A Word To Wives, Mothers and Daughters.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Is the Great Home Physician and Builder of Health.

Today, the great popular home medicine for women of every age, is Paine's Celery Compound. It is the great health and strength-giver for wives, mothers and daughters. When you have any of numberless female complaints and ills of your sex, Paine's Celery Compound will give you a new and happy life.

Paine's Celery Compound is an invaluable medicine for young girls when their special womanly functions are disturbed or irregular. It imparts strength to every organ, gives rosy cheeks, buoyancy of spirit, clear, bright eyes and general good health.

The many strong and grateful letters of praise sent in by thankful women restored by Paine's Celery Compound to health and vigor, amply prove all that is claimed for Dr. Phelps' wonderful prescription.

Beware of the "something just as good" offered by some dealers and druggists; see that the name PAINE'S is on each wrapper and bottle. Paine's Celery Compound is the kind that makes sick people well.

Mr. Robert Chapman, one of the Plymouth Brethren, is preaching in Devonshire, at the age of one hundred years. He has preached for seventy years without a break. He once was a London lawyer.

Nature "makes all things beautiful in their time." Every one of life's seasons, when life moves on Nature's lines, has its own charm and beauty. Many women dread that period when they must experience change of life. They fear that face and form may suffer by the change, and that they may fail to please those whom they love. The value of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription in this crisis of woman's life lies in the fact that it assists Nature. Its use preserves the balance and buoyancy of the mind and sustains the physical powers. Many women have expressed their gratitude for the help and comfort given by "Favorite Prescription" in this trying period. Its benefits are not passing but permanent and conduce to mental happiness as well as physical strength.

The imperial Army Order just received at Ottawa states that the King has approved of the grant of a medal to the Militia units which volunteered for service abroad during the South African War and the services of which were accepted at places other than in South Africa, such as Gibraltar, Malta or in Egypt. The medal is of silver, the ribbon being the same as for the South African medal. It is felt here that the case of the third special service battalion at Halifax is practically the same as that of the Militia regiment referred to, and it is hoped the authorities will secure the issue of the medal to the officers and men of that regiment.

Consumption is Infectious.

Every precaution should be taken to prevent its spread of the "White Plague." Persons coming into contact with consumptives should inhale Catarrhazone several times each day as it is a powerful destroyer of disease germs, and renders them innocuous. Catarrhazone is a most efficient preventive and may be thoroughly relied upon to promote expectoration, soothes the cough and benefit in many ways too numerous to mention. Both from a medical and scientific point of view Catarrhazone is the most valuable addition to the armament against consumption. Its merits cannot be too warmly applauded. Sold at all druggists, two months' treatment, price $1; small size 25cts. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co. Kingston, Ont.

The tap of the typewriter is now heard in that repository of State secrets, the sanctum of Sir Francis Knollys, private secretary to the King. It is well known that the late Queen disliked writing machines, telephones, electric lights and other such innovations. All her letters had to be written with a pen. Besides typewriters, letter copying books have been introduced, and many other changes of a businesslike character. At the Foreign Office, the antiquated system still prevails of copying letters by hand.

During the hot summer season the blood gets over heated, the drain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system, and restores lost appetite.

Chicago horse owners and humane society officials with but few exceptions are in sympathy with the crusade against the docking of horses' tails now being carried on in Baltimore. In that city bills will be introduced in the Legislature making it a criminal offence.

PASSED 15 WORMS. I gave Dr. Low's Worm Syrup to my little girl two and one-half years old; the result was that she passed fifteen round worms in five days. Mrs. B. Roy, Kilmanagh, Ont.

About 70,000 samples of UNION BLEND TEA have been recently distributed in the Maritime Provinces and 100,000 people have been made happy by the knowledge that they are drinking the best tea in the world when they drink UNION BLEND TEA.

WOMEN DOCTORS A SUCCESS

London Finds Them Both Useful and Efficient Members of Society.

London, Feb. 4.—The news that the Chicago Women's Medical School is to be closed because women doctors are a failure came as a surprise yesterday to the lady doctors on this side of the Atlantic.

Women doctors are pronounced to be a distinct success in England, and they are gradually securing a more equal footing with the medical men.

The names of no fewer than 281 "registered medical women" are given in the report for 1900 of the London (Royal Free Hospital) School of Medicine for Women, which has since its foundation in 1874 had 723 students on its books. Twenty-three have since qualified.

