LAURIER IN PARIS.

A Round of Festivities in His Honor.

Toronto, August 21.—The Telegram's cable from London says: "Le Temps, of Paris, says Sir Wilfrid Laurier and M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affairs, will together examine several commercial conventions which might be concluded between France and Canada. Sir Wilfrid entertains at luncheon today prominent Canadians in Paris and the staff of the Canadian agency. Tomorrow the Canadian Premier will give a luncheon to St. Sulpice seminary, in honor of the St. Sulpician fathers, the first colonizers of Canada. On Wednesday next Sir Wilfrid will attend a banquet at Eille, and on Aug. 30 he will be a guest at a banquet to be given at the Palais d'Orsay Hotel, Paris."

Montreal, Aug. 21.—A personal friend of Sir Wilfrid Laurier today received a letter from the premier, who at the time of writing was at Knebworth Castle, now occupied by Lord Strathearn.

Sir Wilfrid says that his health has not been very good for some time. He has been very much occupied with the work of the colonial conference, but he adds that the greatest trouble with him has been his dissipation, such as dinners and receptions. These have worn him out but he hopes that his trip through Switzerland will do him a world of good. The prospect of the trip already caused him to feel much better.

TOUCHED ENGLISH HEARTS

London, August 20.—English hearts are touched by the Kaiser's eloquent speech at Hamburg yesterday when unveiling the statue of his mother. The references which he made to the sanctity of her married life, to her careful tending of her husband during his fatal and prolonged illness, to the dignity with which she endured her previous loss, and to the patient fortitude under her own sufferings, all bore witness to the deep affection that existed between mother and son. The Daily Chronicle says that all Englishmen admire the Kaiser, and that admiration will be heightened by the tribute just paid to the memory of the Empress Frederick.

Laid to Rest.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Alex. Fraser of Covered Bridge, took place yesterday and was very largely attended. Rev. A. D. McLeod conducted the service, which was held at the house.

Mr. Gellibrand, of London, England, well known as a former resident of this city, is among the guests at the Barker. He is engaged extensively in the lumber trade, having his head office at Cardiff, Wales, and is here on business with Donald Fraser & Sons whose products he largely handles.

Tomorrow, Saturday.

There will be special bargains and half-price goods laid on the counters tomorrow at Edgcombe's. Also a quantity of new goods in the various departments that would be interesting to ladies at this season of the year.—d.

A Dampener.

A young man bashfully approached a popular official a few days ago and said:

"Judge, I have come to ask your advice. You have always been like a father to me, and I have now come to you in a very important matter. I am thinking of getting married."

"Well, young man," interrupted the judge, "if you are thinking of getting married go do it right away. Don't wait, because the girl might not be willing this time tomorrow."

"But, you see," protested the youth, "I'm afraid I'm not able to take care of her."

"Tut, tut," deprecatingly retorted the judge. "Why, when I got married I was twenty-one years old and $1,800 in debt."

"Is that so?" exclaimed the other, with happy encouragement gleaming from his eye. "And I suppose you must now be worth about—"

"And now," concluded the judge, "I'm only $3,600 in debt."

The young man has not yet married.

African Snakes.

The African cobra is regarded somewhat reverently by the natives of that country, who once a year kill a cobra de capello and hang its skin to the branch of a tree, tail downward. Then all the children born during the last year are brought out and made to touch the skin. This the parents think puts them under the serpent's protection. The cobra de capello divides with the horned viper of Africa the questionable honor of being the "worm of the Nile," to whose venomous tooth Cleopatra's death was due.

The Kaffirs use the venom of this snake's cousin, the puff adder, to poison their arrows, and when they have any small quantity left they swallow it, having a theory that it will protect them from the bad effects of future bites. The Snake tribe of the Punjab say that the bites of snakes do not hurt them, and if they find a dead serpent they dress it in clothes and give it a superb funeral.

A Simple Cure For Earache.

"I am afraid I have greatly interfered with my own practice," said a celebrated aurist, "by giving the following advice to many of my friends: 'At the first symptoms of earache let the patient lie on the bed with the painful ear uppermost. Fold a thick towel and tuck it around the neck; then with a teaspoon fill the ear with warm water.'

"Continue doing this for fifteen or twenty minutes. The water will fill the ear orifice and flow over on the towel. Afterward turn over the head, let the water run out and plug the ear with warm glycerin and cotton."

"This may be done every hour until relief is obtained. It is an almost invariable cure and has saved many cases of acute inflammation. The water should be quite warm, but not too hot."—London Tit-Bits.

Getting the King's Ear.

The gentle art of speeding a parting guest is not new. The story from Hertfordshire, as told in the "Victoria County History" series, reveals the method tried on King James I. Hunting had taken the place of state affairs in the monarch's affections, and one morning a favorite hound was missing. The dog appeared the next day, bearing a message tied to his neck: "Good Mr. Jowler, we pray you speak to the king for us (he hearing you every day and so doth not us) that it will please his majesty to go back to London, for else the country will be undone, all our provisions spent already."

The Bent Pin.

"Don't you consider it lucky to pick up a pin?" Inquired the superstitious man.

"Not if you pick it up by sitting down on it," replied the schoolmaster promptly.—Philadelphia Press.

Honest.

"Is he honest?"
"Honest! Why, say, I don't believe that man would cheat an Indian out of his reservation if he had the chance!"—Chicago Post.

Schoolroom Gems.

The following definitions are fresh from the schoolroom and are given undiluted:

"Apherbility is the state of being an apherbile."

"Afferbility is the state of being insane on one subject only."

"Reverberation is when it is made again into a verb."

"The Te Deum is a grand opera."

"The British museum is the principal building in Paris."

"Virgil was a Vestal Virgin."

"Julius Caesar was the mother of the Gracchi."

The Other Side.

Husband (mildly)—You should remember, my dear, that the most patient person that ever lived was a man.

Wife (impatiently)—Oh, don't talk to me about the patience of that man Job! Just think of the patience poor Mrs. Job must have had to enable her to put up with such a man.

Tracing the Responsibility.

Sappedhedde—No woman ever made a fool of me.

Miss Caustique—Who did, then?

A man may be too poor to hire a lawyer and at the same time can afford to keep his own counsel.—Philadelphia Record.
