Patience and Persistence of the East Indian Trader.

The patience of certain Indian traders is almost beyond belief. However, as a virtue is seldom a simple and single hearted affair, but usually consists of a mixture of several motives, it is safe to conclude that greed mingled with a good share of obstinacy goes to make up the measure of these peddlers' patience. It thus becomes only a passive form of the persistence which belongs to the skillful trader everywhere. A. D. McCormick in "An Artist in the Himalayas" gives an account of a transaction in which he had a part.

He was camping in the mountain region, and merchants were continually coming to his tent in the hope of disposing of their wares. They did not seem to mind if their goods were not bought.

"Only just look at this beautiful work, sahib," said one.

"I am too busy," replied Mr. McCormick.

"Oh, I don't mind. I'll wait."

At the end of the day there was the trader.

"I want to show sahib this beautiful ring."

"I don't want any ring," insisted "sahib." "Go!"

"But, sahib, I sell this ring very cheap."

"I tell you I don't want it!"

"I wait, hazor (highness). If sahib only see the ring he will buy."

The next morning he was seated about 100 yards from the tent, gazing into space. Two hours later he was in the same position. At nightfall he was still there. Mr. McCormick could stand it no longer. "Show me the ring!" he called. "What do you want for it?"

"Oh, hazor, it is a beautiful ring! I made it myself!"

"Here, you old scoundrel, this isn't a stone—it's a piece of glass!"

"Oh, sahib, a stone is good e-stone. Gil-las, no!"

"Well, what do you want for it, you swindler?"

"Fifty rupees."

"Make tracks quick! I wouldn't give more than ten!"

The next day the merchant reappeared, offering the ring for 45 rupees; the day after he came down to twenty; the third his price was ten.

"Sahib said he would give ten!" he insisted.

Mr. McCormick finally in desperation handed out 10 rupees, and the trader went away smiling, having fairly bored his way to success.

Potter Wasps at Work.

The family eumenidae, or solitary wasps, contain some curious workers. Some are miners and dig tiny tunnels in the earth; some are carpenters and cut chambers in wood and then divide the space into chambers by partitions of mud; some build oval or globelike mud nests on branches or twigs. This home may be partitioned into several tiny rooms, into which are put various small insects captured by the mother wasp and upon which the young wasps feed.—St. Nicholas

"Sahib said he would give ten!" he insisted.

An Odd Post Card.

The most curious post card ever produced, according to a leading philatelist, was one which the Japanese government put out in 1873.

In describing he says it is "really a sheet of paper folded so as to form four pages of a narrow book. On the front page is a border inclosing an impressed stamp for the postage rate and a space for the address. On the second page are printed in native characters only minute directions for use. On the third page are ruled a number of vertical lines, between which the sender was to write his communication, and the fourth page was a blank." They remained in use until 1875.

"Eatin' a Mountain."

A good example of the caustic humor of a Scotch examiner floats this way from we know not where. It seems that Scotch parish schoolmasters are in their appointment examined as to their literary qualifications. One of the fraternity, being called by his examiner to translate Horace's ode beginning "Exegi monumentum cere perennius," began as follows: "Exegi monumentum" (I have eaten a mountain). "Ah," said one of the examiners, "ye needna proceed any further, for after eatin' sic a dinner this parish wad be a purr mouthfu' t' ye. Ye mann try some wider sphere."—"Poet Lore."

A Prophetic Dream.

The following prophetic dream was related by the president of a theological seminary: It had been the custom of one of the professors to invite all the students, with members of the faculty, to dinner at a hotel on the annual Thanksgiving day. On the morning of that day the wife of this professor suddenly fell dead in her dressing room at 8 o'clock. That morning at 7 o'clock one of the students woke up from a bad dream. He had dreamed that he sat down with the usual company at the Thanksgiving dinner and that immediately one of his fellow students rose in his place, saying that it was his painful duty to announce to the company that the wife of their host had suddenly died at 8 o'clock that morning. This dream, however, he had instantly banished from his mind as an uncanny probability and had thought no more about it. But on going to the dinner and taking his seat with the company he was unexpectantly amazed to see the student seen in the dream rise and to hear him make the announcement made in the dream.

Making Steel Pens.

Briefly described, steel pens are made as follows: First the steel is rolled into big sheets and then cut into strips about three inches in width. The strips are heated to a bright red and are then allowed to cool gradually, which tempers them. They are next rolled to the necessary thickness and are cut into blank flat pens, and the pens which are usually stamped with the brand or the name of the manufacturer. To shape the pens is the next process. The rounding makes them hold the ink and distribute it more evenly than could be done if they were flat. To harden them they are heated to a cherry red and then suddenly cooled. This not only hardens them, but makes them elastic. The polishing, pointing and finishing come next, and then they are ready for use. The little holes in the pens at the end of the slits serve to make them more elastic and to facilitate the flow of the ink.

A REVOLVING HOUSE

To be Built for New York Jeweller--Owner Wants to Change View From a Room and in Summer Swing Living Rooms Round to the Breeze

NEW YORK, July 9—A house that the room by swinging the house will turn around and around to suit around. In the hot months the living rooms, for instance, can be shifted to the point of the compass from the newest thing in domestic construction, but Clarence True, an architect, of 95 Liberty street, time."

