

HAYNESVILLE.

Sept. 2.—We are having fine weather today after heavy rains. Our crops are looking well. Some potatoes and buckwheat were hurt a little by the frost, but not much damage done here.

Mrs. Emma Jewett has been very ill, but is some better.

E. N. Reynolds has cut his buckwheat free of frost.

Our mail man is doing correct service now.

James Patterson is very ill, getting weaker every day.

Dr. Morehouse and Edward Burrill passed through here the other day, to the head of the Keswick waters to prepare for hunting.

Candidates are getting a hustle on now for the election of councillors.

The Reformed Baptists will hold a quarterly meeting here, commencing Sept. 23rd.

"I Told You So."

An old couple lived in the mountains of eastern Tennessee. He was ninety-five and she ninety. Their son, a man of seventy, died. As the old folks crossed the pasture to their cabin after the burial the woman noticed a tear roll down her husband's cheek. She patted him tenderly on the arm and said:

"Never mind, John; never mind. You know I always say we never would raise that boy."—Success.

Dundas Proud of Bertram.

Dundas, Sept. 2.—A reception was tendered last evening by the townspeople and military officers of the district to Col. Alex. Bertram, Bisley commandant, who arrived yesterday afternoon from England, to Private Fred Bibby, who won second place in the Governor-General's match at Ottawa, and a place on the Bisley team; and the High School Cadets, winners for good of the O.R.A. matches. Col. Bertram was met on his arrival by the 77th brass and bugle bands, and with Private Bibby, was presented with an illuminated address. Private Bibby and the cadets were presented with souvenir medals.

LAME BACK.

Just the Sort of Case That Proves to the World That the Best Liniment Ever Made is NERVILINE

"Anyone that goes through all that suffered last winter will appreciate the value of a remedy that cures like NERVILINE cured me." These are the opening words of the solemn declaration of E. P. Von Haydn, the well-known violinist of Middleton. "My work kept me out late at night, and playing in cold drafty places brought on a severe cold that settled on my chest. I had a harsh racking cough and severe pains darted through my sides and settled in my shoulders. I used different liniments, but none broke up my cold. At last I used NERVILINE. I rubbed it on my neck, chest and shoulders, morning and night, and all the pain disappeared. Realizing that such a heavy cold had run down my system, I took Penrozore at meals, and was completely built up and strengthened. Since using NERVILINE I have no more colds or pleurisy, and enjoy perfect health."

It's because NERVILINE contains the purest and most healing essences and medical principles, because it has the power of sinking through the pores to the pain—these are the reasons why it breaks up colds, cures lumbago, neuralgia, sciatica and rheumatism. Refuse any substitute your dealer may suggest—insist on NERVILINE only. Large 25c. bottles, five for $1.00. Sold everywhere, or The Catarrhose Co., Kingston, Ont.

"Chuck It, Duke!"

While the Duke of Connaught was in Cairo he went for a stroll one morning, and on his way back to his quarters he came face to face with an old Englishman wearing the ribbon of the Indian mutiny on his breast. The duke stopped and spoke to the man about his military service for some little time. Presently the man said, not knowing, of course, to whom he was speaking, "Are you in the army yourself, then, sir?" The duke smiled and admitted that he was. "Getting on all right?" was the next question. The duke smiled again and said that he had not very much to grumble at, on the whole, though perhaps he was not doing quite so well as he could wish. "No, and you never will, my boy," was the surprising retort of the veteran. "What you want in the army today is either brains or a tremendous amount of influence behind you. You may take my tip, old chap, and chuck it!"—London T. P. O.

The medicine with a record of cures extending over 65 years. You don't experiment when you buy it.

Mrs. JOSEPH MATTRETT, Huntsville, Ont., writes: "It gives me much pleasure to write you of the wonderful benefit I have found in your medicine. Last summer it saved the lives of my three little ones. They all took the summer complaint and were very sick with it. The baby would take fits, and after trying many remedies, which were of no use, I suggested we should try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. After giving them one bottle I found a great change, and now my little ones are as well as ever. We have never been without it since, and I have recommended it to my friends."

