

WHERE DRS. DIFFER.

Police Court Still Engaged with Penniac Quarantine Case.

DR. FISHER CONTINUES HIS TESTIMONY UNDER CROSS EXAMINATION.

Smallpox vs. Chickenpox.

In his cross-examination yesterday afternoon in the Penniac quarantine case at the police court, Dr. Fisher said the Manzer woman had all the symptoms of smallpox at a later stage. The witness then gave a history of the smallpox cases in this section of York county. Mrs. Manzer's was a marked case of smallpox and he considered it necessary to quarantine all the houses between Collings and Manzer, both inclusive. He had about a quarter mile of road roped off and placed guards at the ropes. The first time he visited the Manzer house he did not think it was smallpox, and took no extraordinary precautions. On the second visit, about a week later, he diagnosed the disease as smallpox and thoroughly disinfected and fumigated his clothing after the visit.

He visited the Wade case with Doctor Mullin. They were doubtful of the exact nature of the disease on account of the obscure history and the absence of characteristic symptoms. When he visited the Manzer case for the second time the disease was at the pustular stage.

A rash covered Mrs. Manzer's face, chest, feet, hands, etc. The next day he put the guards on and established a regular quarantine and posted placards. He consulted with Dr. Mullin, chairman of the county board of health. On inquiry, he found that Love, Culligan, Oldenberg and two Collings women had visited the infected house and as a result ordered that their houses should be quarantined at once. All the inmates of Manzer house were vaccinated, except those with rash, and Mrs. Manzer, who was exempt for medical reasons. The daughters did not contract the disease. He vaccinated all who had been in the Manzer house. He did not provide a nurse for Mrs. Manzer, as it was in Doctor Mullin's jurisdiction.

After being convinced of the nature of the Manzer case, he visited Collings' and saw Ernest, who had been afflicted with smallpox. He came to the door and was examined there. The rash was more advanced than in the Manzer case, but of a milder type, and was at the drying up stage. The disease could easily be detected on his legs, feet, hands, etc., which were examined. A further examination was not considered necessary, owing to the Manzer case.

He obtained the history of the symptoms of the Collings and also those of the time of visitation and found that they were characteristic of smallpox—headache, pain in limbs and back, vomiting, fever etc. There were eight or nine inmates in the Collings house, and most of them had a rash. Those who had not attacked were vaccinated. The most of them had a rash and were getting over it. The court adjourned until 11 o'clock to day.

Today's Proceedings.

The cross examination of Dr. Fisher was resumed this morning. He did not know that Oldenberg, the barber, did business for two months while he had the rash. It might be possible for him to have had a mild form of varioloid confined to legs, shave his customers and not communicate the disease. Thirty or forty years ago it was recognized in the profession that vaccination of a patient, while rendering an attack of smallpox less violent in him, would not prevent an unvaccinated person from contracting the disease from him in the severest form. By generations of successful vaccination the disease has become milder and an unvaccinated person might be exposed and not contract the disease. The germ of the disease itself is not so powerful as it formerly was. He had examined Oldenberg's leg, the rash particularly. It did not at that stage look like smallpox. It might be important in the early stage of the disease for a physician to feel whether the pimples were hard or soft in order to distinguish whether a disease were smallpox or chickenpox. He did not do it in either of the cases he examined because he did not see them at that stage. He would be very doubtful that any physician could positively diagnose smallpox until the rash came. The rash is the most important proof in the diagnosis. Dr. Fisher had examined the Collings case and it did not resemble chickenpox.

Question—Did the rash in the Collings case resemble the rash usually in chicken pox?

PE-RU-NA

IS THE

WOMAN'S BEST FRIEND,
So Says Mrs. Rose, of New York City,
And Tens of Thousands of Other Women.

Mrs. Jennie Rose, 362 W. Twenty-Second Street, New York City, writes: The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen: "Peruna is a blessing to suffering women. I suffered with female trouble since I began menstruation, and every month I suffered two and three days of untold agony, and had to arrange my work and duties so as to be in bed every month for two days at least.

"My brother was cured of Bright's Disease from the use of Peruna and so I determined to try it for my trouble.