Mr. True, the architect, explained that he didn't expect any insurmountable difficulties in design. "The house will be of wood," he said, "but Little Bay, Long Island, for whether it will be round or octagonal has not yet been decided. I have never heard of any revolving houses, but the principle is simply such as is used in a railroad turntable. The motive power will probably be electricity, and since the house will be mounted on ball bearings the idea is to have it swing about with almost no noise or jar. In the case of the plumbing, that will probably be solved by valve joint connection between the pipes can see no reason for being roasted and the mains in the cellar. The cost of the house completed, exclusive of the land, will be about $35,000 advantage of changing the view of it is estimated.

ALEXANDER -BUNKER

A very pretty wedding took place at the United Baptist Church at Ruslagornish, Sunbury County, Tuesday afternoon June 30th when Miss Stella A. Bunker became the wife of John Louis Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Alexander of Ruslagornish. To the strains of Lohengrin wedding march played by Miss Elsie Noble the bridal party took their places at the altar, which was prettily surrounded with ferns, palms and potted plants. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. H. McLeod of Fredericton Junction the single ring service being used.

The bride looked charming in a handsome gown of white point despire over white silk, with a white picture hat and carried a shower bouquet of white bride's roses. The bridesmaid Miss Margaret Mott, cousin of the groom wore a dainty dress of white muslin, with pink trimmings with a large white picture hat and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The best man was Medley T. Holdsworth of Lynn, Mass, cousin of the bride.

The gift of the groom to the bride was a purse of gold, to the bridesmaid a gold bracelet, and to the groomsmen a set of cuff links.

After the ceremony a dainty supper was served at the home of the bride's mother.

The tables were in charge of Mrs. Murray Patterson of Lincoln, sister of the bride. The gift room was in charge of Miss Mabel Mott, where was displayed silverware, cut glass, china linen, etc.

Shortly after nine o'clock the bride having changed her gown for a travelling suit of brown panama cloth with hat to match left with her husband amid a shower of rice, etc., in a hack for Fredericton and from there will proceed to Halifax, N. S. where their honeymoon will be spent.

They will make their future home at Chatham, N. B.

THE DOCTOR AWAY FROM HOME WHEN MOST NEEDED.

People are often very much disappointed to find that their family physician is away from home when they most need his services. Diseases like cramp colic and cholera morbus require prompt treatment, and have in many instances proven fatal before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. The right way is to keep at hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. No physician can prescribe a better medicine for these diseases. By having it in the house you escape much pain and suffering and all risk. Buy it now, it may save life. For sale by all dealers.

First Burglar—Hark! I hear some one talking.
Second Burglar—What's he saying?
First Burglar—That he never will get on another horse as long as he lives.
Second Burglar—Let's get out of this. No money here; he's lost every cent.

TAKE THE POSTMASTER'S WORD FOR IT.

Mr. F. M. Hamilton, postmaster at Cherryvale, Ind., keeps also a stock of general merchandise and patent medicines. He says: "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is standard here in his line. It never fails to give satisfaction, and we could hardly afford to be without it." For sale by all dealers.

PALMISTRY IS ABSURD.

Whole Thing Beneath Contempt, Says Prof. Stirling of Manchester.

"Palmistry is an absolute absurdity; the whole thing is beneath contempt," declared Prof. Stirling, dean of the medical faculty and professor of physiology at Victoria University, Manchester, in the course of a recent lecture at the Royal Institute.

"Look at your palms," he continued, "and you will find certain classical lines. These lines—the so-called lines of life, heart, and head, and the girdle of Venus, and the bracelets of life around your wrists—what do you suppose they really are? They are nothing more nor less than creases or folds produced by the action of the muscles. The line of heart, for instance, is the flexure of the four fingers. The line of life is the result of the action of the thumb. All these lines that have been given astronomical names by palmists are characteristic flexures. You will find the same lines on the palm of the Barbary ape. Humanity is daily gulled through its extraordinary ignorance of the elemental facts of physiology."

LOST HIS VOICE ENTIRELY.

Mr. J. H. Woods, of Point Rock, Oneida Co., N. Y., had a hard experience. "A bad attack of Catarrh settled in my forehead and the pain over my eyes was so intense I thought my head would burst. My voice grew very hoarse and I coughed every night, and through the winter could scarcely speak. My voice was gone. Two doctors didn't help me at all. The next doctor ordered 'Catarrhazone.' It cured me and now many others here use it also. My doctor says he doesn't know anything so good for Catarrh and Throat Trouble as 'Catarrhazone.' Use it today, you're better tomorrow, 25c. and $1.80 at all dealers. Try Catarrhazone."

FIRST OF ALL WEDDINGS.

Was Common-Law Contract, Says Kansas City Court.

KANSAS CITY, July 8.—The Kansas City Court of Appeals decided today that the first marriage in the world's history was a common-law contract—a mutual agreement between the principals. The court holds that present day common-law marriages are likewise binding.

The suit in question was for $100, brought by Ella Phillips Davis against R. W. Stouffer, administrator of her husband's estate. She asserted that she was his common-law wife.

The court, finding for her, said: "The marriage of Adam and Eve was not only without witnesses, but so far as the records show, they married themselves. He repeated the contract and she acquiesced by silence."

THIS COMBINATION ALWAYS WINS.

How often we hear of people who have had an aching joint or muscle for years. No more speedy remedy can be adopted than to rub on Nervine Plaster, and then apply a Nervine Porous Plaster. At once the muscles begin to resume their wonted vigor and flexibility. Inflammatory symptoms of pain disappear. Nervine Plasters can be worn by the most delicate child or aged person. They are invaluable as thousands have proved. Used along with Nervine they are guaranteed to permanently drive out any muscular ache, pain or stiffness. Try these remedies and judge for yourself. 25c. at all dealers, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.