The secretary of the Royal Free Hospital said recently that the difficulty is not the failure, but the success, of the movement, for there are now 100 lady students daily doing the rounds of the hospital, and room is wanted for more. Miss Doule, M. P., London, the secretary of the school, said that this year the school began with nearly 200 students. Last year twenty-three qualified as practitioners, fourteen having taken the M. B. degree of London University. One gained the gold medal in forensic medicine.

Miss Doule added that of those who have qualified a large percentage have obtained posts in England or in India and of those who are in private practice the great majority make comfortable livelihoods, while the incomes of some of them run well into four figures. Miss Doule pointed out that four qualified medical women have been appointed to the refugee camps in South Africa, and two others are members of the camps committee.

The most striking recent advance has been the appointment of two ladies to the resident staff of the Royal Free Hospital. There was no trouble, such as has recently arisen at Macclesfield. Ladies, moreover, entirely compose the staff of the New Hospital for Women in Easton road, although the consulting staff includes twelve distinguished men, in addition to Dr. Eliz. Blackwell and Mrs. Garnet Anderson, M. D. During 1900 fifty former students of the London School received appointments, among them being Mrs. Hamilton Williams, M. B., as special service medical officer to Gambia and to the Ashanti field force; Mrs. Dexter Allen, M. B., as house surgeon of Oxford Eye Hospital, and Mrs. Traill Christie, M. D., as medical superintendent of the Victoria Dufferin Hospital, Calcutta. At Durham, Dublin, Manchester, and at all Scotch Universities the medical education of women is more or less recognized, but the London school is easily the first, and it now requires £9,000 to wipe off the debt on the handsome new building it now occupies in Hunter street, Brunswick Square.

If you take a Laxa-Liver Pill at night before retiring, it will work while you sleep without a gripe or pain, curing biliousness, constipation, dyspepsia and sick headache.

A scandal has arisen in Berlin over the re-burial of Robert Hamerling, the German poet, who died in 1889. He was moved into a permanent tomb in the cemetery at Graz, when the coffin was opened and the medical men present, among whom were two university professors, surreptitiously and without authority removed the head, in order to measure the skull. Since then the skull has been kept in the anatomical laboratory of Graz University. Hamerling's relatives and friends are indignant, and demand that the poet's head shall be put back with the poet's head.

Have you failed to get permanent relief? Are you almost frantic with neuralgic pain? If so, why not use Polson's Nerviline? It is the only neuralgia remedy that has never failed to cure even the worst cases, and it will surely cure you. ### Prompt as Usual.

Frederick, N. B., Jan. 16th, 1902. Albert J. Machum, Manager, Agency Union Mutual Life Ins. Co., St. John, N. B.

Dear Sir—I desire to thank you and the company you represent for the very prompt and satisfactory settlement of claims under policy No. 41079, on the life of my deceased husband, James D. Macpherson.

The fact that both the policy-receipts and the policy cannot be found, make such a prompt settlement doubly appreciated, and I can certainly recommend the "Old Union Mutual" as a most satisfactory company with which to do business.

Yours truly,

Many of the residents of the Joggins, N. S., are French descendants of the hardy pioneer Acadians, who attain to great old age. Living at the Joggins is a Mrs. Arseneau, a French lady, who is 105 years of age. The old lady has all her faculties, and is able to knit and to go about the house. This good old lady never saw a railway train until last summer. Near the Joggins another lady a Mrs. Brien, who is also over 100 years of age.

Alive, Yet Half Dead.

Feeling miserable. This is the condition of thousands of growing girls and women. Can't eat enough to be truly alive. Digest so little of what they do eat as to scarcely know what life really means. Miserable? Of course. Eat more, digest more, then feel streaming through life's renewed current the buoyancy, the strength, the hopefulness of youth. Simply done if you'll just use Ferrozone, the wonderful blood maker, nerve strength and brain vigour. Mr. Barrhill, druggist, knows all about it. Call and ask him about it. Price 50c.

The Washington committee on arrangements for Prince Henry's reception today made public the full itinerary of the Prince. The party, after a visit south and west, will arrive at Buffalo over the Lake Shore Railroad from Chicago at 2.45 p.m. on March 5, and after a 15 minutes' stop proceed to Niagara Falls, where they remain for two hours and fifteen minutes.

How to Treat Painful Corns.

