KEPT IN RUSSIAN JAIL.

Englishman Dragged From Bed at Dead of Night.

Russian police methods have once more moved the British Foreign Office to action. This time the case is more flagrant than usual, a London merchant having been summarily arrested and cast into prison in Odessa.

The unfortunate individual it Mr. N. Luxemburg, who carries on business in Cheapside, and is well known among London and Continental business men. On Feb. 26 he left England for a continental tour. He visited Berlin, from which he sent a picture post-card—the last direct communication any of his friends have had from him—to his wife, and afterwards went to Odessa, where he arrived on March 5.

Later came the following cable from his agent at Odessa:

"Luxemburg arrested; am taking necessary steps."

Later a letter was received from the agent stating that Mr. Luxemburg was suddenly dragged out of bed at his hotel and clapped straightway ir prison, without any explanation beyond "Orders from St. Petersburg."

The agent wrote that he had been unable to ascertain why the arrest had taken place; that no charge had at present been made; that he had not been allowed to communicate with Mr. Luxemburg, and that Mr. Luxemburg had not been allowed to communicate with him.

According to one correspondent Mr. Luxemburg was awakened at two in the morning. When he opened the door of his room an officer and five constables presented revolvers at him. He was removed to the prison, and placed in a filthy cell which had no bed. As a result he had a nervous breakdown.

It has been suggested that revolutionary pamphlets were found amongst Mr. Luxemburg's baggage, but it is asserted by those who should know that Mr. Luxemburg kept himself aloof from politics. The package which Mr. Luxemburg took with him contained sample boots and shoes.

Mrs Luxemburg has made personal representations to the Foreign Office, which has promised to make inquiries at once.

The British Government has taken energetic action. At the instance of the Foreign Office the British Ambassador at St. Petersburg has presented a note to the Russian Foreign Minister, calling attention to the arrest, and requesting that if there is any charge against Mr. Luxemburg his trial might be expedited, and, if not, that he should be released.

The matter, we understand, will be further pressed, and, if, as seems to be the case, a serious blunder has been made by the Odessa police, the British Government will consider the question of making a claim for compensation.

In addition to the representations which have been made at St. Petersburg, the British consul-general at Odessa has been instructed to inquire fully into the circumstances of Mr Luxemburg's arrest, and to report as soon as possible.

PUSSY IN THE WALL.

Cat Alive After Being Bricked up for a Month.

From Sunderland comes a remarkable story concerning a cat which had been accidentally imprisoned in a wall during alterations. Some weeks ago, Mr. John Stephenson missed from his home in Chatsworth street, a Persian cat, and as the animal did not put in an appearance after the lapse of some days, it was concluded that it had been stolen. A few days ago a member of the family heard mewing, but the cat was not to be seen. The mewing was not heard again that day, but on the following day was repeated, and seemed to come from beneath the flooring. Boards were taken up, but the cat was not found. On the same day the cries of the animal were again heard, and this time seemed to come from behind the wall of the sitting-room. It being obvious that the cat was in some place of confinement about the house, Mr. Stephenson obtained help, and had the wainscoting detached and bricks removed. While these operations were in progress, the poor beast was discovered by one of the men. The cat had been a month in the ventilating chamber while alterations were being made to the place, and was bricked in. When found the animal was in a pitiful condition, but with careful treatment it is now gradually getting over its terrible experience.

A Bridge of Coffins.

When the British forces were marching to Pekin in 1860, after the capture of the Taku forts, one of the rivers became so swollen with the heavy rains that it was rendered almost impassable. While in this quandary a bright idea suddenly struck one of our officers. Being well aware that the Chinese generally order their coffins years in advance and keep them on the premises and also that they are perfectly air tight, he consulted with his brother officers, with the result that orders were given to search all the houses of the village and collect every coffin. With the aid of a few empty casks the soldiers constructed a pontoon bridge of coffins sufficiently strong to bear the artillery, and the river was thus passed in safety.—London Standard.

"Eatin' a Mountain."

A good example of the caustic humor of a Scotch examiner floats this way from we know not where. It seems that Scotch parish schoolmasters are in their appointment examined as to their literary qualifications. One of the fraternity, being called by his examiner to translate Horace's ode beginning "Exegi monumentum oere perennius," began as follows: "Exegi monumentum" (I have eaten a mountain). "Ah," said one of the examiners, "ye needna proceed any further, for after eatin' sic a dinner this parish wad be a puir mouthfu' t'ye. Ye maun try some wider sphere."—"Poet Lore."

