Every night while the British parliament is in session a letter is dispatched from the house of commons to King Edward giving a summary of the proceedings during the sitting.

One of the many methods proposed to rid London of its fog nuisance was the erection of towers in different parts of the city through which it was designed to pump the foggy atmosphere and clarify it.

Flower and Tree.

There are tropical daisies a foot in circumference.

In India the rhododendron grows to a height of thirty feet. Marigolds in North Africa reach a height of four or five feet.

The number of rubber producing trees in Peru is steadily growing less owing to the destructive methods employed. Systematic replanting may soon be necessary.

In India and South America there is said to be a small tree, known as the "sorrowful tree," which bears sweet scented flowers that "bloom only in the nighttime and fall off at the break of day."

Scraps of Science.

The north star is estimated to shine with a light 190 times that of the sun.

The average weight of the brain of a man is three and a half pounds; of a woman, two pounds eleven ounces.

The human skeleton consists of some 200 bones, though the number of separate bones varies at different times of life. Bones which are distinct in early life become fused in old age.

German scientists, after devoting deep study to the question of the decay of paper, have found that bacteria are the chief enemies to be met with in the preservation of valuable books and manuscripts.

Only a Common Cold,

BUT IT BECOMES A SERIOUS MATTER IF NEGLECTED.

Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh or Consumption is the result. Get rid of it at once by taking Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Obstinate coughs yield to its grateful soothing action, and in the racking, persistent cough, often present in Consumptive cases, it gives prompt and sure relief. In Asthma and Bronchitis it is a successful remedy, rendering breathing easy and natural, enabling the sufferer to enjoy refreshing sleep and often affecting a permanent cure.

Mrs. Henry Smallpiece, Brudenell, Ont., writes:—"I was always subject to a cough and could get nothing to relieve me until I saw an advertisement of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and thought I would try a bottle, and when I had taken a few doses I found I was getting relief, and when I had finished it I was cured. I procured a bottle for my baby, who had a cough, and a few doses cured him. I would advise any one having a cough, to give Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a trial and I am sure they will never be without it."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup 25 cts. per bottle at all dealers. Put up in yellow wrapper, and three pine trees the trade mark. Refuse substitutes. There is only one Norway Pine Syrup and that one is "Dr. Wood's."

WHEN FREDA WAKES.

When Freda wakes, the day's bright eye
Has scarce illumined the eastern sky.
The busy swallows 'neath the eaves
Are just astir, and through the leaves
The morning zephyr steals and quakes
When Freda wakes.

When Freda wakes—her maiden charm
Being startled by the clock's alarm—
She goes down in her brief attire
And hustles up the kitchen fire.
With husky arm the furnace shakes
When Freda wakes.

When Freda wakes she starts a song
And keeps it up the morning long.
My pillow's wet with bitter tears.
'Tis vain for me to stop my ears.
I even hear her mixing cakes
When Freda wakes.

When Freda wakes she slams the door
And kicks the cat across the floor.
She drops the spindle on the sink.
(She does it just for spite, I think.)
The ridgepole of the building shakes
When Freda wakes.

The Egotist.

"Gee, how ugly they are! I'm mighty glad I wasn't born a bird."—Harper's Weekly.

Cut Himself Loose.

The tramp had related to the lady in the wayside cottage the weird story of how he was tied to a tree by bandits and left to famish.

"But, my poor man," protested the good woman, "if you were tied so tightly how did you get free?"

The tramp wiped away a tear.

"Ah, lady, that is a strange story."

"A strange story?"

"Yes, mum. Y'er see, while I was tied to the tree my old girl passed and looked daggers at me. I took de daggers and cut myself to freedom. Dat is how I am here today."—Chicago News.

An Effective Retort.

The youngest son of Charles Dickens, Edward Bulwer Lytton Dickens, is a member of parliament in Australia.

Not long ago in the course of a speech he was frequently interrupted by a snappish member named Willis. "Mr. Speaker," said Mr. Dickens, turning to the chair, "it may be remembered by some present that my father coined an expression which attained some popularity—'Barkis is willin'." The circumstances today are such that I am strongly tempted to reverse the phrase and say, 'Willis is barkin'." The retort was effective.

Really Short Cuts.

"Way up in Vermont Uncle Eph Kinney was looking over his field of clover when up drove a neighbor.

"Grass is awful short this year, ain't it, Uncle Eph?" he said.

