THE ISLAND CAMPAIGN

Fielding and Marcell Addressed Big Liberal Meeting at Montague--Close Their Tour Tonight at Charlottetown.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Sept. 22.—(Special)—Fifteen hundred people packed the auditorium at Montague last night, at the most enthusiastic Liberal demonstration in the history of King's county.

The speakers were J. J. Hughes, M. P., Fielding and Marcell.

All three were in fine form, and delivered rousing speeches. They were cheered again and again, and judging from indications, King's county will again return Hughes in triumph.

The Finance Minister spoke of the achievements of the Laurier government, dealing with the progress of the country as demonstrated by the increase in population, value of lands and the marvelous expansion of trade. He illustrated the force of the atavistic "wise expenditure is true economy, and appealed to the patriotic feelings of his hearers as he pictured the wonderful development of Canada, a development stimulated by the construction of the National Transcontinental railway, and the improvement of the transportation facilities.

The work of the tariff commission, the results of the British preference, the French treaty, were other themes at large discussed. He defined the so-called "adequate" protection policy of Mr. Borden, and effectively disposed of the Tory contention that Liberals had adopted the old National policy.

The decrease in the tariff, the increase in revenues, the successful administration of the post office department were also discussed, and the meeting closed amid a storm of cheers.

The Hon. Charles Marcell gave an eloquent review of the record of the Laurier government, taking up a number of points not covered by Mr. Fielding.

Mr. Marcell's speech was marked by lofty tone and by broad statesmanship, and his closing peroration was a magnificent oratorical effort.

Senator Robertson presided at the meeting, which will long be remembered at Montague.

Mr. Fielding made a triumphal tour of the Island, and leaves a splendid impression.

Tonight they close their campaign in P. E. I. by addressing a monster demonstration in the Charlottetown Arena, the largest building procurable.

MARYSVILLE ROBBERY

Mr. F. S. Williams' Store Looted of Goods Valued at $150--Two Men Arrested for the Crime

The large general store of Mr. F. S. Williams and Company, at Marysville, was broken into some time during last night, and over $150 worth of dry goods and jewellery, and cigars were taken.

When the proprietor, Mr. Williams, reached his store this morning, he found that the large plate glass door in the front of the building had been broken, apparently by a large deal end, which lay in the doorway.

On entering the store Mr. Williams found everything in confusion, boxes were overturned, drawers stood open, goods were scattered around the floor, on which were also strewn several cards of burned matches. On examining his goods, so far as he could learn, articles in the vicinity of one hundred and fifty dollars were stolen.

Mr. Williams immediately reported the matter to the Marysville police. Policeman Saunders immediately took up the case, and so promptly did he act, that by nine o'clock he had two men, Louis Martel, better known in Marysville as Joseph Morrell, and Sterling Hazlewood, behind the bars of the Marysville lockup, charged with the crime. A search was made of Martel's room at Forbes' hotel, and two shoe boxes, filled with jewellery and cigars were found.

Martel or Morrell was only released from jail in this city a few days ago, and it is claimed has a general bad record. He has been working in the saw mill at Marysville since going to that town. It is understood he was at one time in the Royal Canadian Regiment. Hazlewood belongs to Marysville.

The prisoners were brought to this city and on being arraigned before Col. Marsh in the police court, consented to be tried by him. His Honor remanded them to the county jail until to-morrow morning to allow time to procure witnesses.

Last spring Morrell was convicted of stealing clothing from the Lorne Hotel and was sentenced to three months imprisonment in the county jail, securing his release only a short time ago. He is suspected of having been concerned in the robbery of the King Lumber Company's store at Minto last spring.

DISCHARGED FROM CUSTODY

Mr. James Ross, the St. John man who was lately released from jail on payment of a fine of $10 and costs was arrested by Gunter Bros. in a civil suit brought against him for injuring the horse. On going before Judge Wilson and making oath that he was not possessed of any property, he was released from custody. It is said that Ross was compelled to leave St. John a short time ago on account of some trouble which he got into over a horse and rig. The experience of Gunter Bros. should be a warning to livery stable keepers against hiring horses to everything in the shape of a man that happens along.

Montreal Suffering From Result of Tory Leader's Visit

MONTREAL, Sept. 22.—(Special)—The fog is so dense that it is seriously interfering with navigation. The Montezuma was ready to sail, but is still at her moorings, not daring to venture out.

Four vessels are in the river, but are at anchor, the Hesperian, Montrose, Lake Manitoba, and the Englishman.

The ferry service is stopped, the trains are all behind time, and the street cars are running slowly. At noon it brightened up but did not allow of navigation.

(It may be noted that Borden, Hazen, Roblin, and Hanna spoke at Montreal on Saturday.)

TRIUMPHAL TOUR

Laurier's Progress Through Ontario, L. of a Great Conqueror Spoke to 8,000 People at Tilbury.

