SUMMER COMPLAINT AND DIARRHŒA

Mrs. GEORGE PHILLIPS, Saint Ste. Marie, Ont., writes: "My baby one year old took the Summer Complaint, and was so bad as to pass blood. AUTOMATIC FOOTBALL

Actions of One Player After a Kick in the Head.

"Speaking of queer things in football," said an old player, "I recall a game that was played at Annapolis some years ago between Columbia and the Naval academy teams.

"One of the men on the Columbia team, the quarterback and a very prominent player of the year, started the game in good condition, but after part of the first half he was kicked in the head in one scrimmage. It took some time to get him around, but he suddenly arose and gave a signal. The two teams lined up and play went right on.

"This man went through the game, and no one noticed that anything was wrong with him. When the game was over and the Columbia team was on the way back to New York in the train this player, who had appeared to be in a brown study, suddenly turned to the man next to him and asked, 'Who won the game—what was the score?' and a number of other questions that made it seem as if he hadn't been anywhere near the field of play.

"The players were greatly surprised and thought perhaps the kick in the head had hurt the man so that his mind was affected. Later they learned that he was unable to tell what happened from the moment he got the kick in the head until the time he recovered consciousness, so to speak, on the train.

"His playing of quarterback and his giving of signals had been entirely automatic, or, rather, subconscious. That case was referred to frequently in the psychology courses at Columbia, you may well imagine."

Bismarck and Music.

Bismarck's utterances regarding music are compiled in a book by Kendl, 'Furst und Furstin Bismarck, Erinnerungen aus den Jahren, 1846-1872.' Kendl once saw the man of blood and iron shed tears during a performance of Beethoven's Sonata Appassionata. His favorite composers were Beethoven and Schubert. The only thing he did not like in their works was the variations. These, he said, "do not speak to the heart." Concerning the sonata just referred to he remarked: "This is like the singing and sobbing of a whole human life. If I heard this music often I should always be brave."

Ma Meant Well Anyway.

A young woman overheard an old negroes call to a pickaninny, "Come back, Exy, Exy!"

"Excuse me," said the young woman, "but isn't that a queer name for a baby, aunty?"

"Dat ain't her full name," explained the old woman, with pride, "dat's jes' de pet name I call fer short. Dat chile got a mighty grand name. Her ma picked it out in a medicine book. Yessum, de chile's full name is Ecce-ma."

MARYSVILLE NEWS.

Temperance Meeting Under the Auspices of I. O. G. T.

Aug. 02.—A very interesting and well attended open air meeting was held last evening on temperance under auspices of Grand Lodge, I. O. G. T. of New Brunswick, who were in annual session in Fredericton. The meeting was held on the eastern side of the river in front of the Cotton mill the speakers taking their stand on the steps.

Rev. J. C. Berrie was chairman. After a selection by the Marysville band, (who offered their services for the occasion), the chairman opened the meeting with prayer, then introduced Mr. E. A. Doty, of Yarmouth, Grand Chief Templar of Nova Scotia, who made a few remarks as to the conditions of the noble order in his province. Mr. Doty was followed by a few remarks by District Chief Templar Jarvis, who made his maiden speech and spoke in reference to the temperance work being done in his district. The next speaker was Grand Chief Templar J. V. Jackson of Moncton, who was yesterday re-elected to the high office where he has so faithfully and successfully filled for the past two years. Mr. Jackson was right at home speaking from the Cotton mill steps as he is manager of the Moncton Mill and knows the cotton business from roof to basement. The speaker made a very interesting and instructive address and spoke of the need of prohibition and of the need of prohibition work among the young as well as from a political standpoint. In closing his very able discourse he made an appeal to all to fight the noble battle for God and right by standing for temperance in all things.

Rev. J. G. Berrie made a very humorous speech and told a good London story of a chimney sweep. The meeting was brought to a close with prayer by Rev. Mr. Cann.

Although a large number of those present at the meeting were children the best of order was kept throughout and the speakers were delighted with the reception they received and were very thankful to the band for their kindness in offering their services.

Mr. Thomas Kinkley left by the 6.30 express last night for Cornwall, Ont., to spend two weeks with his mother.

