world.

Of course the nightingales were very proud. This was natural. One young fellow, however, became so vain as to be almost unbearable.

"Who is so fine a singer as I? Who has so handsome a dress as I?" This was the burden of his song day after day.

But the time came when the young nightingale warbled no more in the moonlight. A fairy, tired of listening to his boasting, came to him. "This night with you cease your trilling. Hereafter you will sing and sing and sing, but not the notes of the nightingale. And your relations will wear a less brilliant garb from this time."

All at once the nightingale became a little brook. The brooks, which heretofore were silent, now murmured softly and musically, but the vain nightingale no longer burst into glorious melody of song.

As for the other nightingales, although they continued to sing as sweetly as ever, their plumage became a modest reddish brown color instead of having its former radiant hues. So were they punished.

MEASURING A TREE.

Ingenious Method Pursued by the Maine Woodsmen.

If you were a woodcutter and somebody told you to cut down a pine tree that would give a sixty foot mast for a vessel, how would you go about selecting a tree? You could not spare the time to measure it with a tape line even if that method were practicable. Besides, being a woodcutter you should be able to select a tree of a certain height readily, not by merely looking at it, for this at best is nothing but guesswork.

Now, the woodcutters of Maine have a quick and simple way of taking the measure, and it is worth telling. Assuming that a mast sixty feet in height is wanted, the cutter selects a tree that he thinks will furnish it and then measures off on the ground from the trunk sixty feet less his own height. If he is six feet tall, therefore, he would measure off on the ground fifty-four feet. At this point he puts upright in the ground a pole exactly his own height. Then he lies down on the ground with his feet to the pole, so that his head is just sixty feet from the tree. Lying thus, face upward, of course, he sights over the top of the pole, and the point on the tree trunk on a line with the top of the pole is pretty sure to be sixty feet from the ground.

Mounted Fishermen.

On the Californian coast they fish on horseback. After a big blow enormous numbers of squid, are sometimes seen washing about among the pounding breakers. When such news comes to the town every man or boy who can beg or borrow a horse goes galloping down to the beach, armed with a six-foot bamboo, at the end of which is a strong steel hook. They dash into the surf, and driving the sharp steel into the squirming jelly-like creatures haul them ashore one by one, and leave them lying high and dry upon the beach, pumping ink and water, and with their long, sucker-rimmed arms coiling about like snakes. These squid sell for a couple of shillings apiece. Their flesh is good for bait; the pen, a long, opal-tinted bone which extends from the tip of the tail to the neck of the animal, forms the cuttle-fish bone of commerce, and the eyes, which when dried look like large dull pearls, find a ready sale among curio dealers.

Fishing in Nigeria.

Natives of Nigeria are remarkably skilful anglers, and their manner of catching fish recommends itself alike for simplicity and success. The fisherman grasps a small line weighted at the other end with a small stone, and at regular distances along the line he attaches a number of hooks, made of animals' bones in the form of a narrow V, while to the angle of each V is fastened a short line, made of sinews, and baited with a kind of snail. The fish, swallowing the bait and the line, swallows also the hook, which is so acted upon by the tension of the line, as to expand its two prongs, and fasten them firmly in the throat. The victim struggles and whirls about the line, thus attracting its family and neighbors, to swallow the same snare.

Ancient Craft Guilds.

The first notice of labor unions was when Plutarch wrote of various craft guilds as having existed in the Roman and Greek dominions. From Rome the idea was passed on to the young nations that followed, and in the middle ages the guilds were to be found everywhere. A guild was a voluntary association of those living near together who joined for a common purpose, paying contributions, feasting together temporarily, helping one another in sickness and poverty and sometimes uniting for the pursuit of special objects. It was undoubtedly from these early associations that the idea of the modern labor organizations came.

Some of Each.

"Somebody told him that he mustn't drink tea water during the hot weather, and somebody else told him that he must let alcoholic beverages alone. You know how very obstinate he is."

"Yes."

"Well, he mixes the two."

Heavy Roll.

Reggy Sapp—I can feel that I am surrounded by thought waves from my own head.
Miss Tabasco—Thought waves! Gracious! Now I know why you look so pale—you are seasick.

ARE YOU NERVOUS?

Nervousness and sleeplessness are usually due to the fact that the nerve re not fed on properly nourishing food, they are starved nerves. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes pure, rich blood and thereby the nerves are properly nourished and all the organs of the body are run as smoothly as machinery which runs in oil. In this way you feel clean, strong and vigorous—you are toned up and invigorated, and you are good for a whole lot of physical or mental work. Best of all, the strength and increase in vitality and health are lasting.