"Imagine my great joy when I found that it relieved me quite a bit the first month and I was entirely without pain during that period after having used Peruna only four months.

"This is about two years ago and all during that time I have suffered no pain. I can now come and go as I like and consider Peruna woman's best friend and wish that every suffering woman might know that she can find relief through the use of this medicine."

Truly yours,

MRS. JENNIE ROSE.

Answer—I do not think so.

Question—In what respects did it differ?

This was objected to as being irrelevant and was disallowed.

Dr. Fisher could not remember that he had told Hiram Wade that his disease was chickenpox, and which was two months prior to the other case. Smallpox is more contagious than chickenpox. It would depend on the stage of the disease whether or not it would be possible for a community to have smallpox patients moving around freely without quarantine or restriction and not have a large number of residents take the disease. Dr. Fisher was not treating Hiram Wade, was just driving past, noticed his rash, and asked Dr. Mullin who has charge of the district to examine the man with him (Dr. Fisher). He had no personal knowledge whether or not Wade was past the disquamation stage at the time the quarantine was placed; probably he was. Mrs. Manzer or any one else could not tell that she had an abrupt attack of fever before the rash appeared. Could not remember that he had asked Mrs. Manzer if she had had an abrupt attack of fever before the rash, because he did not think she could tell. The rash appears from three to four days after the chill in ordinary cases; generally starts on the forehead, and in twenty-four hours has come out all over the body, not in successive crops of vesicles as in chickenpox. The complainant did not see any of the cases at the time when he could determine whether or not there were successive crops. The average case of chicken pox lasts in the vicinity of a week. Smallpox sometime leaves permanent scars but this is not always the case. Chickenpox sometimes leaves scars but could not say it would do so without

Mrs. Ellen Thompson, Battle Town, Ky., writes:

"When I wrote you for advice I was very bad off. When I received your letter I commenced using Peruna and it did just what you said it would. I have had a cough for about fifteen years and your medicine has done me more good than anything I have ever used. I am so thankful to you for your advice to me."—Mrs. Ellen Thompson.

Mrs. James Eighmey, Grape, Mich., writes:

"I have been troubled with pain before and during my monthlies ever since I was seventeen. I was also troubled with other female weakness. I took your treatment, and am now well, and thank you for your kind advice."—Mrs. James Eighmey.

Mrs. John Meyers, Erhart, O., writes: "I have been a sufferer from chronic catarrh for years and have thereby lost the sense of smell entirely. I had four of the best physicians in this vicinity without receiving any benefit whatever. "Now I am once more a well woman. I find Peruna to be the best medicine in the world as it has done me more good than my physician could have done for me. My friends say I look ten years younger. I tell them that Peruna did it. I can't thank you enough for your free advice."—Mrs. John Meyers.

Mrs. Ida Baker, Portsmouth, O., writes: "I am glad to say that I am well. I have taken Peruna and feel better than I have for ten years; have gained twelve pounds and am still gaining. When I wrote to you for advice I had given up all hope of being well again, and I feel that it has saved my life."—Mrs. Ida Baker.

Alice Scott, of Franklin, Ky., in a letter to Dr. Hartman, says:

"For seven long years I had been a constant sufferer from catarrh of the pelvic organs which resulted in displacement of the uterus. I wrote you telling you all my complaints from the beginning to the present, made happy and much encouraged every time by your kind and fatherly letters of advice and instruction. I am now a strong woman weighing 148 pounds."—Alice Scott.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

having been scratched. Dr. Fisher would not dissent from the authority which states that "an abrupt attack of active fever without previous feelings of indisposition and characterized by intense pains in the loins should suggest the possibility of varioloid." Neither would he entirely dissent from the statement that the elevation and hardness of the papules readily distinguishes smallpox from chickenpox and other such diseases. If he saw vesicles coming in successive crops where the disease had had a few days standing, he would think the trouble was chickenpox, but would take into consideration the size and appearance of the vesicles and other conditions. He would not dissent from the statement that chickenpox vesicles are never surrounded by red circles of inflammation. Adjournment till Monday at 11 a. m.
