

THE OXFORD-CHANCELLOR STEEL RANGE

Is made to please
the cook

You want a range that is roomy, will bake evenly and well, don't you? One that will give the most heat for the least fuel, one so strong and durable that it will not burn out, but will last for years.

THE OXFORD-CHANCELLOR

will well fill all the above requirements. There are other ranges with more "frills" but the money that is used in constructing the Oxford-Chancellor is spent for durable material and skillful workmanship.

It is impossible to go into details about the many points of superiority in this range over others. Call and have us show you the stove.

WHEN I GET INTO BED.

I'm never frightened in the dark. Though I am very small; I never sit all scared and hark For ogres in the hall. But when my prayers are said I have one awful dread— That something waits to grab my toes When I get into bed!

I try to think of pleasant things Each time I get undressed And how each day no evil brings If children do their best. But the thought comes in my head As I'm turning down the spread That something's going to grab my toes When I climb into bed!

And when there's nothing more to do, With bedclothes open wide, It makes me shiver through and through A-trying to decide Which foot shall go ahead. 'Cause I'm sure I'd tumble dead If something were to grab my toes As I got into bed!

THE HONEY IN FLOWERS.

Pits and Pockets In Which It Is Carefully Concealed.

Before "the bee sucks," as Ariel put it, he must find the wonderful places where the flowers hide away their honey, to be found like the priests' hiding holes in ancient mansions by the right sort of visitor, and to keep away all intruders.

In the recesses of the crown imperial lily at the centre can be seen six large honey pits, one on every floral leaf, and each brimming over with a big drop of honey and glistening like a tear drop. Shake the flower and it "weeps" as the big drops fall from it, soon to be replaced by other tears in the rapidly secreting flower. The simple folk call the flower "Job's tears."

The snowdrop is literally flowing with honey, for in swollen veins traversing its fragile whiteness are rivers of nectar. The petals of the columbine are ingeniously and elaborately designed with a view to providing good places of hiding for the honey. Each is circular, hollow, shaped like a horn. In each the honey is secreted in a round knob at which would be the mouthpiece end of the horn, and the five are arranged in a ring side by side with the honey knobs aloft. Though the honey store is obvious from without, yet the insects who would sip it must creep into the flower and penetrate with a long nose up the curving horn to the knob.

Sometimes the petals are all joined together into a tube, and the sweet nectar simply exudes from the inner side of the wall and collects at the bottom. This is the case in the dead nettle, the tube of which forms so toothsome a morsel that some children call it "suckies." The honey-suckle is similarly planned, and its sweetness is so striking as to have furnished its name.

The monkshood has quaint nectaries. If the hood be drawn back there suddenly spring into sight two objects on long stalks which are sometimes like a French horn, sometimes like a cowl or, looked at sideways, not unlike a pair of doves. Their presence within the hood has provided the nicknames Adam and Eve and Noah's Ark. Thus the honey bags are carefully tucked away and protected.

Strength of Rings.

Some elaborate calculations, backed by experiments, have recently been made in England to determine the breaking strength of rings. It appears that a ring of ductile metal, like malleable iron, will be pulled out into the form of a long link before it breaks and that the ultimate strength of the ring is virtually independent of the diameter. Fracture finally occurs as the result of almost pure tension, and the resistance to breaking is a little less than twice that of a rod of the same cross section subjected to a straight pull. As the ring increases in diameter there appears to be a slight approach toward equality, with double the strength of a bar. Thus a three inch ring made of three-quarter inch iron broke at 19.1-2 tons, a four inch ring at 19.9 tons and a six inch ring at 20 tons, the strength of a bar of the same metal being 10.1-2 tons.

New Use For Wedding Rings.

A handsome tabernacle of silver has been erected in the Chapel of the Blessed Sacrament in the new Roman Catholic cathedral at Westminster. For years past, in anticipation of this event, a lady who has done much for the cathedral has been collecting gold rings on which the inner curtains might hang. She has succeeded in persuading many of her friends and relatives to leave at death their wedding rings for this service. At the present moment the curtains of silk inside the tabernacle are supported by about fourteen golden rings which she has obtained, and on each of them the name of its donor is inscribed.

