most entirely neglect their bodies. They do not seem to realize that keenness of judgment and clearness of thought depend as much on the body as on the brain itself. Any man can prove this to his own satisfaction by attempting to decide a weighty business problem while suffering with an acute attack of indigestion or a violent spell of biliousness.

The amount of work that the brain can do depends much on the healthfulness of liver, bowels, kidneys and skin.

"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in tablet form. They act directly on liver, bowels, kidneys and skin—and enable these vital organs to rid the system of all impurities. Thus the blood will be kept pure and rich, the brain active, digestion sound, and life made pleasant.

"Fruit-a-tives" are now put up in two sizes—the new 25c box as well as the regular 50c size. If your dealer does not carry them, write Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

"Bobs" Holiday.

Congratulations to Earl Roberts, who, recently celebrated his seventy-sixth birthday. It is not generally known that Lord Roberts can claim descent from royalty, being able to trace back his ancestry by three different lines to two of England's kings—Edward I. and Edward III.

"Bobs" is one of the most popular of England's heroes, and certainly he does everything to make himself loved by all. Some years ago, when he was visiting Winchester, the boys of the college received him in their midst with a whole-hearted enthusiasm that was unmistakable, and the senior scholar welcomed him in a long Latin speech, that must have cost him much labor in the compilation.

"I have listened with great attention to Mr. Moberley's eloquent oration," said the Commander-in-Chief in reply. "My Latin is, I am afraid, somewhat rusty, and I may have missed a word here and there. But if I understand his general purport rightly, he asked me to ask the headmaster to give you all a holiday, which I have now much pleasure in doing."

Needless to say, Lord Roberts' eloquent and practical reply was cheered by the enthusiastic scholars even more than their head scholar's Latin oration.

Grosse Isle Memorial.

The plans of the monument which will be placed on Grosse Isle, near Quebec in memory of the hundreds of Irishmen who perished there of fever, have been submitted to the National Council of the order for approval.

The formal dedication of the monument will probably take place next midsummer, when excursions will be arranged from many points.

Female Fortitude.

Comparisons of the relative fortitude of men and women are idle as odious. Parallel lines never meet, as we all know. Still, no man ever yet smiled with the toothache, while women have been known to manifest continued gaiety under the trying combination of new shoes, a violent headache and a pin sticking straight into the shivering spine.—Exchange

IS YOUR CHEST "WHEEZY?"

Tightness and wheezing means your trouble is deep-seated. To delay is dangerous. Inflammation must be drawn out at once. Rub the throat and chest with Nervilleine, and put on a Nervilleine Porous Plaster. Relief comes in an hour. The counter-irritant effect of the plaster relieves the tightness and strain, draws out the soreness, eases pain. The penetrating qualities of Nervilleine enable it to soak to the very core of the trouble, and you experience a feeling of warmth and relief that proves the danger is past. For weak chest, sore throat and tendency to colds, the Nervilleine Treatment beats all others. try it.

WHY AM I ILL?

HOW TO TELL.

Does every cold affect your back, and cause a feeling of chilliness, followed by disturbance of the kidney action.

Does the use of spirits, tea or beer excite the kidneys? Are you easily worried and annoyed over trifles? Are the feet and hands cold? Circulation bad? Do the feet and legs swell? Is there puffiness under the eyes? Do you have rheumatism, poor eyesight, headaches and backaches? Is there gravel or any unnatural action of the kidneys?

If you have any of the above symptoms your kidneys are either weak or diseased, and these symptoms are warnings of more serious troubles to follow; Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Dropsy.

Whatever you do, whatever you think your disease is, look well to your kidneys at the first sign of anything wrong. Give them just the aid they require in Doan's Kidney Pills, the Great Quaker Kidney Medicine, and see how well and fit you feel after even a few doses.

Mrs. O. Warren, Radisson, Sask., writes: "I was troubled with very severe pains in my back for years. I tried everything I could think of but they did me no good. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and after taking two boxes, I have not been troubled since."

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co. Limited, Toronto.

In ordering specify "Doan's."

Burlap as a wall covering is now recognized as being very artistic as well as durable. It is now made in the finer grades and in all colors, so that it will meet any requirement. It is very effective for use in the dining room if properly handled.

Burlap makes an excellent material for window or door curtains in a room hung with felt or ingrain paper. If curtaining of this kind seems too plain it may easily be brightened by stenciling. Stencil patterns can be drawn by any one who uses the pencil a little. Frequently in magazines are found ornamental head and tail pieces that will furnish the motive scrolls, conventional leaves, circle and dart patterns and fleur-de-lis.

