YOUNG LADY'S MISTAKE.

Unwittingly Invited a Contribution of Whiskey

TO AID THE FUNDS OF A METHODIST CHURCH.

The Explanation and Sequel.

Niagara Falls, Dec. 2.—When the four-page leaflet was distributed in town today, headed "Whiskey sold privately by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church, in aid of the organ fund," it created a sensation. Rev. Thomas Collings, pastor of the church was interviewed on the matter. The reverend gentleman was astonished on reading the charge in the pamphlet and said he knew nothing of such business being transacted by the Ladies' Aid, and consequently could say no more on the subject until it had been investigated. The President of the Ladies' Aid, Mrs. J. B. Stephens, whose name is said to have been signed to the document, appealing to Hiram Walker & Sons for samples of goods for sale at the association's trade salesroom, was also seen. Mrs. Stephens said the association, she knew, was ignorant of any appeal being made on Hiram Walker & Sons for any of their liquor to be disposed as samples at the trades sale, and it had occurred through an error on the part of her young daughter, who was acting Secretary of the Trades Sale Committee of the organ fund. The young lady Miss Carrie Stephens who is a bright and business-like young lady, told the story of the affair. Miss Stephens states that in September the ladies of the Methodist church held what is known as a trades sale for the benefit of the organ fund. The idea is an American one. A salesroom was procured, and in order to get a stock of goods the following circular was sent out to the principal manufacturers in the Province: "Dear Sir,—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church are arranging for sample sales about the first week in September, the proceeds to go towards purchasing a pipe organ for the church. We ask kindly for samples of your goods, on which we can realize, in return for which we will thoroughly advertise, your signs to be hung on walls of salesrooms and any other advertising matter to be distributed. Thanking you in advance, I am yours truly (signed), Mrs. J. B. Stephens, President."

Miss Stephens, in order to get the names and places of the different manufacturers of the province, wrote to the Secretary of the Manufacturers' Association of Toronto, who kindly sent her in book form a list of all the manufacturers. She, as Secretary of the committee, took this list and addressed the envelopes therefrom, and enclosed one of the circular letters that the pamphlet dubs as "the request for the whiskey." Miss Stephens claims she did not know who Hiram Walker & Sons were. In due course, much to her surprise, she received a letter from the whiskey firm of Hiram Walker & Sons, addressed to her mother, the President, which she, as Secretary, opened, stating they had sent two cases of small bottles of best brand of "Canadian Club" together with a few attractive signs and some small cards for disposal at the salesroom. The girl was at her wit's end what to do with the undesirable goods, and conferred with two members of the special committee, and the trio, having a knowledge that other churches received assistance from the firm, and having a desire to swell the church organ fund, took upon themselves personally to dispose of the goods, not wishing to insult the donors by returning their gift. Miss Stephens wrote personally the private letter which the whiskey firm published throughout the Province, asking their permission to dispose of the goods, and in which not a soul in the Ladies'

Aid or a member of the church had anything to do with but herself. She sold the goods and placed the money in the fund. Miss Stephens takes the whole responsibility upon her shoulders.

Following is Hiram Walker & Sons' letter to Miss Stephens:

"Dear Mme.,—We acknowledge the receipt of your favor of yesterday, and we note therefrom that the Ladies' Aid Society are quable to carry out the agreement to dispose of the samples at their sales, for which they made a request in June last. Your suggestion to sell these privately for the benefit of the organ fund is perhaps the best way out of the difficulty, and we authorize you to do what you like with them. Yours very truly, (signed) Hiram Walker & Sons, Ltd. By C. C. Ambury, Assistant Secretary."

The liquor men of the town, upon hearing the whole story, stopped the circulation of the pamphlets.

PROVINCE NOTES.

Harvey Fisher, of Glassville, N. B., met with a peculiar and painful accident on Thursday. He was harnessing his horses, when one of them made a jump at him, catching his hand in his teeth and biting off the middle finger. The horse must have swallowed the finger for it could not be found.

The Chatham World says: The marriage of Miss Laura Helena Brown, of Springhill, E. S., to Mr. M. K. McArthur, of this town was announced to take place on Dec. 10th. Miss Brown is the eldest daughter of Rev. Wm. Brown, Springhill. She had a brilliant career at Mt. Allison, where she graduated in 1900. Mr. McArthur is city traveller for Smith Bros. Halifax, and is highly esteemed by the firm. He has a host of warm friends here.

