Mrs. Farndel, of Clementsport, N. S., suffered all her life from asthma, but was permanently cured by Catarrhzone after all other means failed.

Mrs. Farndel's recovery affords overwhelming proof of what Catarrhzone will do. Nothing except Catarrhzone was of the slightest benefit, but when given a fair trial it cured.

Now perhaps you need something for your cold, or bronchitis or Asthma? Why not try Catarrhzone? Thousands have been cured by inhaling it a few minutes now and again, and certainly it wouldn't do you any harm to profit by their experience.

Mrs. Farndel gives the following statement of her case for the benefit of others who are suffering from asthma, and hopes that many will follow her example and use Catarrhzone.

"I am now in my eightieth year, and cannot recall the time when I was free from Asthma. I had always a choking cough, feverishness, spasms, difficulty in breathing, headache and nausea. My druggist advised Catarrhzone one day, and I bought a large outfit. It gave relief in five minutes and helped me very much in one day.

"I inhaled Catarrhzone ten minutes every hour, and by the time two bottles were used I was completely cured. I am as free now from Asthma as I have ever had it. My perfect recovery is due entirely to Catarrhzone. I prize my Catarrhzone Inhaler next to life itself.

TRIALS OF LAWMAKERS

BRITAIN HAS HAD SOME GREAT M.P. CASES.

Henry Labouchere's Appearance in Court in Connection With His Paper, Truth, Are Now Historic—John Burns and Cunningham Graham Did Six Weeks For Inciting to Riot in Trafalgar Square in 1888.

The sensational case in which Mr. Horatio Bottomley, M.P., is figuring so prominently at the moment in the British House of Commons recalls several other famous trials in which M.P.'s have been interested.

As in the present trial, so in the Hansard case, Mr. Bottomley conducted his own defence, and his brilliancy on that occasion stamped him as the best "lay lawyer" in the country.

Probably no M.P. ever fought more actions in the law courts than Mr. Henry Labouchere has done in connection with his popular paper, Truth. "Labby" did not seek re-election at the last General Election, after representing Northampton for twenty-six years. It is said that the libel actions in which Mr. Labouchere has been involved have cost him between $200,000 and $250,000.

Not since 1905, however, when Mr. Hugh Watt, M.P. for a division of Glasgow, was sentenced to five years' penal servitude—he was released at the end of the first year—for inciting to the murder of his former wife, has a member of Parliament figured in such a sensational case as that which is now engaging public attention at the Guildhall. But in 1901 Australia was considerably perturbed by an article which Mr. Findlay, Labor member for Melbourne, republished in his paper, the Melbourne King. This article, reprinted in Mr. Findlay's expulsion from the Victoria Legislative Assembly by sixty-four votes to seven.

Six Weeks' Imprisonment For Burns. Just twenty years ago members of Parliament were suffering fines and imprisonment for militant tactics with the same cheerful willingness which seems to characterize the Suffragettes to-day. The Parliament of 1888, in fact, was in a constant state of turmoil, chiefly owing to the troubles in Ireland; while Mr. John Burns, M.P., and Mr. Cunningham Graham, also a member of the House at the time, introduced a little variety into the excitement of the session by getting sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment, without hard labor, for inciting to unlawful assembly in Trafalgar Square.

A few days after Mr. Burns and Mr. Graham were sent to prison warrants were issued under the Crimes Act for the arrest of several Irish members. And then the fun commenced, for in spite of an ambush of lynx-eyed detectives the gentlemen of the Emerald Isle proved as elusive as the wily De Wet.

Detectives In Ambush.

Mr. Douglas Pyne, M.P., who was subsequently drowned under mysterious circumstances between Holyhead and Dublin, defied the detectives for some months. He was beleaguered in his home in Ireland for weeks. Then he escaped in a boat, crossed the Channel to London, drove in a cab to the foot of the Clock Tower, and was making a dash for the steps leading into Palace Yard when the officers seized him. Another moment and Mr. Pyne would have been safe. As it was he struggled violently to cross the border, when the Parliamentary "privilege" would have protected him from arrest, but it was too late, and finding resistance of no avail he good-humoredly surrendered.

That same afternoon the police made a sad blunder. They wanted to arrest Mr. Gilhooly, who was a little man. A detective on the look-out, seeing an Irish member of short stature in the neighborhood of the House, promptly arrested him. To the detective's horror, however, he found he had got hold of the wrong man, and had collared Mr. Patrick O'Brien instead of Mr. Gilhooly. Naturally, the detective was most humble in his apologies, but the mistake did not allow Mr. Gilhooly much more freedom, for he was captured that night outside Palace Yard amid one of the most remarkable scenes in the history of Irish politics.