The Word Post.

Many persons wonder how we got the word "post" as applied to the mails. It comes from the Latin postus, which means placed. Therefore it is a fixed station. From this it came to mean an established conveyance of letters from one station to another, and the place from which the letters were sent out came to be called the postoffice. "Posthaste," a word used by Shakespeare, means speed in traveling, like that of post or a courier.

Sharpens Wit.

Mrs. Skimper—I have the wittiest lot of boarders you ever saw. Mrs. Hasher—I don't doubt it. There is nothing like hunger for sharpening the wits, you know.

The Cheerful Baker.

The baker says, "Some people find cash hard to raise, I know. But just give me a cake of yeast And I can raise the dough."

The mother who would be horrified at the thought of letting her daughter wander away to a strange country without guide or counsel, yet permits her to enter that unknown land of womanhood without counsel or caution. Then, in utter ignorance, the maiden must meet physical problems whose solution will effect her whole future life. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been well named a "Good-sense to women. It corrects irregularities and imparts such vigorous vitality to the delicate womanly organs, as fits them for their important functions. Many a nervous, hysterical, peevish girl has been changed to a happy young woman after the use of "Favorite Prescription." It has established the sound health of the organs peculiarly feminine.

Not a patent medicine but the "Favorite Prescription" of Dr. Pierce, a Specialist in the diseases of women. Of known composition, without alcohol or other dangerous stimulants, the active medicinal principles of Golden Seal and Lady's Slipper root, of Black Cohosh root, Unicorn root and Blue Cohosh root are extracted from each by the use of Chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine.

Both With Good Husbands.

A short time ago in one of the public gardens in Vienna a seamstress found herself seated beside a quiet, plainly dressed woman who was also sewing. They fell into conversation about domestic affairs, telling each other how they made their own frocks and those of their children. "I like to occupy myself with this sort of work," said the seamstress. "So do I," replied the other woman. "It is one of my greatest pleasures." Then, as further confidence seemed in order, "My husband is a good man," the little seamstress continued. "So is mine," admitted the other woman. "Mine works in a railway station, as his father did before him," said the seamstress, encouraged to go still deeper into her history by her listener's interest. "My own father was a woodcarver. What was yours?" After a moment's hesitation the other woman said simply, "My father is Francis Joseph." And, in fact, it was the daughter of the Austrian emperor, the Archduchess Gisela, wife of the regent of Bavaria, who was sewing in the public garden, in Vienna.

Mr. J. H. Woods, of Point Rock, Oneida Co., N. Y., had a hard experience. "A bad attack of Catarrh settled in my forehead and the pain over my eyes was so intense I thought my head would burst. My voice grew very hoarse and I coughed every night, and through the winter could scarcely speak. My voice was gone. Two doctors didn't help me at all. The next doctor ordered 'Catarrhazone.' It cured me and now many others here use it also. My doctor says he doesn't know anything so good for Catarrh and Throat Trouble as 'Catarrhazone.' Use it today, you're better tomorrow, 25c. and $1.80 at all dealers. Try Catarrhazone."

A lady the other day hastened to the nursery and said to her little daughter:

"Minnie, what do you mean by shouting and screaming? Play quietly, like Tommy. See he doesn't make a sound."

"Of course, he doesn't," said the little girl. "That is our game. He is Papa coming home late and I go you."

WATER CAUSED DEATH

Microbes Swarm in Quebec Wells—Caused Death of Major Henderson and Other Soldiers

QUEBEC, Aug. 25.—The citizens of Quebec are very much alarmed by the condition of the city's water supply, which has come to light over the condition of the city's water supply, which has come to light through a medical analysis. For years past it has been the boast of Quebecers that the city had the best supply of water in Canada. But it now appears that they have been deceived. During the celebration of the Tercentenary celebration it was rumored that Major Henderson was poisoned by eating canned green peas, but it now turns out from investigation that his death was due to insanitary conditions of Quebec's water supply, as was also the death of several volunteer soldiers from the west. During the celebration the water pipes burst, and the outcome of the investigation proves that Major Henderson's death was entirely due to microbes in the water he drank while on service in Quebec. Your correspondent has investigated this matter for over a week, and has enough evidence to prove the substantiality of his allegation. The authorities are well on St. Foy road, also ordered now closing the wells. There are 60 that a well situated near Lettite of cases of typhoid fever in Quebec. Market has also closed down.

