AMERICA'S EX-CHAMPION WRESTLER

SAYS:

"After my great wrestling match with J. Mellor, of Staleybridge, at the Crystal Palace, England, for the International Championship, I was covered with cuts and bruises. I applied my favorite balm, Zam-Buk, and in a marvelously short time the abrasions and cuts were healed and I was fit and well again. At another time I had a piece of flesh almost torn completely off my arm above the elbow. I anticipated being unable to do anything with the arm for a long time. To my delight, however, Zam-Buk closed up the wound in two days. In three days it was covered with new skin, and a few days after, there was no trace of the injury. I recommend Zam-Buk for cuts, bruises or skin injuries of any kind.

Yours truly,

HUGH LANNON.

The above testimony given by Mr. Lannon when visiting Toronto shows the great value of Zam-Buk for injuries received in outdoor sports. Baseball, Football and Lacrosse players should always keep Zam-Buk handy. It prevents cuts and injuries, 'taking the wrong turn.' It stops the pain and smarting, and heals. It is also an excellent embrocation, curing stiffness, sprains, twists, etc. Used and recommended by Sherrin, the Marathon winner; Muldrill, the world's second greatest wrestler, etc.

WINCHESTER PAGEANT.

English History Is Represented In Gorgeous Show.

The great Winchester (Eng.) pageant, favored throughout with the brilliant weather which has already made the summer of 1903 a memorable one, has been a triumphant success. The opening was attended by the Princess Christian and Princess Victoria, the Marquess and Marchioness of Winchester, the Bishop of Winchester, and no fewer than fifty Anglican bishops from all parts of the Empire, drawn to London for the Pan-Anglican Congress. The pageant consisted of a series of scenes representing English history from the earliest times to the epoch of the Stuarts. King Canute and his court, William the Conqueror and his mailed knights, and the 'Merry Monarch,' Charles II., with his troop of courtly saunterers, formed most successful episodes, and the overseas visitors were delighted beyond measure by the magnificent object lessons in the history of the Empire State. The episode of Henry VIII. was rich in its splendor, and the escape of Empress Matilda, daughter of Henry I., was dramatically portrayed. The pageant lasted for three hours, and was greeted with enthusiastic applause.

St. Paul's Serpent.

There are still to be found in Malta a number of small stones shaped and colored like the eyes, tongues, and other parts of serpents. The superstitions among the Maltese connect these with the tradition that St. Paul, when shipwrecked, was cast on their island, and that it was there that while lighting a bundle of sticks for a fire a viper fastened on the Apostle's hand. St. Paul calmly shook the reptile off into the flames, and no harm followed. The natives, therefore, wear these stones as talismans, in which character they suppose them serviceable in warding off dangers from snake bites and the influence of poisons. They are found in 'St. Paul's Cave,' embedded in clay, and are set in rings and bracelets, and when found to be in the shape of a tongue, or liver, or heart, are hung round the neck. They are also taken internally, dissolved in wine, which method is attended, according to some people, by more immediate results.

THE SECRET OF GLAMIS.

A Ghost That Hovers About an Ancient Scottish Castle.

"The old manor houses and castles throughout England," said the poet, "have innumerable stories of ghosts, which the old colored 'mummies,' used to call 'hants,' attached to them. The most famous of them all is perhaps the one connected with Glamis castle, the country seat of the earls of Strathmore, in Forfarshire. This is the most ancient inhabited castle of Scotland, although, of course, little of the original structure still survives. It was here that Macbeth, one of the minor kings of Scotland, murdered Duncan, and the principal scenes of Shakespeare's 'Macbeth' are laid within and without the castle walls. It came into the hands of the Lyon family, the present owners, about 1371, and from then on a long series of tragedies marked the progress of that family.

"The ghost that hovers about Glamis is a mysterious one, and the exact character of the manifestations is little known, but the point that makes it of thrilling public interest is the well known fact that there is a family secret in the Lyon family which only three living people share at the same time—the holder of the title, the heir apparent, if he has attained his majority, and the factor of the estate. Why the latter shares in the secret is not the least part of the mystery.