"Hanged, Drawn, and Quartered." Mention of Mr. Patrick O'Brien recalls the famous trial of Mr. James Francis Xavier O'Brien, the Nationalist M.P. for Cork City, who was tried in 1867 for treason-felony, having been arrested while leading an armed party who attacked a police barracks. He was convicted and sentenced to be hanged, drawn and quartered. At the trial it appeared that the barracks was set on fire, and the inmates, including some women and children, were in imminent danger when Mr. O'Brien, at great personal risk, went to their relief. This circumstance was commented upon in terms of praise by the judge when passing sentence, which was commuted to penal servitude for life. Some years later Mr. O'Brien was amnestied.

A year after the arrest of Mr. Gilhooly the police were in pursuit of the genial and eccentric Dr. Tanner, who has since gone over to the great majority. Suddenly, amid wild Irish cheering, the doctor appeared in the House itself.

He had driven at great speed into Palace Yard in a friend's carriage, jumped hastily from the vehicle, and rushed through the members' entrance before the ambushed detectives could seize him. That night, when the House rose, Dr. Tanner proceeded to the Westminster Palace Hotel, surrounded by a crowd of Irish members, who formed a solid square round their colleague, and lustily sang "God Save Ireland" as they marched. On the steps of the hotel the doctor said good-bye to his escort, and when his friends had dispersed was quietly arrested in the smoke-room.

No Irish member, however, suffered more from the rigors of imprisonment than the late Mr. Michael Davitt, who was sentenced in 1870 to 15 years' penal servitude. He served seven.

SUFFRAGE COMING

Women of International Council Optimistic as to Outcome.

MUST FIGHT FOR OFFICE

Resolution Is Passed at Big Women's Meeting In Toronto Favoring the Contesting of All Elections Where Women Are Allowed to Run—Dr. Anna Shaw Says Equal Suffrage Is Next Great Step.

Toronto, June 22.—Canada has still a long way to go to learn if the International Council of Women is any criterion. The question of suffrage for women is looming large on the political horizon of many countries, and has risen to the zenith in several of considerable importance. Canada is behind Australia and New Zealand in this respect. Several of the United States have taken the step which politicians who fear clean politics dread. In Finland the Parliamentary and all other suffrages are extended to women.

There was a capital audience in Convocation Hall last night in connection with the fact that universal suffrage had been adopted as a department of the council. Every country, however, is left free to take up its own line of work. This was all lucidly explained by Rev. Dr. Anna Shaw, who presided. The International Council was waiting for some of the more backward councils to appoint delegates. To many present the movement was regarded as the most important work not only in the council but that was done.

Dr. Shaw said she regarded woman suffrage as the next great step in human freedom. They could not separate man from woman, and should take into the service of the state the best ability of both sexes.

The speakers were Mrs. O. E. Edwards, provincial vice-president, for Alberta; Mlle. Leprie la Fontaine, Brussels, one of the founders of the Belgium league for the rights of women, and who spoke in the absence from illness of Mlle. Popelin; Madame Julia Bernocco-Fava Paris, delegate from Italy; Frauline Salomon, who not only represented Germany, but also spoke as the newly-elected corresponding secretary, her excellent English commending her for the position; Miss Gina Krog, president of the Norwegian Council, whose quaint and jaunty self-possession quite won the audience; Mrs. Henry Dobson, president of the National Council of Tasmania and eminent in a score of societies; and last, but by no means least, the Countess of Aberdeen.

"That the International Council of Women strenuously endeavor to place women on all boards now open to women. And to secure the inclusion of women on all boards now open to women. And to secure the inclusion of women on all other authorities or committees dealing with public work."

This was the first resolution, spoken for by Mrs. Edwards, and supported by those who preceded Frauline Salomon, who moved the resolution endorsing woman suffrage. The other speakers, including the Countess of Aberdeen, supported the motion. Both were unanimously adopted.

"That each National Council promote the holding on Sundays and week days of peace days and assemblies by churches, schools, universities and societies" was the proposal of the committee on peace and arbitration presented to the afternoon session.

Mrs. Mary Wright Sewall read the report, saying a large number of countries already have a peace day. There was some discussion, and not all were of one mind regarding the question of peace day. Indeed when it came to a vote there were 41 nays to 55 yeas.

Fran Stritt of Germany said the National Council of Germany refrained from proposing a peace day as "it would never, never find people who were in sympathy with it," although every woman was in favor of the principle of peace.

The mover said that the reports from the different countries showed an increasing growth in favor of the annual peace day.

An Exhibition, Not a Circus.

Austin, Texas, June 22.—Buffalo Bill's Wild West is not a circus, according to yesterday's ruling of the Texas Court of Civil Appeals, which has upheld the decision of the District Court of Travis County, in the case of the State of Texas and Travis County v. William F. Cody.