The marriage took place at Glace Bay last Wednesday of Elinora McKay of Amherst, to Miss Winnifred Grace Holmes of Glace Bay, the ceremony being performed at the residence of the bride's parents. The bride was supported by her sister Miss Ida Holmes, while John Edwards, of Annapolis, supported the groom. The bride received many useful and handsome presents among them being a gold watch with diamond settings from her husband—Sydney Record.

John Simpson, of Westfield, St.

John Co., who was lost for 60 hours in the forest near his home, where he went on Saturday to secure axe handles, returned to his home on Monday night, nearly dead. While lost a big snow storm came on, and the only shelter he has was beneath the trees. Although badly exhausted and famished, he is slowly recovering.

The fair is to be held at Amherst on the 16th, 17th and 18th of December, under the direction of the Maritime Stock Breeders' Association of which E. B. Elderkin, Esq., of Amherst, is president, and Mr. W. W. Hubbard, St. John, is secretary. The management, with the assistance of the Dominion and provincial departments of agriculture, is using every effort to make this exhibition and convention one of the best practical educational events ever held along live stock lines.

A Surprising Discovery.

You will be surprised in trying Catarrhoxone to find how quickly it cures cold in the head. The agreeable, penetrating vapor traverses every air cell and passage of the nose, throat and lungs. In one breath it carries instant death to the millions of germs infesting the respiratory organs and breaks up a cold in ten minutes.

A trial will convince you that Catarrhoxone is the most potent, satisfactory and pleasant cure for Colds, Catarrh, Deafness, Bronchitis, Asthma and Lung Trouble. Complete outfit, $1.00; small size 25c. Druggists or N. C. Polson Co., Kingston, Ont.

MARYSVILLE NEWS.

(Special Correspondence to the Herald.)

Dec. 2.—There does not seem to be much going on in the social line just now, the only thing I hear of at present is the Marysville whist club, which meets next Wednesday evening, at the residence of Mr. John R. McConnell.

Rev. F. D. Davidson of Albert County, occupied the pulpit of the Baptist church last Sunday afternoon, in the absence of the regular pastor.

It is rumored that the hotel occupied by Mrs. Robinson is to be built into tenements, the work to commence in a very few weeks.

The Free Baptist church was crowded to the doors at the afternoon service last Sunday, on which occasion the Rev. Allen Rideout preached a very able sermon. It is expected there will be a baptism next Sabbath afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Rowley of Truro, who have been spending a few days in Marysville, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rowley, left yesterday for Boston, en route to Jamaica, in which place Mr. Rowley has been appointed manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Ghosts would frighten many people who are not afraid of germs. Yet the germ is a real danger. If this microscopic animalism could be magnified to a proportion to its deadliness it would show like a giant python, or fire breathing dragon. The one fact to remember is that the germ is powerless to harm the body when the blood is pure. It is far easier to keep the germ out than to drive it out after it obtains a hold in the system. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the most powerful and perfect of blood purifying medicines. It increases the quantity as well as the quality of the blood, and enables the body to resist disease, or to throw it off if disease has obtained a footing in some weak organ.

Wherever the digestion is impaired, the nutrition of the body is diminished, for the blood is made from the food which is eaten, and half digested food cannot supply the body with blood in quantity and quality adequate to its needs. For this condition there is no remedy equal to "Golden Medical Discovery." It cures ninety-eight out of every hundred persons who give it a fair trial. When there is constipation Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will promptly relieve and permanently cure.

MAGUNDY NEWS.

(Special Correspondence to the Herald.)

Dec. 2.—The young girls and boys of this place surprised the cook and also the boys of Mr. Parker's camp. They spent a very enjoyable evening, and the cook prepared a very dainty lunch which the party enjoyed very much. The boys looked on in amazement. They were thinking of their breakfast for the next day. The night was cloudy overhead and soon a storm of hail and snow was heard upon us. It was crawling on to the wee small hours when the party arrived home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Parker are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a big bouncing girl, and also Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Henry on the arrival of a son.

Gilbert Graham and Elbridge Lawson started out on Saturday, Nov. 22nd, to cruise a road to Mr. Fraser's camp. They arrived there all right. About four o'clock in the afternoon they, in company with Seltie Embleton, Arden Lawson and Wesley Henry, started for home, but darkness fell in upon them before they got very far and with saddened hearts they were forced to camp for the night.

