Canada a Land of Sunshine, Lovely Flowers and Golden Crops—An Indian's Strange Experience Re-related.

The correspondent of The London Daily News with the party that traveled through Canada writes:

Canada is a land of sunshine, lovely wild flowers and singing birds, with entire landscapes of golden crops. I have visited the great cities of the east, revelling in ice-water at every meal, and such seductive foods as soft-shell crabs, broiled squab, corn cob, and huckleberry pie. I have voyaged through the beautiful lakes of Huron and Superior—great inland seas—where for hours the steamer holds you out of sight of land. Thus I passed from the settled East and entered the developing West, or "North-West," as it is called—that region rendered famous by innumerable after-dinner speeches, newspaper paragraphs, and magazine articles.

Passing Sault Ste. Marie, where canoes were carrying over the rapids, we had our first glimpse of a city totally different from staid and established Quebec, Montreal and Toronto. Sault Ste. Marie is a substantial city that has rushed suddenly into prosperous being, as though an oak should grow at the rate of a mushroom. Our second experience of quick town development was supplied by Fort William, where we landed. It has shot several tap roots deep into industrial wealth. First, like a mouse running round a windmill, I circumnavigated the huge steel grain elevators now in course of erection, and which resemble a cluster of London gasometers, save that they are larger and uglier. They will hold a matter of one million and a half bushels of wheat. Within a stone's throw we found another group of these metal monsters, and this second eyesore, which has a similar capacity, is associated with a dramatic story. Last April the sky was illumined by a great column of flame which made a brilliant spectacle to onlookers on the distant mountains. In less than thirty minutes the fire had consumed the railway siding and the machinery for hoisting the grain. But the one hundred thousand dollars' worth of foodstuffs contained within the scorched tanks remained unharmed.

Across the river we saw the settlement where some five hundred Indians and half-breeds live in the society of Roman Catholic priests and sisters. The war paint and feathers, even the blankets and moccasins, have given place to wideawake hats and lounge suits. Leaning over the gate of little front garden I saw a stout, broad-shouldered Indian with a look of pensive resignation on his face. He, I learnt, was none other than old Ambrose Cyrette, who a while ago had the luck to discover a silver mine, for which he received sixty thousand dollars in hard cash. Away he went with the money, bent on seeing the world and having a high old time. He engaged a private secretary, and conducted himself in so kingly a style that when the whim took him to journey from New York to Chicago, he engaged a special train for the purpose. So that it was not long before Ambrose Cyrette returned with empty pockets to the bosom of his family; and to-day, like his neighbors, he traps the beaver, nets pickerel, trout and pike, makes birch bark canoes, shoots partridges and prairie chickens, and hunts the bear, the moose, and the caribou. All of this occurs to-day on the banks of the Kaministiquia River, whose deep, placid waters pass between beautiful banks of luxuriant vegetation. The children of the settlement, I learnt with a shudder, are very apt to die, consumption being the principal scourge of the community. Under the soft influence of civilization—I was assured by the bustling commercial white man—the Indians are slowly but surely perishing. Others have told me the same sad story, but influential testimony to a contrary purpose has since reached me, and I will merely add that before leaving this continent I propose to seek the truth of this matter.

Three other interesting things were shown me at Fort William and the contiguous town of Port Arthur. One was a steamer unloading rails made at Sault Ste. Marie, these being the fruits of a new Canadian industry, from which great things are expected.

Dr. Wood's

Norway Pine Syrup

Cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Croup, Asthma, Pain or Tightness in the Chest, Etc.

It stops that tickling in the throat, is pleasant to take and soothing and healing to the lungs. Mr. E. Bishop Brand, the well-known Galt gardener, writes: "I had a very severe attack of sore throat and tightness in the chest. Some times when I wanted to cough and could not I would almost choke to death. My wife got me a bottle of DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP, and to my surprise I found speedy relief. I would not be without it if it cost $1.00 a bottle, and I can recommend it to everyone bothered with a cough or cold. Price 25 Cents."

Another was a sawmill. As the Alberta drew up at the quay, we had all been impressed by the forty acres of floating tree-trunks that lay like a mighty raft upon the lake. Inside the mill we saw those tree-trunks reduced to planks and laths by elaborate machinery that seemed alive and fiendish. The dripping logs were automatically carried up a slope, at the top of which two iron arms hauled them upon a traveling platform, which, holding them immovably, swiftly carried them, in constantly altered positions, within the range of a relentless saw. Afterwards the bark and the planks were removed on traveling floors. It was all very wonderful, though calculated to make timid persons dream of being cut into wet slices. My third impressive experience of Fort William was to see the noble view from the back of the town—a wide sweep of lake bordered beyond by mountains, and notably by the Sleeping Giant, as the Indians named one of the ranges.

Selling Canadian Food.

The Earl of Aberdeen and Lord Balfour of Burleigh become trustees for the debenture-holders, and Lord Stanmore, ex-Governor of New Brunswick, becomes chairman of the London Board of Directors of the association formed to open depots in London for the sale of Canadian food manufactures. The Canadian four-pound loaf costs 2½d., against 5d for the English. Other items of the Englishman's food bill will be correspondingly reduced. The association's capital will be £200,000, of which £100,000 will be raised in Canada. Walter Nursey, former Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Manitoba, is the chief promoter. Other directors include the late general manager of the Midland Railway and the late assistant general manager of Whiteley's.

How a Great Surgeon Died.

While Bichat, the famous surgeon, was dying of typhoid fever he turned to an old colleague who was sitting beside his bed and said to him:

"My friend, I am lost, but it is some consolation to know that my case is very curious. During the last few days I have noticed some odd symptoms, and I am studying them carefully."

"Oh, you may recover yet," said the friend.

"That is impossible," replied Bichat, "and if it were not for one thing I would be quite willing to die."

"What is that?" asked the friend.

"I am exceedingly sorry," answered Bichat, "that I shall not have an opportunity to perform an autopsy on myself after my death, for I know that I would make some wonderful scientific discovery."

An hour later he was dead.

Hares That Swim.

I have many times seen hares, several of them at a time, cross a stream to feed on summer evenings and coolly return in the same way back to the woods, says a writer in London News. The act has been quite voluntary, but one thing I have noticed—they invariably sat up to see if they had time to cross before any surprise came. For instance, the movements of a person walking along a footpath in the distance would be watched with some anxiety before the plunge was made. I have also seen snakes swim across streams in the same way, apparently to bask on the sunny side.

Experienced.

"Mamma," she said, "what preacher do you think I ought to have marry Cecil and me? I feel as though Mr. Goodman is so young, and, not being married himself, he could hardly—"

"Oh, pshaw! Have Dr. Easleigh. I've had him for four of mine, and he always gave thorough satisfaction."

Showed What She Could Do.

Phoxy—I got a good square meal last night, the first in several weeks, and I have you to thank for it.

Friend—Me to thank? Well, that's news to me.

Phoxy—Yes, I know. I telephoned to my wife yesterday morning that you were coming out to dinner with me.

A Good Talker.

Clara—Is Mrs. Flitter a good conversationalist?

Dorothy—Yes, indeed. She makes you think of lots of good things to say, but talks so much that you don't get a chance to say them.

Compromise.

"Why should religion and science quarrel?"

"Why, indeed?"

"Why not say that man is descended from the monkey Eve made of Adam and let it go at that?"

Worn thin?