Mrs. S. A. HARRISON, Nanaimo, Ont., writes: "I take great pleasure to send you this testimonial of what Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has done in our family. My daughter's little girl, three years old, took summer complaint and was nearly dead. After all other remedies failed I thought of your remedy. The first dose gave relief and the third cured her. My son had diarrhoea and a few doses stopped it right away. I advise all mothers to have a bottle of 'Dr. Fowler's' on hand all the time. It is a grand medicine for young and old, and I cannot recommend it too highly in all trouble where the bowels become too loose. A few doses will check the trouble at once."

The Modern Way.

One friend who has spent a long and useful life and looks good for another half century expects his reward in heaven and meantime is a philosopher. He can talk on any subject under the sun, from "the flower of poetry" to "the precession of the equinoxes." He apparently knows the "Iliad" and "Odyssey" by heart, so I knew that when he handed me a bit of verse it must be good.

"Here is a hymn on the solar system or some other lofty theme," thought I, placing the sheet in my letter case. When I arrived home I read: The lizard climbed a wall. He climbed it once.

He climbed it twice—then crawled away.

The bee slipped a flower. He slipped it once.

He slipped it twice—then flew away.

The man kissed a maid. He kissed her once.

He kissed her twice—then walked away.

The wall wasn't sunny; the flower had no honey.

The maid had no money. Funny!

The problem now is whether the contribution is a joke or a gem.—National Magazine.

Pilkerton Won the Race.

At one of the regattas of the National Association of American Oarsmen during the early nineties James Pilkerton, for many years the champion sculler of America, was matched to row double against another team. He and his mate were the champions, and the general belief was that they would win without effort. But the night before the regatta public opinion suddenly and mysteriously changed. Mr. Pilkerton knew that this was not caused by any new development of strength in his opponent or any loss of skill on his own part. After making some quiet inquiries he discovered that there was talk of his rowing mate having been bought up by the other side and of an arrangement to throw the race.

He didn't say anything about his suspicions, but when the two men were seated in the shell and were well out into the deep water he leaned over to his mate and said:

"Look here, you blooming cutthroat! You've got to swim, drown or win this race! You know me!" He won.

Would Bequeath Her Ears.

Harriet Martineau displayed originality in the provisions she made at one time for the disposal of her remains. James Payn relates that, having consulted Torndee, the distinguished aurist, with regard to her deafness, "she was so pleased with the interest he took in her case that she resolved to leave him by testamentary bequest her ears. She announced this intention in the presence of her medical man, Mr. Shepherd, who to my infinite amazement observed: 'But, my dear madam, you can't do that. It will make your other legacy worthless.' The fact was, in the interest of science, Miss Martineau had already left her head to the Phrenological society. I asked the doctor how he came to know that. 'Oh,' he said, 'she told me so herself. She has left £10 in her codicil to me for cutting it off.' The doctor, however, died before his patient, and the Phrenological society never received the legacy of her head.—London Chronicle.

A Cheerful Letter.

The following was sent by a countryman to his son in college not many years ago:

My Dear Son—I write to send you two pair of old breeches, that you may have a new coat made of them; also some new socks, which your mother knitted by cutting down some of mine. Your mother sends you $10 without my knowledge, and for fear you will not spend it wisely I have kept back half and only send five. Your mother and I are well, except your sister Annie has got the measles, which we think would spread among other girls if Tom had not had them before, and he is the only one left. I hope you are well and will do honor to my teachings. If you do not you are an ass, and your mother and myself are your affectionate parents.—Nantucket Inquirer and Mirror.

JAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

The Duchess of Roxburghe has a tiny watch set in a gold shoe buckle. Mrs. Emily Treat of Hanribal, Mo., is said to be the first woman to be employed as an official court reporter in this country.

Mrs. Millicent Garrett Fawcett is the only woman who has ever been invited to address the University Debating society at Oxford. At the request of the students she took woman suffrage as her subject.

Miss Alice Taylor of Edinburgh is now lady chess champion of Scotland, having defeated Miss Smith Cunningham in their series to decide the tie for the first place in the recent Scottish Ladies' Chess association tournament.

Mrs. Edwards C. Dodd of Laredo, Tex., has earned distinction as a farmer. She has made a profit this season of a little more than $60,000 off of 135 acres of land. Bermuda onions were her sales crop. She is the largest woman Bermuda onion farmer in the world.

Mrs. Taft has traveled more than the wife of any other president. She has almost as great a globe trotting record as the president. She has crossed the Pacific half a dozen times and has traveled in Japan, Manchuria, Siberia, China and other far eastern countries. She went to Cuba with her husband, and to Panama, and she has visited every corner of Europe with him.