"On the day before the heir apparent attains his twenty-first birthday—or, if the then earl be goness, the heir presumptive—he is solemnly initiated into the mystery. The opening of some hidden room or passage is connected with this initiation, and this has given rise to a legend in Scotland that a certain Earl Beattie of past times played a game of cards with the devil 'in propria persona,' lost the game and his soul at the same time, and the sealed chamber in Glamis is the one wherein the game was played. This is only one of many stories which purport to account for the mystery.

"As generation after generation has been initiated into the dread secret it has become widely known and advertised, and it is said in England that more than one of the heirs, when on the eve of coming of age, has promised his friends and cronies to reveal the mystery, but so far no such promise has ever been kept, nor has any factor of the house ever proved false to the trust reposed in him."

WONDERFUL MIRAGES.

False Peak of Tenerife and Illusions In the Dardanelles.

The peak of Tenerife is known among deep sea sailors as the "false peak." Owing to some peculiarity of the atmosphere it is always seen by mirage in exactly the opposite direction from which it lies, and only the fact that all captains know that the mirage appears long before the true peak is visible through the most powerful glass prevents many a ship from sailing many miles out of her course. It is hard for a greenhorn to believe that the majestic purple mountain towering astern or on the port beam apparently only a short distance off is in reality miles away in exactly the opposite direction and the seemingly solid earth at which he is gazing is only a reflection on the clear mirror of the air. Many weird tales are told of shipwrecked men who have steered for the false peak in the expectation of finding land and have perished of hunger and thirst while pursuing the phantom mountain.

Sometimes the passengers and crew of a vessel on the lookout for the false peak see a much rarer and more beautiful mirage, that of a ship in the sky. It usually appears about 10 o'clock in the morning, about ten degrees above the horizon and under full sail, every delicate spar and tapering mast clearly visible against the blue ether and even the play of light and shadow in the belling canvas plainly discernible to the naked eye. It generally remains in sight half an hour or more before gracefully fading away. The oldest mariner can never remember having seen the mirage of a steamer in that latitude, but always that of a full rigged ship, and this peculiar fact has given birth to many romantic legends about the ship in the sky, all connecting it in some way with the false peak.

The vicinity of the Dardanelles is the real home of mirages, and it is seldom that any vessel sails along the Syrian coast without seeing one or more. Oddly enough, the mirages of the Dardanelles are always the reflections of objects that can be seen with the naked eye and are invariably distorted in grotesque and fantastic caricatures of the things reflected. It is certainly startling to see a steam bearing down with her masts when her water line and should be and the water line where the tops of the masts and funnel ought to show, while her decks are in the right place, thus adding to her uncanny appearance, but this is a frequent sight near the Dardanelles. There is one peculiar feature of the mirages which hover near the false peak—the real objects of which they are reflections are so far away that very often they are never sighted until long after the reflection has vanished, and sometimes not at all.

CURRIE DIVORCE CASE.

Matrimonial Infidelities Ventilated in Divorce Court.

At the divorce court yesterday, the case of Lemuel Allen Currie vs. Mary Eliza Currie, and the counter suit of Mary Eliza Currie vs. Lemuel Allen Currie, were taken up before His Honor Judge Gregory.

In opening the case His Honor asked if the people could not get together and make reasonable efforts to be reconciled. He said that he dreaded the matter being aired in the courts.

Mr. C. N. Skinner, who appeared for Mr. Currie, said that so far as his client was concerned, that he had made reasonable efforts to have the matter fixed up, but it was no use to make any further efforts. That Mrs. Currie had gone about St. John telling all kinds of stories about Mr. Currie, and this was a chance for him to get his side before the public.

It was agreed that the two cases be consolidated.

Mr. Skinner read the libel of Lemuel A. Currie, charging his wife with cruelty. He complained that his wife had treated him in a cruel and violent manner. That on one occasion she kicked him in the right knee, and called him a miserable wretch. She swore at him when he corrected the children, and attacked him at his summer home in Woodman's Point, and threw a glass of water in his face, and the glass at his head, and on another occasion she hit him in the face with a dirty blanket. She called him a brute and said that she would kick his stomach off. He also charged that his wife had invited bad boys to the house who taught his children bad habits, and that she had taken servant girls to the summer home, and given them the best room in the house, making him take an inferior room. He also said that his wife was an infidel and scoffed at religion; also that she had taken one of their children, who was ill, from the city to Woodman's Point against the doctor's and his orders.

