HEARTY WELCOME

Extended to Colonial Contingents in London

AND PREPARATIONS MADE FOR THEIR ENTERTAINMENT.

London, June 18.—The Colonial and Indian contingent for the Coronation processions now in London already number nearly 2,000 foot and horse. Colonel Pellatt has brought the Canadian force to London from the Parisian in excellent form, and Lieut. J. Lyons Biggar, as Chief Staff Officer had made excellent arrangements for entertaining the troops at Alexandra Palace.

This Canadian officer will direct the arrangements for the Colonial forces, about 1,000 of whom will be mounted in the second day's coronation procession.

It is intended that the Colonials and Indian troops shall have the fullest liberty during their stay in England. They will be relieved from all duty except the rehearsals necessary to fit them for their part in the celebration of the Coronation. Their entertainment has been the object of solicitous care and most detailed preparation by a committee, of which the Duke of Abercorn is the head. The executive of this body, directed by Major-General the Hon H. Eaton (hon. secretary) and Mr. Oliver Williams (treasurer), have organized in a most skilful manner the entertainment of the Indian and Colonial soldiers. The Colonial Office has chartered two troopships to enable the men to see the Naval Review. They will go down to Southampton on the morning after the Coronation, and stay at the southern port until Sunday. The excursion will include a visit to Portsmouth Dockyard and various men-of-war. In London, on their return, there will be visits to all the places of interest in the metropolis. Among others, they will be shown the Tower, the Royal Arsenal at Woolwich, the National Gallery, the British Museum, the Mint, the Royal Mews, the Tate Gallery, the Wallace Collection, Windsor Castle, the Guildhall, Madame Tassaud's, Doulton's Potteries, (Thornycroft's Works, and The Daily Telegraph and the Times printing works. The Royal Aquarium, in addition to free admission to the great establishment which claims to give the biggest show in the world, promises to provide two special matinees for the Colonials' special edification. The music-halls are also giving matinees, and Earl's-court has sent 3,000 free tickets for "Paris in London" and has promised a thousand more for the Big Wheel. The New Palace steamers have undertaken to provide about 200 free tickets a week during the Colonials' stay, and the Belle Steamers are giving tickets at reduced rates. All the railway companies will issue return tickets at single fares, besides providing special excursions.

A "GO-BASKET" FOR BABY.

A Western man has invented what might be called the Pooh-Bah in the way of baby carriages, if it can be called a baby carriage. It is a home on wheels for the youngster, in which he can be rolled, lifted up and carried, eat his meals and even sleep, if necessary.

It is the idea of a Cincinnati man named Withrow, but there is really nothing new under the sun, for it is merely a variation of the arrangements by which the squaws in the old days carried their papooses from place to place on their backs.

The "go-basket," as it is called, is also made of wickerwork, and has a nice soft lining inside of quilted satin, with a lace border for the millionaire darling. An ornamental strap is fastened about the baby and buckled to the basket, so that the child cannot possibly fall out. When the mother wishes to take it out for exercise she pulls what is called the "wheeling handle" from the top. Then she lifts the empty basket and releases the rubber-tired wheels from pockets in the side. These are fastened into position automatically by means of springs. Next, the baby is placed in it, and everything is ready for the outing.

If they come to a rough place, where trundling is difficult, or wish to take a street car, mother merely pulls a cord with one hand to release the springs, and the wheels slide back out of sight into their sockets. Taking up the stationary handle on her arm, she carries the baby wherever she wishes, as she would a market basket.

In this shape the baby's home can be placed on a chair so that it can eat its dinner, without being removed. It can sit beside its mother in the street car and play to its heart's content.

By pressing another spring the basket can be set on the sidewalk, while the mother talks to her friends, with no danger of a tip-over or other accident. As the empty basket weighs but six pounds, and the baby it will accommodate seldom averages over 20 or 25 pounds, it is not a very heavy load to carry for a short distance.

PHYSICIAN'S DARING EXPERIMENT.