They started to kindle a fire and found only two matches among the crew, but with good luck or good management they managed to get a fire started, but it began to rain which made them crawl closer to the fire, but in seeing who could get the closest to it Mr. Graham happened to get too close and burnt his coat tail. One kept the fire on and counted the minutes go by till day light dawned upon them. They landed at Mr. Parker's camp for breakfast like starving savages. While this was going on in the distant woods there was almost as much excitement going on in the home. Mrs. Graham was flying around in the rain with the lantern to the nearest neighbors inquiring about them, she then flew to the barn nailing up the doors. The hours were crawling on and daylight found her out again. The men returned home safe and sound and ready for another breakfast. They will be pretty careful the next time which road to take.

THINGS A GIRL MUST LEARN.

A girl's education is most incomplete unless she has learned:

To sew.

To cook.

To mend.
To be gentle.
To value time.
To dress neatly.
To keep a secret.
To be self-reliant.
To darn stockings.
To avoid idleness.
To respect old age.
To make good bread.
To keep a house tidy.
To make home happy.
To control her temper.
To be above gossiping.
To take care of the sick.
To take care of the baby.
To sweep down cobwebs.
To marry a man for his worth.
To read the very best of books.
To take plenty of active exercise.
To keep clear of trashy literature.
To be a helpmate to her husband.
To be light-hearted and fleet-footed.
To be a womanly woman under all circumstances.

SPOILS OF THE DEEP.

(By a Banker.)

From time to time expeditions are organized in search of sunken treasure: old-time galleons laden full with gold and precious stones from the Spanish main, the long savings of the despoiled Aztecs ravaged of all they possessed by those plundering old buccaners; mail steamers bringing consignments of the same coveted metal, though more honestly acquired; ships of war sunk to the bottom by stress of weather or by the enemy's projectiles—all engulfed and resting in the quiet and placid stretches of the great deep, far away from the influence of the most fierce storm that may rage above them; and all as silent as death, and, save for the incursions of those unsightly bear-eyed monsters, huge denizens of the great deep, seldom seen by mortal man, but nevertheless surely there—as motionless.

And as mute as the Very Grave.

And what a weird and spectral scene must the wreck-strewn bottom of the ever-restless ocean present. Those sturdy old galleons, of which so many succumbed to the Atlantic storms, as laden so full of pillaged treasure, they found themselves unable to weather the mighty tempest tossed rollers of the broad ocean; now perhaps resting intact; veritable gold mines, hoards of diamonds, and rubies, and sapphires; guarded but by the whitened bones of those who plundered them from their rightful owners.

And those emigrant ships, freighted a great throng leaving the old country to try their fortunes in some of the sunnier appanages of the Empire; parents going out to join their now prosperous children; young men seeking fresh fields for their energies; families intent upon settling in a new home; with many a newly wed pair going forth hand in hand to fight the stern battle of life together, full of hope, full of glad anticipation; though, alas! their all too brief span of life.

Cut Off in its Very Spring-tide.

For the dread tocsin has sounded its death knell; the pale angel of death hovering over them has unsheathed his weapon; and though in the midst of life, the silver cord is to be loosed, and all that mixed multitude go, unconfined and unanell'd, to that undiscovered country, from whose bourne no traveller returns. For a mighty roller has struck the good ship, which, trembling to its very stem, failed to surmount the foam-crested, curling mountain, and with a hideous, throbbing plunge slid down, down, down into the yawning gulf of that watery abyss, charged with all its live freight of human souls. Ah! and

Methought I saw a thousand fearful wrecks;

A thousand men that fishes gnawed upon,

Wedges of gold, great anchors,

Heaps of pearls,

Instimable stores, unvalued jewels.

All scattered in the bottom of the sea.

Aye, and there will all those blanched relics of poor humanity rest until the dread trampet of the great Archangel sounds long and loud, and the sea will give up her dead. Then will those who have lived the life of the righteous, and who, by the aid of the Holy Spirit, have been reconciled to God by means of the sufferings and death of the Saviour, endured by Him for them, be welcomed by the angels with glad acclaim into the glory. But those who have scoffed at righteousness will be carried off by that subtle enemy to whose evil suggestions they have so fatuously listened.
