CHARLES O'BRIEN DEAD.

Well Known Citizen Expires After Two Weeks' Illness.

Mr. Charles O'Brien, an aged and respected resident of this city, died at his home on Charlotte street at five o'clock on Thursday afternoon after two weeks illness from heart trouble. The deceased gentleman, who conducted a marble establishment on King street, was taken suddenly ill at his place of business about two weeks ago and was removed to his home in an unconscious condition. He failed to rally although at times he was able to recognize those about him. His death while it will cause regret, was not a matter of surprise.

The late Mr. O'Brien was born in Ireland and removed to this country when a young man. He has resided here most of the time since. He was 63 years of age and is survived by a widow and four sons, John of Montreal, and Gerald, Arthur and William of this city. Two daughters also survive, they are Misses Estella and Lillian O'Brien of this city. Mr. Michael O'Brien of Cork Station is a brother and Mrs. John Donovan of the same place is a sister of the deceased.

The funeral will take place on Saturday morning at 8.45 o'clock. High Mass of Requiem will be celebrated at St. Dunstan's church by Rev. Father Carney and interment will be made at the Hermitage. Friends are requested to omit sending flowers.

WON BOTH GAMES.

Tartars Had Fairly Easy Thing of It at Woodstock.

WOODSTOCK, July 28.—The Fred-ericton Tartars, supplemented by Donnelly, of the St. Josephs team, St. John, put a strong team against the locals today and won both afternoon and evening games, the score being 7 to 1 and 5 to 1 respectively. Ten safe safe hits were made off Dow, while the Woodstockers could only get three from Boon in the afternoon game. Charles Donnelly umpired satisfactorily in both games.

The evening game was a far better game of ball. Leighton was in the box for the locals, and few hits were made off him. Two errors at critical times lost the game for the Woodstockers. Boone pitched a good game and Finnemore held him well. Hughes and Geo. Finnemore distinguished themselves at the bat.

HAD A FINE TRIP.

His Worship Mayor Chestnut and Mrs. F. B. Edgcombe rounded up L. C. R. today after a very successful fishing trip to Cams River, which they made under the guidance of Mr. W. H. Allen, of Pennia. They caught a large number of fine trout, and as the Mayor expressed it, "had the trip of their lives." They speak in the highest terms of the service rendered by Mr. Allen.

HUSTLING THE WORK.

Dr. Chapman, medical officer of the Transcontinental Railway at McGivney's, was in the city today. He says the work on the road is progressing rapidly and that about seven hundred men are employed by his section of the work alone. McGivney's Junction is now quite a lively little village.

THE GREAT PHARAOH.

Horemheb Did More For Egypt, Perhaps, Than Any Other.

Horemheb at the time of his accession was forty-five years of age, full of energy and vigor and passionately anxious to have a free hand in the carrying out of his schemes for the reorganization of the government. It was therefore with joy that in about the year 1350 B. C. he sailed up to Thebes, in order to claim the crown.

Had he lived longer he might have been famous as a conqueror as well as an administrator, though old age might retard and tired bones refuse their office. As it is, however, his name is written sufficiently large in the book of the world's great men, and when he died, about 1315 B. C., after a reign of some thirty-five years, he had done more for Egypt than had almost any other pharaoh. He found the country in the wildest disorder, and he left it the master of itself and ready to become once more the master of the empire which Akhnaton's doctrine of peace and good will had lost.

Under his direction the purged worship of the old gods, which for him meant only the maintenance of some-time proved customs, had gained the mastery over the chimerical worship of Aton. Without force or violence he substituted the practical for the visionary, and to Amun and order his grateful subjects were able to cry, "The sun of him who knew thee not has set, but he who knows thee shines; the sanctuary of him who assailed thee is overwhelmed in darkness, but the whole earth is now in light."—Arthur E. P. Weigall in Century.

The Prayer He Didn't Make.

In a certain parish near Dumfries a newly made elder was summoned to the sickbed of a parishioner. Being naturally a bashful man, he was in great anxiety as to the "prayer he was to make" and wished to avoid going altogether. At length he was persuaded by his wife and started on his errand. On his return his wife greeted him with the query: "And how did ye get on, William?" "Oh, grand! He was dead!"—Dundee Advertiser.