Night and morning apply to Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It acts like magic. Kills the pain, cures the Corn, does it without pain quickly and surely. Use only "Putnum's."

The steamer Mira, which sailed from Boston Saturday, bound for Louisbourg, C. B., is now a hopeless wreck on Chebogue Point ledge, near Yarmouth, N.S. She went ashore at 3.20 o'clock this morning. All hands were saved and the small quantity of general cargo which she carried will also be saved.

THE QUESTION IS

What to do? It is not a pleasant sensation—that first certain knowledge that one has consumption. Nor is it a happy announcement for one's family and friends. But it is no time for sentiment. You can't begin right treatment too soon.

Fresh air and Scott's Emulsion! That's a good beginning. That treatment alone has cured many cases of consumption. It is always a help.

You must not lose weight. Scott's Emulsion keeps the body in good flesh and has a special action on the lungs. Take it in time.

We'll send you a little to try if you like. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, Toronto.

WHY MAN SHAVES.

Theory that the Custom Originated from the Painting of the Body

An English ethnologist has published an article in which he touches on the origin of the custom of shaving. His theory is that the origin of shaving is to be found in the very primitive custom of painting the body. In more barbarous times this odd vanity was everywhere marked, and it may be supposed that no painted tribes liked their skin decorations to be hidden from view by a veil of hair. Again, all primitive shaving tools, like razors of obsidian, preceded any instrument which could trim the hair neatly, and thus the prehistoric hunter-artist whose beard came to a point and whose sporting tactics are so well shown in his drawings, knew not the beginning of the barber's craft. The present English writer thinks it may have been those tactics that made it necessary for his ancestors to have both their faces and their heads, considering how flowing beards and long hair must have caught in every bush and bramble as the unshaven hunter crawled along the ground.

This theory is quite in line with the historic fact that Alexander the Great put an end to beards in the Macedonian army because they were pulled in battle. The first prehistoric man who joined two metal razors together introduced the art of clipping the beard to a point. Many bronze razors have been exhumed in France, and are at least as old as those Scilian ones with which Scipio Africanus set the fashion of shaving in Rome, but they were modelled probably on other such instruments used in times more primitive.

Windsor Castle the other day was the scene of a most interesting discovery. When Queen Victoria died there was considerable anxiety as to where the bust of Her Majesty, made in the year 1892 had been hidden away, for it was understood to be the Queen's wish that it be placed along with that of the Prince Consort, in one of the reception rooms, after her death. The long lost bust was discovered in a cavity of a wall, where it had been bricked up nearly forty years ago. It was hardly anything the worse for its long confinement.

E. Gas Porter, M.P. for West Hastings, made a great hit at Belleville, during the recent campaign in that county. He said: "Mr. Frost says that I can't perform any miracles if I get into parliament," and then he took a drink of water. "There," he said, "I've just turned water into Porter," and the crowd thoroughly appreciated the joke. An Irishman in the audience made a characteristic remark: "Bedad," he said, "but that was aisy done. Now, if he'd only turn the Porter into whiskey, and give us all a chance!"

Getting In Society.

Several young men in our smartest set were asked by an inquisitive genius how they managed to get in high society. "I danced my way in," said one, who frequently leads a cotillon. Another said: "I was too ungraceful for that. But I had a serious way with me, and got into the sacred circle by means of the Sunday school. I taught a Bible class, made acquaintance of the best young men, met their mothers, fathers and finally their sisters." A third: "I got in by being a stranger in New York. While on a hunting expedition in the west I was able, through a happy circumstance, to be of assistance to a very prominent leader of New York society. In gratitude, I suppose, he exacted a promise that I would visit him if I ever came east. I came, I called, I conquered. He dined me at his club, then at his home, where I met his family. His daughter is now my wife."

Constantinople Beggars' Feast Day.

One day in the year Constantinople is free from the beggar nuisance—on Nov. 25. This is the festival of St. John the Almsgiver, the patron saint of the mendicant profession. No beggar of the Greek faith is on his or her beat that day. In the forenoon all, or nearly all, Orthodox mendicants attend a special service in the church of St. Constantine, at which an archbishop officiates. It is arranged by their corporation, for they are organized into a guild like any other trade. The church, spacious as it is, is none too large for the numerous congregation of cadgers, many of whom in their holiday garb look like respectable citizens. The rest of the day is spent in festivities, which are apt to extend so far into the night that many of the revelers are unable to attend to business on the morrow.