TWENTY-DOLLAR WHEAT

Being Sold by a Northern Idaho Farmer.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 25.—In the front 23 to 30 bushels of blue stem wheat country, in Northern Idaho from every Abraham Adams, formerly a lumber-acre under cultivation. One day early in 1904 he received a single stalk of wheat, picked by a friend in one of the fertile valleys in Alaska, and sowed the kernels in his back yard garden. A crop of seven pounds resulted the coming summer. This Adams planted in the spring of 1906, harvesting 1,545 pounds of grain in July or over 220 bushels per acre. Emboldened by his success he sowed the entire crop in the fall of 1906, and last summer cut enough grain to sow 700 acres of land, from which is the Gem State six years ago and now being cut what is believed to be the world's record yield.

Losing Muscular Strength?

The First Sign of Mental Decay.—The Warning of General Break-down.

Changes in the nervous system manifest themselves slowly.

They show first by muscular weakness—a feeling that threatens paralysis, or by a fullness in the head that indicates approaching apoplexy.

It seems like stiffness but you soon discover there's a lack of power—that the endurance of this or that muscle is not what it ought to be.

Your friends may notice a slight thickness of speech or that your memory is decidedly failing.

These symptoms may grow worse very quickly if they are not treated by Ferrozene. You must build up the nervous system. This can be accomplished in no other way so thoroughly and permanently as by the use of Ferrozene.

This remarkable remedy, which has cured tens of thousands of Canadian people, increases enormously the digestive power stimulates the formation of blood, the rich, red kind that puts new life into the nerves.

The first result of these changes is increased strength.

Natural circulation quickly follows and that fullness in the head, so disturbing and alarming, too, quickly passes away.

These changes are wrought in a natural way, for the reason that Ferrozene treats the causes that excite these troubles.

For the aged and weak who need strength—for those run-down and thin—for the sickly and nervous who lack staying power—nothing compares with Ferrozene.

No tonic gives such lasting good health; try it yourself. Sold by all dealers in 50c. boxes.

There is hardly any composition that is inaccessible to the owner of a Goulay Angulus Player-Piano, as new rolls are added to the repertoire month by month. Just as the Goulay is recognized as Canada's leading high-class piano, the Angulus Player attachment is acknowledged to be the finest device of its kind ever given to the public.

MONTH WITHOUT RAIN.

England is Suffering Severely From Drouth.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Thursday saw the end of the second phenomenal spell of dry weather which England has enjoyed this summer. In some parts of the country the drouth has been complete, the farmers and fruit growers are in despair.

At Portland absolutely no rain fell from July 17 to August 19, a period of thirty-three days, and at Jersey the aggregate measurement of rain for the period was only 0.07 inch.

Rain has fallen rather more frequently in Scotland, and Ireland but even in these parts of the Kingdom the shortage of rain is considerable. In most districts the aggregate rainfall since the beginning of the year is less than the average, the deficiency amounting to 5.7 inches in the English Channel and exceeding four inches in Southwest England and in South Ireland.

On Thursday, however, rain fell heavily and continually throughout the day, and the meteorological forecasts indicate a rainy spell.

THIS COMBINATION ALWAYS WINS.

How often we hear of people who have had an aching joint or muscle for years. No more speedy remedy can be adopted than to rub on Nerviline and then apply a Nerviline Porous Plaster. At once the muscles begin to resume their wonted vigor and flexibility. Inflammatory symptoms of pain disappear. Nerviline Plasters can be worn by the most delicate child or aged person. They are invaluable as thousands have proved. Used along with Nerviline they are guaranteed to permanently drive out any muscular ache, pain or stiffness. Try these remedies, and judge for yourself. 25c at all dealers, or N. C. Polshin & Co., Kingston, Ont.