Paris, June 18.—Dr. Garnault of this city who challenged Prof. Koch's assertion at the London tuberculosis congress last year that it was impossible for a human being to catch tuberculosis from cattle and who went to Berlin and offered to make a practical test, his offer not being accepted, has made an exhaustive study of the subject and is convinced that Prof. Koch was not only mistaken but he accuses him of deceiving public opinion. Dr. Garnault in order to prove his contention went to the slaughter houses of La Villette yesterday and inoculated himself with consumptive matter taken from a diseased cow, which had been seized in order to be destroyed. The operation was performed in the presence of three doctors. On the previous night Dr. Garnault blistered his forearm below the elbow and after exposing the wound, from which the blood was flowing freely, applied to it a poultice composed of pounded glands of the cow. He left this in contact with his flesh for two hours and his arm was not washed or dressed afterwards. What remains of the glands will be injected into guinea pigs. The doctor does not expect results for two or three weeks. The disease may then manifest itself in the form of a local affection and thence spread to the lungs. Out of ten known cases of slaughter men who were accidentally contaminated three have died and the health of the others was shattered. If the disease declares itself Dr. Garnault will be treated by Dr. Theodore Smith of Boston, who has been exposed to the dangers of the contagion of bovine tuberculosis. Dr. Garnault said:

"The veins were avoided in inoculating in order to obtain the maximum demonstrative effects from the minimum risks. If contagion results, Prof. Koch's error will be proved. If the result is negative I shall make an intravenous one of my fingers, which I shall amputate if contagion occurs."

The wife of Dr. Garnault was kept in ignorance of the experiment until he had been operated upon. She is now greatly distressed.

A FATAL LANDSLIDE.

St. Vallier, Que., June 18.—In the parish of St. Vallier, county of Bellechasse, a landslide of considerable extent occurred on Tuesday near the railway station, close to "Little River Blanche," on the property of Jos. Lecomte, demolishing the flour mill and private dwelling of Raymond Bilodeau. Mr. Bilodeau and a girl of five were buried in the ruins. Mrs. Bilodeau was got out from under the ruins half an hour after the accident in a terrible condition, with both legs broken and otherwise bruised on the body. She only lived two hours. The small girl has not as yet been found.

The mill and house were carried over thirty feet east from their original place. Mr. Joseph Lecomte loses about two acres of land, all in seed, representing almost half of his seed for the year. There is no sign left of the river, it is only a pile of wet sand, the bridge that was used for crossing the river, and a part of the highway road were carried over thirty feet further to the north, leaving a hollow where the public highway was formerly. The municipality will have considerable work to repair the damage. It is thought the landslide was caused by the high spring tides flowing into the west river.

Startling Difference in Complexion.

BEAR ISLAND.

(Special correspondence to the Herald.)

June 16.—The farmers of this neighborhood are busy putting in their buckwheat and turnips when the weather will admit of doing so. Many farmers have not sown as many oats as they intended, owing to so much wet weather they were unable to do so.

Mr Estabrook of Jacksontown, Car. Co., was married in the Union church here, last Wednesday, to Laura, the eldest daughter of Judson Gunter of this place. Rev Dr McLeod performed the ceremony. Laura was a great favorite here with both old and young. She took a leading part in all public entertainments, was organist in the church, being a fine singer as well as an excellent player. She will be much missed.

Gordon Grant of Shogomoc, is down on the Perley farm with a large crew of men peeling hemlock bark for James Scott Allen Stairs of Southampton, is also at work with quite a crew on Charles R. Gunter's place, for the same party. J. Murray Murch has also a small crew at work. Mr Scott says he intends having about 1,000 cords peeled in this section this summer.

Mr. Alex. McCorquindale, foreman for the corporation drive here, who discharged all of his men last week has been around today hiring men to commence work again, but finds it hard to get men. His old hands thought he was done with them so most of them hired for the bark woods and other pursuits.

There was a large gathering at Mr. and Mrs. Byron McNally's silver wedding. The guests had a very enjoyable time and the presents were numerous and valuable.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Perley, of Fredericton, made a visit to his old home a few days ago.

Roy Jordan and Murray Cliff have gone to Pokiook to work in the mill there.

We are pleased to see the steamer Aberdeen along every day, it is what we have not seen for years a steamer passing here every day near the last of June.

GREATEST POLITICAL CONTEST.

Montpelier, Vt., June 18.—The capital city of Vermont is now the battleground of what is considered as the most notable political conflict in the State for a generation. Since early yesterday the Republican campaign workers, delegates and friends, numbering upwards of 2000 in all, have been arriving. The most intense interest is maintained in the contest for the gubernatorial nomination, and it is apparent that tomorrow's convention will have to take several ballots before the fight between the candidates will be finally settled. The candidates are Gen. John McCullough, of Bennington, Percival W. Clement, of Rutland, and Fletcher D. Proctor, of Proctor.