TILBURY, Ont., Sept. 22.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier and G. P. Graham received another splendid welcome here yesterday. There were 8,000 visitors in town and the streets were gaily decorated.

Sir Wilfrid in his speech thanked the people for their unparalleled demonstration and claimed that the government had done nothing to forfeit the confidence of the people.

An address was presented from the daughters of farmers in the neighborhood and the premier gallantly kissed the young lady, Miss Corbett, who read it.

After paying tributes to the candidates for election who were with him on the platform, the premier referred to parliament's dissolution. He said he thought the time had come to consult the people. There were great works in hand and the government wanted to be assured whether it had kept faith which the people had three times reposed in it. He was confident the verdict would be the same as at the last three elections. There was no cause, he said, why the people should have lost confidence in him and his ministers.

Appealing to old reformers, he reminded them of representative government won by Baldwin and Laton-taine, of the representation by population won by George Brown and of confederation, the policy of Brown, made use of by the Conservative party. It was left for the reformers of today to carry out the principles of confederation for the protection of minorities, and the guardianship of the people's rights. That was the record of the Liberal party.

SCOUTS SCANDAL TALK

He said the Conservatives had brought forward no great principles and could point to no great glories. Their one cry was simply a cry of scandal. He was bound to say for the Conservative party that they always shone in the words calling for purity, but not in deeds.

Citing the case of the Ross rifle and Hodgins' charges which he said were exploded scandals, the premier continued:

"And so it will be with all the other scandals. I have no doubt whatever that the day will come when he is dead and gone, Laurier will be held up as a model and pattern of virtue."

In the parliament which had just ended, he said, not a charge had been brought up against the government itself. It was not like the accusations launched against the Conservative government in 1873 and 1891 at the time of the Pacific scandal, and in 1893 at the time of the Lake St. John scandal. Certain charges had been made against officials, but he had reason to believe they were Tory officials who had been guilty of malpractices. It was possible there were some black sheep among the government employees, but they did not need to be told by the opposition to get rid of them. They would do the job themselves.

Turning to civil service reform, the premier ridiculed the idea that this plank was stolen from Mr. Borden's platform. Civil service reform had been in the air for twenty years at least. He would be very glad, he said, if Mr. Borden would convert Mr. Hanna and the Ontario government to civil service reform.

Hon. Geo. P. Graham, in a short address, defended the sale of semi-arid lands to the Saskatchewan Valley Land Company as no scandal but one of the most creditable acts of the Liberal government. He explained the financing of the National Transcontinental road and dwelt at some length on the work of the railway commission.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Even the ladies in Ontario are presenting complimentary addresses to Laurier.

Mr. MacKenzie King, deputy minister of labor, who has done so much to settle labor disputes in Canada, has been unanimously nominated for parliament by the Liberals of North Waterloo, his native county, and has accepted. The riding has been represented for some years by Mr. Seagram, the whiskey distiller.

The Tories stabbed the late Hon. A. G. Blair as they are now stabbing Hon. Dr. Pugsley, and Mr. Hazen was among those who were foremost in the effort to discredit New Brunswick's greatest son, to whom he had the nerve to pay tribute in his Opera house speech.

Mr. O. S. Crockett, in his campaign of 1904 declared that the Transcontinental railway would never be built through New Brunswick, and today hundreds of thousands of dollars are flowing into the pockets of the people in this province from the construction of that great road. Mr. Crockett deceived the people of York in 1901, but he cannot do so a second time.

Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, minister of justice—the man who raked Mr. Foster on the land deal business, until the ex-prohibition apostle cried for quarter—is back from Europe in excellent health, and ready for the political battle. His hearing has much improved, and his physicians advise him that the trouble will entirely disappear. Mr. Aylesworth will again contest North York.

The highway act of the late government called for a poll tax of one dollar on every man under 60 years of age, and a 12 cents tax on every $100 of property. Mr. Hazen's road law doubled the poll tax to $2.00, and raised the property rate on every $100 from 12 cents to 20 cents. The men of York will have an opportunity of resenting the increased Tory tax when they go to the polls on Oct. 26.

HE DRAWS THE LINE

At Tilbury, Ontario, on Monday, an address from the farmers daughters of Kent and Essex, was presented to Sir Wilfrid Laurier by Miss Corbett. Accepting the manuscript from the hands of the young lady, Sir Wilfrid stooped and kissed her, then turning to the audience with a graceful gesture he said: "I have no doubt that all of you have read in the papers that I am a very bad man, you have just seen an example of my corruption. (Laughter) I usually draw the line at fourteen. (Great laughter.)"

SYDNEY, N. S., Sept. 22.—(Special)—Alex. Johnson, formerly federal representative of the South Riding of Cape Breton, was unanimously nominated by a largely attended Liberal convention held here today. His was the only name before the convention. Mr. Johnson is the proprietor of the Sydney Record.
