HOLLAND'S CHECKS

Parcel Found Containing Swindler's Stock in Trade.

PREPARATIONS ELABORATE

Bogus Paper to Amount of $135,000
Discovered by Accident—Convict
Had Rubber Stamps for Marking
Acceptance and Complete Paraphernalia for Gigantic Frauds
In Rossin House, Toronto.

Toronto, June 15.—A parcel containing $135,000 in checks, including six marked for a face value of $5,000 each, was found last night.

For a few minutes the man that discovered them had visions of a reward that would put him in clover.

A closer inspection, however, only went to indicate just how completely and elaborately Chris Holland, now serving a five-year term in Kingston for forgery, had prepared to swindle Toronto bankers.

Among a number of unclaimed packages in the parcel room of the former Rossin House was discovered the bundle of bank books, check books, forged introductions, and phoney marked checks affecting nearly every bank in the city.

Also, there was a rubber stamp manufactured by Sternberg, Philadelphia, reading "Imperial Bank of Canada, Yonge and Queen streets branch, accepted," and a smaller one, "Accepted Feb. 9, 1900." The ink pad was with them.

The documents would have been of great assistance to the detective department in clinching their case against Holland.

There are bank books on the Bank of British North America, Bank of Hamilton, Dominion Bank, Bank of Commerce, Bank of Nova Scotia, and Standard Bank, each opening an account for David Newhall, the alias under which Holland operated, and each opening an account on Feb. 11, 1909, for sums of between $9,900 and $10,000.

Holland was arrested in Philadelphia early in the year after he had failed in his attempts to cash in on even one of his bogus creations. He strenuously resisted extradition, and in court pleaded not guilty until the evidence became so conclusive that he threw up his hands and admitted the charges against him.

The one thing which has remained a mystery is Holland's motive in the operation of his swindle, which this find proves to have been even more gigantic than at first supposed. The most astute minds have failed to see where this clever criminal hoped to turn all these foundations for fraud into actual cash. Even when Holland held in his hand a genuinely marked check for $5,000 he did not cash it, but walked out of the bank, and that night left the city. Perhaps he lost his nerve.

Holland throughout his trial and even since his conviction and sentence has steadfastly refused to disclose the hiding place of these bank books, although the police knew of and proved the deposits.