Things Theatrical.

Christine Blessing has been engaged for "On the Eve."

Miss Eitty Cheatham has made a big hit in London.

Dazle, the noted American dancer, is to appear in J. M. Barrie's playlet, "Pantaloon." There is plenty of opportunity for dancing in this pantomimic piece.

Laura Nelson Hall has been engaged by Comstock & Gest as leading lady of their stock company in Cleveland. Charles Waldron, Tully Marshall and Leslie Bingham are other members of this company.

There will be four companies the coming season to present "The Climax," by Edward Locke, which the critics have pronounced a little dramatic gem. The play is to be under the direction of Joseph Weber.

Science Siftings.

The earth's atmosphere becomes at only a few miles from the earth's surface too thin to support any form of animal life.

The "fixed" stars are changing their positions at an appreciable rate, according to astronomers, who say that even the most familiar constellations have changed their forms since the time of the ancients who named them.

Many astronomers are of opinion that the famous star Sixty-one Cygnus, which is a double star, is a binary system—that is, that the two stars composing it revolve round their common center of gravity and move through space together.

Pen and Brush.

John S. Sargent has acquired a commission to paint a three-quarter length portrait of Mrs. Whiteclaw Reid.

Mark Twain is reported to have written a comic opera based upon his story, "A Yankee in King Arthur's Court."

Edwin Abbey was painting in London for ten years before he had a picture hung in the academy and began his work as a newspaper illustrator.

The lives of the six great Victorian poets extended originally over just a century, from the birth of Tennyson, the eldest of them, in 1809, to the death of Swinburne, the youngest, this year.

MEN OF ACTION.

Served as an illustration for the Professor's Lecture.

"How did you like Professor Newman?" one of the summer residents of Willowby asked Mr. Biram Gale. "I saw his name on the list of lecturers in your last winter's course."

Mr. Gale stroked his chin reflectively.

"Well, some thought he was kind of stiff in his speech at first, but I tell you what happened:

"He got kind of worked up telling us what 'men of action' meant, what the government of these United States was doing in Alaska, the Philippines, and so on, and he stepped a mite too high the edge of the platform and lost his balance. But as he began to fall Sam Hobart and Pick Willis, that were in the front seat, stood up and ketched him, one by each arm, and brought him up standin'. He bulged out at the knees for a minute, but nothin' to speak of.

"An' says Pick to him, 'The last word you spoke was 'omnivorous,' an' mebbe before you come at again you'll give us some kind of a hint what it means.'

"The professor looked from Pick to Sam and back to Pick again, kind of dazed, an' then he began to laugh.

"You let me mount," he says, an' I'll see to it that the rest of my talk is such you won't need a dictionary. An' he kep' his promise.

"Yes, sir, he gave us a fine talk after that, an' he's comin' again. We had him to breakfast next mornin', and my wife said she wouldn't want to hear anybody talk more sensible or act more common an' friendly than he did. But there was a piece in the Sentinel next week referin' to Pick an' Sam as 'Willowby's men of action,' an' I reckon the name 'll stick to 'em long as they live."

THEIR LAZY CLUB.

English Workmen Make Late Comers Pay For Tardiness.

In the engineering shops of a certain English firm the workmen of a year or two ago originated what they called the Lazy club. It was entirely their own idea, which for obvious reasons has received neither recognition nor financial support from the management, but has been the most excellent means of reducing the number of late comers.

Whenever a workman is more than five minutes after time he finds the gate locked, and he is not allowed to enter until the half hour is up.

This half hour is deducted from his wages, but in addition he has also to pay to the treasurer of the Lazy club about 5 cents for coming late.

If he is late more than once or so during a week everybody is aware of the fact, and the second or third time he makes his appearance after starting time he is greeted with a terrific combination of noises produced on any available material by his fellow workmen.

At certain periods the accumulated funds of the Lazy club are divided, not among those who have produced them, it should be noted, but among the entire staff equally. Thus the late workman is made to pay the early comers for his laziness.

The last distribution was just prior to a "bean feast," and funds accumulated during twelve months were distributed, amounting to over $1.75 a head.—System.

Nobody does anything well that they cannot help doing. Work is only well done when it is done with a will.—Ruskin.