Trouble with most tonics and medicines which have a large booming sale for a short time, is that they are largely composed of alcohol holding the drugs in solution. This alcohol shrinks up the red blood corpuscles, and in the long run greatly injures the system. One may feel exhilarated and better for the time being, yet in the end weakened and vitality increased. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery contains no alcohol. Every bottle of it bears upon its wrapper The Badge of Honesty, a full list of all its several ingredients. For the druggist to offer you something he claims is "just as good" is to insult your intelligence.

Just because a young woman tells a young man that she dreamed of him the night before, he has no authority to feel elated. She may have had the nightmare.

SHE WEARS LARGE BOOTS.

Has to do account of corns—but they can be cured in twenty-four hours with Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Use no other but Putnam's.

A CRIME THAT IS NOT PUNISHABLE.

How many people reading this article have gone into a drug store and asked for some well known and highly tried medicine and some unscrupulous druggist has said, "Yes I have that, but have you ever tried this remedy, it is just as good and costs less." Any druggist doing this has not the interest of your health at heart, but the interest of his pocket, as he can make more profit out of the cheap substitute.

For the protection and benefit of the public, we wish to say that Dr. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY has been used in thousands of homes for the past sixty-three years and has never failed to give prompt relief and cure in all cases of Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Stomach Cramps, Summer Complaint, Sea Sickness, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus and all fluxes of the Bowels. When you buy Dr. FOWLER'S, you are not experimenting with a new and untried remedy, but are getting one that has stood the test of time.

Miss Lettie Reid, Vivian, Ont., writes: "Last year I suffered untold agony from cramps in the stomach and did not know what to do until a friend suggested I should try Dr. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY and as I was glad to try anything I purchased a bottle.

"When I had taken four doses I found relief and since then I never fail to keep a bottle in the house."

THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK

Review of Liberal Prospects in the Various Provinces of Canada

(Montreal Herald.)

If the Conservatives papers see fit to apply to the Saskatchewan election the argument they have so freely applied to the provincial elections in New Brunswick and Ontario, they will be driven to concede that the West is still solid for Laurier. It is a poor rule that does not work both ways. If the Federal elections were presently to be announced, therefore an interesting comparison might be made as to the strength of the opposing parties, in view of the elections that have taken place. British Columbia, now solidly Liberal at Ottawa, has gone Conservative in Provincial politics. Assuming that to give the Conservatives an advantage, it is still true that the four out of seven Liberal members who are likely to stand for re-election will take a lot of beating, and will probably win. In Alberta there is every indication that the Conservatives will be doing well if they pull through with one member out of seven. In Saskatchewan we see what has happened, and it would not be surprising if, in a general election, the whole ten ridings went Liberal. The fibre of the Manitoba Liberals is too well known to admit of anybody's believing that they will be beaten in all the ridings. Putting the case at the worst they will hold five seats, despite all Mr. Roblin and his list manipulators can do. Allowing three for British Columbia, five for Alberta, eight for Saskatchewan, and five for Manitoba, we have, on a moderate estimate, a Laurier strength of twenty-one from the west.

Passing to the other seaboard Nova Scotia stands at present sixteen Liberals to one Conservative. There are three other seats where a hard contest would put the issue in doubt. Fourteen, however, is a perfectly safe count for Nova Scotia. In Prince Edward Island the score stands one Liberal to three Conservatives. For purposes of reckoning it may be left at that. What hope may be based upon the election of Mr. Hazen in New Brunswick does not appear, but assuming it can be taken as a presage that the present Liberal majority in the Federal representation will not be maintained, it seems at least certain that five Liberals will be elected; if their opponents can get eight seats they will consider themselves lucky. Altogether therefore, it seems again a moderate estimate to count twenty seats for Laurier in the Maritime Provinces. That with the West, makes thirty-one. Quebec showed its disposition last June. It is fairly deducible from what happened in the June election that the Liberals can take fifty-five out of the sixty-five seats if they want to. Nobody would give them less than fifty. Taking the lower number, the Government comes out of Ontario with a minimum of ninety or ninety-one, and twenty Ontario seats out of the eighty-six would give the necessary majority. The present Liberal strength in Ontario is thirty-nine. If it can be maintained, Laurier morally holds a majority of nearly forty in the new parliament. It would have to be reduced below twenty for the Government to be in danger. Is it likely to be? That is the question which contains the essence of the election. Evidently the Liberal party is in no mood to lose one of its thirty-nine seats. Ontario is to be made the battle ground of the campaign. Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Graham are going together on a tour of the province, and it is estimated that Mr. Fielding, Mr. Fisher and Mr. Lemieux will follow, with, of course, Mr. Aylesworth, Mr. Paterson and the other Ontario leaders. And what have the Opposition to present by way of resistance to this formidable host? After all, Mr. Foster cannot be everywhere.