Clarence McAlone, Jim Flanagan, Jim Pine and Charles and Cameron McInnis were among those who left Marysville yesterday for the harvest fields.

OTTAWA LETTER.

PUBLICITY DID IT.

The publicity which has resulted from a careful system of inspection has had the effect of educating those who are interested in such matters to a marked degree, and a service is insisted upon now which was not thought of a few years ago.

The work conducted by the department upon the lines of the enlightened policy outlined here cannot be judged by immediate results. The educational influence which prefaces the way for better work in the future is of the greatest importance. The benefits which are derived from the expenditure in this connection accrue indefinitely, and the good work goes on.

There is nothing of this kind found in the Borden platform, and in Tory days it was unheard of, therefore it could not have been stolen from the Tories.

FRUIT MARKS ACT.

The administration of the fruit marks act has been of immense value to the fruit trade of Canada. English dealers now have more confidence in the marking and packing of Canadian apples, and the result is seen in the difference in price between Canadian and American apples. Canadian apples bring a higher price in the British market than American ones, in consequence of the better quality of the goods, the superior improvements in packing.

One fails to find anything of this kind in the Borden platform, and the Tories did nothing of the sort in their revolutionary days.

TELEPHONE COMPANIES.

The question as to the best policy for a government to pursue in regard to the telephone companies, as affecting the Dominion as a whole, is an important one, and there are many interests and aspects peculiar to it that make a consideration of the subject very interesting, when framing a policy or legislation dealing with the matter.

CONDITIONS DIFFER HERE.

Conditions in Canada with regard to the telephone situation are rapidly changing. Until a few years ago, the business was entirely in the hands of one corporation, the Bell Telephone Company, this was because the patents for the telephone invention were controlled by the one syndicate of men or company. Today what is known as the Independent movement is spreading in all directions, and there are now many associations or companies of local men in townships and villages formed for the purpose of giving a local telephone service.

MANY INDEPENDENT PHONES.

In Canada, the latest information given out by the secretary of the association formed by those engaged in this Independent movement, showed 295 Independent companies or associations in the Dominion of Canada. Of this number 115 are in the province of Ontario, and about 41 in Quebec.

WHAT HAPPENED IN WEST.

In the west the government of Manitoba has adopted the policy of building trunk lines and assisting municipalities by guaranteeing debentures for the installation of local telephone systems. In the province of Alberta, the government has also adopted a telephone policy under which they propose to construct trunk and toll lines, and, if necessary, install local plants in the cities and towns. The province of Saskatchewan is proceeding upon similar lines.

These western provinces were able to deal with the telephone question from a different standpoint from what was possible in the east, as in these new provinces the Bell Company had not become established to such a wide extent, and many of the municipalities throughout the settled districts were without telephone service. The governments of the west, therefore, had a field, that in comparison with Ontario or Quebec, had small vested interests or rights to be considered, and it was possible for them at the commencement to lay down a policy for the construction of government telephone lines, and the installation of government local exchanges, or to assist the municipalities to establish such exchanges.

SITUATION COMPLICATED.

While the western governments have deemed it wise to embark in the telephone business, in the effort to give to all classes in the community this utility, it does not follow that a policy could be laid down by the Dominion government which would be best for all concerned, or one that would work out to the best interests of all the people.

The very fact that the independent movement has made such rapid progress in the last two or three years and the fact that the western governments have adopted the policy indicated greatly complicates the situation when considered from a Dominion standpoint, and makes it a question which will have to receive the most careful consideration when framing a policy or preparing legislation.

The telephone has become a social and business necessity, and the aim of every government or municipality should be directed towards improving and cheapening the service. The efforts of a government should be to remove as far as possible anything that tends to keep from the farmer in the rural districts or from the citizen in the city or town a good telephone service at a moderate rate.

TELEPHONES IN CANADA.

The statistics through the Mulock Commission showed that in Canada there was one telephone for every 100 of the population, whereas in the United States, in the State of Ohio, there was one telephone for every 13 of the population, in Iowa, one for every 11; Indiana, one for every 12; and so on. This would indicate that in the States mentioned the telephone had been brought within reach of all classes in the community. The figures hold good with rural districts as in the cities.
