Our stores are filling up rapidly with the newest goods out for the Fall and Winter trade. We will handle a superior class of goods for the coming seasons. Many lines that we have sole control of for this city and county. Our lowest cash prices will prevail on every article that enters our stores.

Fall and Winter Underwear, Fall Shirts, Winter Shirts, Fall Hats, Winter Caps, Gloves, Hose and Fur Lined Coats. When you are ready to buy please consult our prices before your money is all spent, that is all we will tell you in this letter.

A Big Cut on Wash Goods.

This week we will offer for the last time. 100 pieces of 8c to 10c. Prints, Muslins, Gingham, Flannelettes, Duck and other odd lots all at one price, 5c. per yd. Come early and get your next year's supply.

16 Cases of Fall Footwear.

16 cases of Winter Boots for Men, Women, Boys, Misses and Children, direct from the makers. Our Shoe Department is now on the ground floor and it will pay you 25c. to $1.00 per pair of Boots or Shoes you will buy from us. Just give us a trial this week.

Now about 25c. Sale.

The biggest success we ever made on a sale was this 25c sale now on. Of course the loss to us is beyond your estimation. It is a big loss, but the end will pan out as we anticipate, as we will not carry over a 10th part of Summer Goods to what other dealers will have to do, and this week will make a big hole in unseasonable goods. Whatever our 4 page circular calls for is here yet for those who are slow coming and many new attractions besides.

The Solid Hoofed Hog.

There are some solid hoofed hogs in the world, but they are few and far between. Darwin has a great deal to say about such pigs in his "Origin of Species," as there were only three in England at the time he wrote this book.

The solid hoofed hog is not a freak of nature, as many suppose, but a genuine case of reversion to a primitive or ancestral type. It seems that, unlike the prehistoric ancestor of the modern horse, which has four toes or hoofs, the old cloverleaf, from which animal all members of the swine family are descended, had a solid hoof, and in the course of ages, as the old parent form died out and the modern wild boar, domestic hog, peccary, etc., were evolved this solid hoof became through what Darwin calls "adaptation" and "natural selection" divided up into two parts, so that all modern hogs are cloven hoofed. Occasionally, however, a hog is born with the old original solid hoof of the primitive hog ancestor, thus demonstrating the tendency in all animals to revert now and then to the parent form.

Dumas' Wealth and Poverty.

Alexandre Dumas' rise to wealth and luxury was almost as marvelous as that of his most celebrated hero. He built a magnificent chateau, which he named Monte-Christo. There he entertained all comers, friend and stranger alike, with more than oriental magnificence and sometimes with oriental mystery. His purse was open to all who sought it, and the day came when he experienced Timon's fate without acquiring Timon's disposition. He could not become a misanthrope, though his fortune disappeared almost as suddenly as it came, and then he learned the ingratitude of men. His last days were passed not in poverty, but in narrow circumstances. He left Paris in the fall of 1870 just as the German army was closing in to besiege it and when France was feeling its deepest woe. To the last he preserved his gaiety and youthful spirit. "I had but one napoleon in my pocket when I first came here," he said. "I go away with two, and yet they call me a spendthrift!"

Wade Hampton's Slaves.

It is related of General Wade Hampton that on one occasion he was riding along a highway that led through one of his numerous southern plantations when he met a slave of fine build and appearance. He drew rein and said: "You are a likely fellow. Who do you belong to?" "Wade Hampton, sir." "Ah! And who is Wade Hampton?" "Please, sir, master, you must be from de north, 'kase Mas' Wade Hampton is de berry fust gemmun in de south."

The story used to be told to illustrate the greatness in numbers of Wade Hampton's slaves. His own slaves did not know him by sight—that is, hundreds and thousands of them did not. The slaves he owned numbered 4,000, and he was therefore the largest slave owner of the south or of modern times.

A Royal Talisman.

For 400 years the Hohenzollern family has possessed a peculiar talisman in the shape of a black stone set in a ring, each head of the house having passed the charm on to the next in succession for many generations. Frederick the Great is said to have found the ring sealed in a package with instructions as to its preservation and transmission written by Frederick I. Precisely what value or significance attaches to this carefully treasured bit of jewelry it would be difficult to say. Tradition says that a huge toad hopped into the royal presence centuries ago with the stone held in its mouth. As to whether the golden setting in which the stone is now preserved is due to the forethought of the intelligent toad or to the afterthought of the Hohenzollerns tradition fails to enlighten us.

Floorwalking.

Head Floorwalker (severely)—I heard you tell the lady she would find the ribbons at the third counter to the left. New Floorwalker—That's where they are.

Head Floorwalker—Yes; but you should have told her to go to the right past the necktie bargain counter, turn to the left past the stocking bargain counter, then three counters to the right past the silk skirt bargain counter, and so on. You'll never make a floorwalker.

Saving His Father's Hair.

Lord Charles was often troubled by importunate acquaintances, who begged for some of his father's (the Duke of Wellington) hair. On such occasions he said to an old servant whose hair was like the duke's: "Sit down, John. I must cut off another lock!"
