AWFUL MINE DISASTER.

Nearly 200 Men Killed in a Pennsylvania Explosion.

Johnstown, Pa., July 11.—Johnstown has again been visited by an appalling mine disaster, only less frightful than the awful calamity of May 31, 1899, in cost of life, but in its terrible consequences it has brought the shadow of sorrow in hundreds of homes made desolate by a mine explosion in the Cambria Steel Company's Rolling Mill mine, under Westmount Hill, at 12.20 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

How many are dead it may take several days to determine, but that it is a long list is certain. It may reach nearly 200. It was nearly an hour after the explosion before any general knowledge of what had happened got abroad. Men who came from the mines, escaping with their lives, told the terrible news and soon it spread like wildfire. In scores of homes there were the most pathetic scenes.

The cause of the explosion is thought to have been firedamp. The scene of the accident is known as the Klondike, and is two miles from the surface and the work of rescue is attended with great difficulty and danger.

The survivors who have escaped from the mine describe the condition as frightful. Solid walls of masonry three feet thick were torn down. The roofs of the mine were demolished and not a door remains standing. In the face of these difficulties even the most heroic efforts towards rescue may well seem hopeless.

Miners who left the mine by the Mill Creek entrance brought horrible stories of crawling over the dead bodies of their comrades.

KILLED BY FALLING STONE.

Sad Fate of a Canadian Young Lady Visiting London.

Toronto, July 10.—The Telegram's cable from London says: "The high wind today blew down the flagstaff from All Saints' church, Langham Place. In falling the pole struck a small pillar which became detached and brought it crumbling to the ground.

"Miss May Strathy, of Lachine, Montreal, and two other ladies, were passing at the time and the falling stones struck all three. Miss Strathy's skull was fractured. She died almost instantly. The other two were seriously injured and may succumb. Miss Strathy was adjourning with her aged grandmother at Scott's Hotel, Langham street. The old lady is so feeble the people of the house are afraid to acquaint her with the fatality."

[Miss Strathy was a daughter of Edward Strathy of Montreal.]