"Short," cried Uncle Eph. "Why, it's so blamed short the bumblebees hev to git down on their knees to suck the blossoms!"—Woman's Home Companion.

Barring Him Out.

"I haven't heard of you going out to Subbitt's to dinner lately."

"No," he says "I can't do that any more."

"Why, I thought you were his closest friend. What's the matter?"

"He tells me their cook doesn't like me."—Philadelphia Press.

An Analogy.

"Are you thoroughly familiar with all the economic principles you advocate?"

"My dear sir," answered Senator Sorghum, "a good book agent doesn't have to know the contents of a volume by heart in order to sell it."—Washington Star.

The Fast Part.

Hi Tragedy—Did I understand you to say Barnes is traveling in fast company just now?

Lowe Comedy—I said he was traveling with a fasting company. That show he went out with is busted and trying to get home.—Catholic Standard and Times.

He Knew.

The juvenile class had a lesson in which some reference was made to "a ferocious Gaul." "Now," said the teacher, "can any of you tell me what a ferocious Gaul is?"

"I can," said the small boy at the foot of the class. "It's a terrible lot of cheek."—Detroit Tribune.

Numerousness.

The candidate looks around among the voters which are allowed at present to us to abound and says: "Heavens! What a crowd!"—Washington Star.

THE PUBLIC IS OFTEN FAKED.

LIFE WILL BE SHORTENED.

Those who fail to observe the fundamental rules of health, especially those who neglect constipation, will have short lives. Costiveness ruins health, destroys vitality, weakens the blood, causes dyspepsia, nervousness and insomnia. Why not use Dr. Hamilton's Pills and be cured. Take one or two pills before retiring and you're well next morning. No gripe or pain, no headache and nausea when you use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they cure scientifically. HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Some Interesting Information for Busy Housewives.

If grease spatters your favorite Wilton, mix half a glass of fuller's earth and the same amount of magnesia with boiling water, apply it hot, and brush off when dry. Small grease spots may be removed with a hot iron and brown paper.

Black straw and chip hats, which promise to be worn so much this season, can be kept in shape and color by brushing, when well dusted, with shoe polish. Every hat and bonnet should have its separate box, and be covered with a silk handkerchief to protect from the dust and light.

If a cellar has a damp smell, and cannot be thoroughly ventilated, a few trays of charcoal, set around on the floor, shelves and ledges, will make the air pure and sweet. If a large basketful of charcoal be placed in a damp cellar where milk is kept the milk will be in no danger of becoming tainted.

In restoring draperies or curtains of art needlework on muslin they should first be well shaken to get out the dust and then soaked in cold water to remove the worst of the dirt; they are then washed in tepid water with good white soap, rinsed through cold water with a little salt in it, and dried quickly in the shade. They should be folded before getting quite dry, and ironed lightly with a not too hot iron.

Ink stains on mahogany must be obliterated by touching the spot with a leather dipped in a teaspoonful of water to which a few drops of nitre have been added, and directly the stain disappears. Rub it over quickly with a cloth dipped in cold water.

A few pieces of horse radish root put among pickles will keep the scum from rising on top and improve their flavor.

If you insist on your dressmaker facing your gowns with velvet or velveteen instead of braid, you will lessen your shoemaker's bills and be saved from the purplish bluish on the instep caused by the movements of the skirts in walking.

All grained or varnished woodwork should be cleaned with tea, made of medium strength and strained off, after which it should be rubbed over with a small flannel cloth dipped occasionally in boiled linseed oil and wiped thoroughly with a dry flannel cloth. Nothing is more convenient than a wooden skewer for cleaning out crevices and corners.

Well-ventilated bedrooms will prevent morning headaches and lassitude.

Apply linseed oil and turpentine in equal parts with a soft cloth to the white spots on your furniture.

Wax drippings from the tapers now so fashionably used for lighting purposes can be removed from linen tablecloths with a hot iron and a piece of blotting paper, or by dipping the part in eau de Cologne, which renders the wax brittle, so that it can be easily rubbed off with the finger.

EGG SNOW—Put into a saucepan a pint of milk, two dessert spoonsful of orange flower, water and two ounces of sugar and let it boil. Six eggs, separate the yolks from the whites, beat the latter to a froth or snow (hence the name) and put it in to the boiling milk by spoonfuls; stir the whole about with a skimmer.

They sat each at the extreme end of the horsehair sofa. They had been courtin' now for something like two years, but the wide gap between had always been respectfully preserved.