Draw the pattern small at first and then develop it on an enlarged scale upon a sheet of stiff but thin cardboard. When it is penciled clearly cut it out with the scissors. They will give a smoother line than the penknife, though in using scissors the stencil must be cut through at one point. This is remedied, however, by gluing the edges together with a strip of paper on each side.

A stenciled border for window curtains or portieres runs down the center and along the lower edge. The goods must be laid flat on an even surface, stretched across a large pie board by means of small wire nails or over the bare wood of a kitchen table.

The kind of paint used is known to decorators as "distemper coloring." It should be applied in a smooth wash and should be neither pasty nor thin, for if too thin it is apt to run, and if thick it forms into lumps. A flat and rather pliable brush spreads the color evenly.

Be careful to press the stencil down firmly around the edges over the part being painted to prevent the colors from running underneath the cardboard and making an uneven line. To repeat the pattern lift the stencil, wipe clean and lay it over the proper spot. A little care about this matter will assure the proper spacing.

The best way to keep the design in alignment, however, is to stretch the entire curtain evenly on the bare floor of an unused room. Draw a string taut between the two nails at either end of the curtain and use it as a guide line to keep the stencil straight. Where the design is a leaf pattern with a stem the latter may be joined afterward free hand, making the entire border continuous.

Almost any piece of goods in a flat color and of sufficient weight can be made into a table cover either by stenciling or by stitching to it a border of tapestry, silk or cotton cut with mitered corners.

MARY GARDEN COIFFURE.

Arrangement a la Thais the Very Latest Wrinkle.

The latest effect in evening coiffures is the arrangement a la Thais, that affected by Mary Garden in her interpretation of this role. While it is extremely effective and artistic, it has an advantage in that its arrangement does not offer very grave difficulties and that it can be accomplished even where the growth of hair is not abundant.

The hair is divided across the head, waved a very little, and then the front hair is again divided by a center part. Both sides of the front hair are then puffed out loosely and secured a little beneath the crown of the head, after which the previously waved back hair is brushed up to meet the front hair and is also puffed out in pompadour effect. This, however, must be as irregular and soft in outline as possible; otherwise the artistic effect produced by the finished coiffure will not come up to requirements. Unite the long strands of hair and form a large Psyche knot well in the center of the head, pinning it down securely with a few large shell pins. If preferred a large bun or plain coil or a figure 8 may be substituted for the Psyche if the hair is not sufficiently long and thick to make a large knot—a small one would not be in keeping with the full arrangement of the hair—or even a braid laid flat over the head. Puffs in Grecian style are also permissible with this coiffure, and as many as nine of them may be made—or purchased—arranging them in flat, irregular rows over the back of the head. A Grecian fillet is placed in front of the coiffure.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Don't squint. It weakens the lids. Neither must you wink. A bad habit is formed and you wink unconsciously.

Keep the chest well up, the shoulders back and the abdomen in; then start out for a walk with some definite purpose in view.

There is a tendency toward individuality in hairdressing. The woman who studies the lines of her face and considers the contour of her head is much wiser than her sister who insists that her coiffure be in the latest fashion.

The particular woman never uses a sachet of one odor, a soap of another, a powder of a third, and so on. She either buys her soaps and powders unperfumed or else has them of the same scent as her sachets and perfumes. There must be no conflicting odors.

Tonic baths are decidedly refreshing when that tired feeling first overtakes a person. For the matter of that, a warm bath not hot enough to be weakening, but of low enough temperature to relax the nerves, is always beneficial and may be indulged in whenever a woman is fatigued.

Canadian Indians Becoming Better Citizens.

OTTAWA, Dec. 7.—A section of the annual report of the department of Indian Affairs, just issued is devoted to a discussion of the subject of the morality of the Redman. The statement is made that the Indians of the Dominion are, "without doubt, absorbing the white man's ways of thought and standards of morality as they go on, and have reached the state when such growth is so gradual as not to be likely to attract attention unless some radical change of policy, such as enfranchisement on an extended scale, were to be adopted.

The department's policy, it is stated, has always been, so far as possible, to avoid excessive measures, and to trust to moral suasion and education to wean the Indians from their objectionable habits and customs.

"Increasing contact with civilization," says the report, "has largely corrected the vagueness of the Indians' information as to their legal rights and the powers of the law, and they have in no small measure become independent of the department's assistance. As a consequence it is no longer necessary to forbid Indians to leave their reserves on objectionable excursions, such as attendance at dances, or to take part in these demoralizing gatherings for exhibition purposes to which they are invited by local agricultural societies, or to order them to desist from bigamous or polygamous marriages on threats of deprivation of rations."

While it is admitted in the report that there is in places far too much evasion of the law in respect to the use of spirituous liquor by the Indians, the fact remains that a large majority of the Indians abstain entirely from touching intoxicants. There is, as a matter of fact, a growing temperance sentiment among them.