In recent years there has been much dissatisfaction with the workings of prohibition, until now the present campaign is being fought on issues growing out of the liquor laws. Gen. McCullough has not taken a decided stand one way or the other, but announced that he would obey the mandate of the voters, whether expressed in a referendum or by their voting on the local option issue. Mr. Clement is the high license and local option candidate while Mr. Proctor is an avowed prohibitionist.

The total number of delegates entitled to vote tomorrow in the convention is 725, making 363 the number necessary for a choice. It was estimated tonight that McCullough was sure of 325 delegates, Mr. Clements of about 222 and Mr. Proctor of about 170. The McCullough workers expect many defections to their candidate after the first ballot.

For lieutenant governor, Judge E. S. Stanton of Roxbury appears to be the leading candidate.

FIRST STATUE TO MCKINLEY.

A statue costing $20,000 has just been erected in a park at Muskegon, Mich., the gift of Charles H. Hackley. One of these statues in the park is the cause of Mr. Hackley's latest thrills of happiness. The statue is that of the late President McKinley, and it was unveiled in Muskegon with imposing ceremonies. It is the first image of the martyred President that has been unveiled since his death.

At Wednesday night's meeting of the Finance Committee of the Quebec City Council, it was decided in the future to impose a tax of $300 annually upon commercial travellers and a by-law to that effect will be drafted at once. In former years the city imposed a tax of $60, but commercial travellers went before the Legislature and had the law amended, which caused a loss of revenue amounting to $16,000 to the city. Now by a recent act passed in the Provincial Legislature, the city has the right to again enforce a tax. It was at first proposed to fix the amount at $500.

LACK OF SPIRITUALITY.

Kingston, Ont., June 18.—At the Synod of the Diocese of Ontario, which opened here today, His Lordship Bishop Mills gave a lengthy charge. It was towards the close that he lamented the lack of financial help given the church. God's cause was but poorly sustained. His work and His care which should be theirs was lacking. He then proceeded: "I feel that lack of spirituality is at the bottom and is the cause of all our shortcomings and failures. If we had the mind of Christ, if we were truly His, and if we were led and indwelt by the Spirit of God, we would have that mind, then we could not look on so coldly at the church's needs, at souls perishing. The interests of the Master would be our interests, His care our care. What we need is a spiritual revival, an awakening."

In this connection he read a communication from the Archbishop of Montreal, enclosing the Montreal Synod resolution for the promotion of a general mission for stimulating spiritual life.

"This spiritual deadness," he continued, "which we deplore is widespread, not only throughout the church in this Dominion, but in the church throughout the United States, and indeed the world over. The things of the world seem to absorbing not only men's thoughts, but their very lives. This seems to be the special instrumentality with which the enemy in this age is fighting against the Church of God. It is the same spirit which was dominant before the flood, and in the cities of the plain which the Lord destroyed; and it is the spirit which our Lord has foretold shall be rife and rampant as the time of His second coming draws near, the spirit of the world, which knows not Jesus Christ, and believes not in Him."

North Shore Tragedies.

Campbellton, N. B., June 19.—As Webb's special engine was going to Metapedia yesterday, an unknown man was run over and killed near Tide Head. He had "Young America" tattooed on his arm and a motto of some order on his breast.

Monday night the I. C. R. manager's car was rushed from Moncton to Metapedia to convey Dean Hoffman to Montreal to connect with the New York train. The Dean, who was suffering from Bright's disease, expired shortly before reaching Montreal. He was a multimillionaire and one of the oldest members of the Restigouche Salmon Club. The Restigouche will miss him, as his generosity was widespread.

SUMMER VISITORS.

A larger influx of visitors than usual is expected this year at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, N. B., one of the most charming resorts on the Atlantic Coast. The number of summer residences is greatly increasing, and the hotel accommodation is likely to be taxed to its utmost. St. Andrews-by-the-Sea has many attractions—in its summer climate, picturesque environments, facilities for bathing and fishing, and not the least, in the eyes of many, are its golf links, which are said to be the finest natural ones in America.

ONTARIO MEMBER DISQUALIFIED.

It seems that Mr. W. R. Smyth the Conservative candidate, who was declared elected for Algoma, will be disqualified and cannot take his seat in the Legislature. Mr. Smyth is postmaster at Rydal Bank, a hamlet a few miles north of Bruce Mines, where he kept a general store, and investigation at Ottawa shows that he has not resigned that office.

The report that Dr. Shadd, the colored candidate, had been elected to the Northwest Territorial Legislature for Kintistino is contradicted by the latest returns just received at Dauphin.