"A penny for your thoughts, Sandy," murmured Maggie, after a silence of an hour and a half.

"Weel," replied Sandy, slowly, with surprising boldness, "tae tell truth, I was just thinking how fine it was be if ye were taegle me a wee bit kissie."

"I've nae objection," simpere Maggie slithering over, and kissed him plumply on the top of his left ear.

Then she slithered back.

Sandy relapsed into abrown sticky once more and the clock ticked twenty-seven minutes.

"An' what are ye thinkin' about noo-anither, eh?"

"Nae, nae, lassie; it's mair serious the noo."

"Is it, laddie?" asked Maggie, softly. Her heart was going pit-pat with expectation. "An' what might it be?"

when done take the eggs out and dress them on the dish for serving. Thicken the milk under the fire with the beaten yolks, pour this over the frothed eggs; let the white cool and serve.

EXCELLENT ROLLS—Take three parts of warm water in which some peeled Irish potatoes have been boiled, strain your water, add a teaspoonful of butter or lard, one teaspoonful of warm yeast; thicken it with flour to make a dough. Let it stand to about three quarters of an hour. You can make this into loaves, as it is a good bread recipe.

PLAIN CORN BREAD—Sift the meal, stir in salt to taste. Pour into it water enough to make a dough moderately soft. Bake in a hot oven. Use cold water. If the oven is not hot the bread will be a failure. One quart of meal and about the same of water will make two good loaves of bread.

Plain Corn Bread—One quart of meal sifted, one teaspoonful of fresh buttermilk, one scant teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of salt, cold water enough to make the meal into bones, which may require three cups of water; coarse meal requires more than meal ground fine. Always place corn bread in a hot oven. Sift the Baked Macaroni—Chop the Macaroni tender in broth, and take twice its weight in minced chicken or meat adding two well beaten eggs, three ounces of butter, cayenne pepper and salt to taste. Mix the ingredients well, put them in a deep dish and bake until a lightbrown crust shall be formed upon the top.

Cold Meat Loaf—Chop any kind of good cold meat, season with salt and pepper and place in a mold. Take the bones and bits of meat and boil them with an onion or two until fine. When boiled enough strain, and add one spoonful of gelatine dissolved. Pour this over the meat and set away to cool and harden.

Maid's of Honor—Sift half a pound of dry curd, mix it well with six ounces of butter, break the yolks of four eggs into another basin, and a glass of brandy, add to it six ounces of powdered lump sugar, and beat well together one flowery baked potato, cold, one ounce of sweet almonds, one ounce of bitter almonds, pounded the grated rind of three lemons, the juice of one-half a nutmeg grated. Mix these well together, and add to the curds and butter, stir well up and proceed filling the tartlet pans.

Floating Island—Take a tablespoonful of either plum or currant jelly or raspberry jam to each white of egg. Beat them until you can pile the egg foam into pink roses. Pour a plain custard into the dish for the sea and pile up the island over it. Have some additional supply of custard in a little pitcher to use for the first helps as you cannot get at the under custard very well until you have disposed of a few islands.

Salmon Salad—Two bunches of celery and one very small head of cabbage, chopped fine, then add one can of salmon with the bones picked out. For the dressing take one tablespoonful of butter, four tablespoons sweet milk, four tablespoons vinegar, salt, pepper and a little French made mustard, one egg. Cook like custard and when cool put over the chopped cabbage, celery and salmon. To be eaten as soon as the dressing is put on.

"are having me that penny."—Utica Observer.

You cannot make sweet butter in a foul, unclean churn. The stomach serves as a churn in which to agitate work up and disintegrate our food as it is being digested. If it be weak, sluggish and foul the result will be torpid, sluggish liver and bad impure blood.

The ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are just such as best serve to correct and cure all such derangements. It is made up without a drop of alcohol in its composition chemically pure, triple refined glycerine being used instead of the commonly employed alcohol. Now this glycerine is of itself a valuable medicine, instead of a deleterious wwe medicine, instead of deleterious agent like alcohol, especially in the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia and the various forms of indigestion.

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of it: "In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose."

It is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon encrusted, disordered stomachs.

Of course we all make mistakes—but that's a pretty poor excuse.

BEWARE OF SUBSTITUTES.

Greedy dealers endeavor to plan off a substitute for Putnam's Corn Extractor. Insist on "Putnam's" only—it cures corns and warts thoroughly. The imitation may fail.