Reference is made in the report to the relations of the sexes it being noted that there is a growing tendency in the direction of the subdivision of dwellings into compartments. The number of Indian schools in operation during the year including day, boarding and industrial schools, was 315, an increase of 12 over the previous year. The total enrolment was over ten thousand pupils, about equally divided between boys and girls. The boarding and industrial schools continue to afford two great advantages over the day schools, of preventing the retrogressive home influences which pupils who are only at school a few hours each day are exposed to, and of securing regularity of attendance.

During the year the amount of Indian lands surrendered by the Indians and sold amounted to slightly over forty thousand acres. The law renders it impossible to dispossess Indians of their lands without their full consent, and care was exercised to only allow such sales as were clearly for the benefit of the owners.

Among the surveys reported completed during the year was the survey of the Caughnawaga village and common, in Laprairie country, Quebec.

CURED BY KICK.

Useless Knee Responds to a Horse's Treatment.

UTICA, Dec. 7.—The house is generally allowed to be the best friend of man in the entire animal kingdom, but instances are rare where the horse has done his owner a good turn by giving him a kick, says the Utica Press. In Marysville, Ohio, a man struck his left knee-cap against a wagon-wheel two years ago and has been so lame that he has been forced to use a cane ever since, or until a few days ago. He was then helping to hitch up his horse, and the animal gave him a vicious kick on the useless knee. Twenty minutes afterward the old lameness had entirely disappeared from the knee and the former cripple is now walking around as naturally as he used to and without the aid of the cane.

CITY'S BUSINESS MANAGER

A Novel Experiment in Municipal Government

STAUNTON, a Virginia city of some 12,000 inhabitants, is trying an interesting experiment. The old form of administration, embodied in a Mayor and City Council chosen by the voters, has been left undisturbed but those officials, who are politically responsible to a self-governing community, have elected a business manager to whom they have turned over all the purely business functions of the city government. In his relation to the City Council, the business manager stands somewhat in the same relation that the general manager of a large corporation does to the board of directors.

In Staunton's case the manager is elected for a year. He presents a report every three months and he is permitted to suggest new legislation along the lines where he is active. In making contracts for all municipal work and in the buying of city supplies, he is given a free hand. The experiment began last April, and the manager has shown himself so efficient that his re-election for a second term has been determined upon. One instance in which the new business manager proved his worth was in placing contracts for granolithic paving at 71 cents a square yard instead of the $2 the Council was paying prior to his appointment.

SLAPPED KING'S BACK THROUGH A MISTAKE.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—Sir Ernest Cassel, King Edward's financial adviser and intimate friend, whose nickname is "Windsor Cassel," bears a somewhat embarrassing likeness to His Majesty. And thereby hangs an amusing story, which is said to be quite true.

A young man who is very well known about town for his high spirits and cheery impudence, approached at the fashionable Ascot race track a gentleman whose name he thought he recognized.

Slapping him on the back the young man exclaimed: "Hello, Windsor Cassel!" Then the gentleman accosted turned. To his absolute horror the impulsive back-slapper saw not Sir Edward Cassel, but His Majesty Edward VII.

The youth fled on the instant. Later he sought advice from one of the King's friends and nervously asked: "What am I to do?" "Never let him see your face again," was the reply.

HARVEY STATION.

Dec. 8.—The funeral of Wallace Harvey, who died at Stockton, Maine on Friday last took place from the church here yesterday morning Rev. M. J. Macpherson, M. A., conducting the services. Deceased has been ill for some months. He was 22 years of age and third son of the late Robert P. Grieve of Stockton, who formerly resided here. He is survived by his by his widowed mother, two brothers and a little sister.

Rev. A. J. Macpherson preached in the Union Church at McAdam on Sunday. The morning service here was taken by Mrs. Macpherson, who was assisted by Elders Swan and Taylor. She delivered a very pleasing and edifying discourse from St. John, 15th Chapter and 14th verse, which was very much appreciated by a large congregation.

There are some women who seem to be perennially youthful. The grown daughters are companions as well as children, and the color in the mother's cheeks, the brightness in her eyes, the roundness of her form, all speak of abounding health. What is her secret? She is at the middle age of life when so many women are worn, wasted and faded, and yet time has only opened her charms. The secret of this matronly health and beauty may be told in the brief phrase, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The general health of women is so intimately related to the local health of the delicate womanly organs, that where these are diseased the whole body must suffer. "Favorite Prescription" dries the debilitating drains, heals ulceration and inflammation, cures female weakness and imparts to the delicate female organs natural vigor and vitality. Women who have lost their health and their beauty have been made robust and rosy checked by the use of this marvelous medicine.