The libel set forth that the couple had been married in Michigan on December 27, 1894, by an Episcopal minister, and had four children. His wife had caused him ridicule and scandal before the public at St. John, and as a consequence of her violent temper and cruel treatment, he was obliged to take his meals away from home.

Mrs. Currie, in reply to the libel, denied the allegations emphatically, and charges that her husband was cruel, of intemperate habits, and frequently swore at and ill-treated her before the children, and threatened to turn her from the house.

In turn Mr. Currie replied, denying the charges set forth by his wife. The case was adjourned until tomorrow at ten o'clock.

Laurier Finishing His Work.

MR. LANGLOIS' DE M.

Nationalist attempt to fasten Pamphlet on Him.

MONTREAL, Oct. 25.—Mr. Godfroi Langlois, editor of Le Canada, makes the following statement:—Le Nationalist publishes with glaring heading the statement that the famous article from the Orange Sentinel, entitled "The Duty of the Hour" was printed and published in circular form by the undersigned, so as to raise the passions and enmity of the Province of Quebec against the Conservative party. In support of that statement Le Tory Nationalist organ prints a solemn declaration from Mr. A. Menard, the printer, who states that he was handed a printed circular entitled "The Duty of the Hour," with an order to print five hundred copies of it, which he did print and sent to the Maritime Provinces. As this so-called sensation will doubtless be wired to all the Conservatives presses of the Dominion in order to try and influence opinion at the last hour make the following declaration:

"I was informed from various sources that this circular reproducing the article of The Orange Sentinel was being circulated in the Protestant districts of this Province, and some copies of this circular were sent to various friends in Montreal from those districts. At the same time I received from the Maritime Provinces a demand for this circular in order that the platform speakers of the Liberal party should be enabled to show up the methods and duplicity of their opponents. As I had no time to follow up the Tory distributors of that tract I reprinted five hundred copies of this circular, without changing one word of it, and which were sent to the Maritime Provinces, on the object aforesaid. Before the reprinting of these five hundred copies of this circular the news papers had already republished it and commented upon it. The said circular was not printed in French, and it is my man."

was distributed in the Province of Quebec, as insinuated by the Nationalist. This sensational affair, as it is called by that paper, is nothing but an empty bombshell.

(Signed) Godfroi Langlois, M. P., Managing Director of Le Canada."

IT HAS KILLED HUNDREDS.

Strong purgatives have killed many a good man. Costiveness is bad—violent cathartics are worse. If bothered with stomach trouble or biliousness, try Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They are so mild you can scarcely feel their action, yet so effective that the entire system is cleansed of wastes. Dr. Hamilton's Pills move the bowels gently, they tone the kidneys, assist digestion, clear the skin. For those subject to colds, biliousness, languor there is no better medicine. LANDSLIDE FOR BRYAN.

He Will Win Easily, Says Chairman of Committee.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Democratic National Chairman Mack yesterday authorized a statement in which he claimed the election of William J. Bryan by a landslide. Mr. Mack announced that his reports showed that Mr. Bryan would receive at least 301 electoral votes, or 59 more than is necessary for a choice. Mr. Mack said: "In addition to the 166 votes of the solid south, and in this I include Maryland, I am confident that Mr. Bryan will carry New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Idaho, Montana, Colorado, Nebraska, Nevada, Indiana, Ohio, Delaware, Kansas and South Dakota, a total of 301 votes. All over the country there is a change of 25 to 50 per cent from the Roosevelt vote of 1904 to Mr. Bryan.

"The result is no longer in doubt in New York. The thirty-nine votes of the State are assured for Mr. Bryan. He will win by a substantial plurality. The Empire State can no longer be included in that territory called the enemy's country. I speak from information gained from a thorough canvass and reports from every county in the State."