When Tom Hall was keeping a drug store an Indian woman entered it and picked up a can of Jap-a-lac and paid for it. A few weeks later the same woman was in again and Tom asked her if she wanted another can. She said no, they couldn't eat the can she had.

Former Fredericton Lady Writes Interestingly of the Great Victoria Falls

The following is a letter which will be of interest to Herald readers It is written by a former Fredericton lady to a friend in this city:

Bulanga, Africa,
Culy 81, 1908.

We spent five days at the Falls and really they far exceeded anything I had ever imagined. I only wish I had seen Niagara before coming out here, and then I could make comparasions. One day we went up the Zambesi river to Kandahar Island, about eight miles. We were a party of twenty-five in six canoes, paddled by natives (by the way the canoes were made by R. Chestnut & Sons, Fredericton.)

Our natives worked very hard and passed all the other canoes, so we landed first on the island and could watch all the other canoes coming in. We lunched under the trees, fancy fan-palms and date palms, growing on all sides. Oh, it was so lovely. In the afternoon we sailed down river again, stopping for a short time at the Livingstone mission, and then going a short distance up the Miramba river, a tributary of the Zambesi.

We arrived home at about five p. m., having had a most delightful day. Next morning we were again paddled through the rapids across to Livingstone Island. Our canoe was ahead again, and when the natives were in the middle of the rapids (I think we were all rather nervous) our canoe was paddled by five natives, the current is so heavy, one of the natives began pointing and talking in their funny language, then all talked and made such a noise that we felt rather frightened, and thought the current was too strong and perhaps we would not be able to get through. Just then, however, turning we saw the head of a huge Hippo a short distance from the boat. You may imagine how terrified we felt. However, the natives paddled for all they were worth, and we were soon at the island. The other boats saw the animal and took a different direction. It seems the natives are very frightened of the Hippos. You have a most beautiful view of the Falls from Livingstone Island, and also see the tree on which the great explorer carved his name in 1855. We left the Falls Thursday and arrived here at 7 a. m. yesterday. After breakfast we made arrangements for our drive to the Matopos to Cecil Rhodes burial place.

The Gourlay Piano gives that indefinable touch which denotes musical culture in the home. It is chaste and artistic in finish, and its rich, singing tone is unequalled by any instrument made in Canada.

HE RAN TO NEW YORK.

T. J. McAughey Has Completed His Journey.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—In one hour less than twelve days, running most of the distance of over 700 miles, T. J. McAughey arrived in this city today from Toronto, Ont., bearing a message from the Mayor of that city to the Mayor of New York city. McAughey (assistant secretary of the West end branch of the Y.M.C.A. of Toronto, and he said the object of the run was to test speed and endurance.. The badge of honesty is on every wrapper of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery because a full list of the ingredients composing it is printed there in plain English. Forty years of experience has proven its worth, as an alternative and tonic for the cure of stomach disorders and all liver ills. It builds up the run down system as no other tonic can in which alcohol is used. The active medicinal principles of native roots such as Golden Seal and Queen's root, Stone and Mandrake root, Bloodroot and Black Cherrybark are extracted and preserved by the use of chemically pure, triple, refined glycerine. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce at Buffalo, N.Y. for free booklet which tells of well-recognized medical authorities such as Drs. Barthlow, King, Scudder, Soe and Ellingwood, that these roots can be depended upon for their curative action in all weak states of the stomach, accompanied by indigestion or dyspepsia as well as in all "wasting diseases" where there is loss of flesh and gradual running down of the system.

STRENUOUS CURE

Lightning Shock Took Away Lady's Rheumatism

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Aug. 12.—(Special)—A successful but strenuous cure for rheumatism has been found by Mrs. George Potter, of Echo Lodge, a summer resort four miles west of here.

Mrs. Potter was struck by lighting during a recent thunder storm, and suffered a severe shock.

Up to the time of the storm she had been very badly afflicted with rheumatism but recovering from the lighting shock, the rheumatism has entirely disappeared.