The higher court holds that as the wild west show is not a circus, it does not have to pay a circus tax, only an exhibition tax.

Mauretania's New Record.

Queensdown, June 22.—The Cunard line steamer Mauretania has clipped another 50 minutes off the best previous eastward record, which is also her own.

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine of known composition and with a record of 40 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

Baptism of Fire.

Pickering, June 22.—The Friends' yearly meeting now in session here, held three well-attended sessions in the restored brick meeting house on Sunday. The veteran lady missionary, Eliza Varney, was present and although infirm in body, was clear in voice and mind. Thomas Davidson of England gave a lucid history of the use and growth of Quakerism. John Dillingham of Philadelphia, an ex-professor, made two splendid addresses. He conveyed the message of the Emily Williams, a colony preacher, but now an invalid, wherein he made a plea for union of all the Friends in Canada. "One body was baptized with fire in the loss of their college, another by fire in the destruction of their meeting house, and it looks like a call to peace and union."

Starves In Midst of Plenty.

Edmonton, Alta., June 22.—A little woman, with features pinched from lack of nourishment and clothes ragged from long wear, with two children, one in arms, the other scarcely six years of age, who had sent them on foot to the city in search of some means to maintain a bare existence, were found in an exhausted condition in a little shack on the river bank Sunday evening. They had been lying there all day and most of the previous night, with not a bite to eat. The brave young mother had tramped the entire 75 miles into the city, occupying four days on the trip, sleeping wherever she could find a sheltered spot, eating whatever she could beg or obtain in other ways from the farms she passed.

Constable's Fight to the Death.

Oxford, Mass., June 22.—Albert E. Miller, 33 years of age, a constable and keeper of a waiting station news stand at Oxford Heights, was shot to death by thugs about 3 o'clock, and a man identified as Frank Harding, South Milford, was later found dead in the waiting-room, a bullet hole through his heart, and Miller's handcuffs at his feet. Miller's club, covered with blood and hair, was clutched in his right hand. The dead man had no scalp wounds.

Had Bodies Unlawfully Moved.

Brantford, June 22.—William E. Dunne was yesterday found guilty of having unlawfully had the bodies of a boy and girl removed from the Carleton Cemetery plot, adjoining one he had purchased. The removal was in straightening out the boundaries. Parts of the girl's body were found on three other graves. Dunne was found guilty and bound over for one year to keep the peace. Dunne was ordered to pay the costs of $65 within a week.

Killed Seven-Foot Snake.

Chatham, June 22.—While Col. Sam Holmes and Charles Hicklin were reclining on the grass a short distance from their Joy club house property at Mitchell's Bay on Sunday, a spotted snake over seven feet long wriggled silently into their midst and had devoured a portion of their lunch before they noticed it. Hicklin went for it with a canoe paddle, which broke over its head before he killed it.

Rabies In Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, June 22.—There is an epidemic of rabies in Allegheny County and thirty-seven persons are undergoing the Pasteur treatment at the Magee Pathological Hospital here.

LOSS OF THE "STORK."

She Was Famous Among Mariners as a Quaint Old Craft.

The news of the total loss of the Hudson Bay Company's famous sailing ship, "Stork," a few weeks ago, on Lisbon Shoals, Hudson Bay, has caused no little grief among the shareholders and the factors and other officers of the company in the Northwest, whose salaries depend very much on the value of the cargo of furs she was carrying to London, England. According to Hudson Bay Co.'s official reports at the time of the wreck the "Stork" had on board a cargo of furs valued at about $130,000, the annual catch of the previous year, and which it is feared is totally lost. Lloyd's agent at Moose Factory, H.B., reports the crew all saved, and the captain on his way to London in another ship, while the crew marched leisurely overland from Moose Factory to Montreal on snowshoes. The sailors on the Hudson Bay Co.'s ships are, as a rule, recruited from the Orkneys, and enter when young lads. The captains are chosen for their splendid abilities as seamen.

The "Stork" has probably the most remarkable record of any modern sailing ship. At Lloyd's she was known among the marine insurance speculative brokers and others as the "Spectre Ship." In the course of nearly thirty years' service the stout old ship has been the cause of many exciting incidents at Lloyd's. Perhaps her most notable achievement was last year, when she had an unusually large cargo of valuable furs, and was many months overdue.

According to Lloyd's the reinsurance rates jumped seventy-five guineas per cent., and just after this sudden rise the vessel was reported as passing up the Channel. Insurance speculators were badly hit, as the rates at once went down, but again for several weeks nothing was seen or heard of her at any port along the English or French coast.

The company's officials made enquiries off Land's End, and found that the look-out had sighted, through the blinding drift a vessel answering the description of the mysterious "Stork," having on her bows the letters "St-R." Still the "spectre" did not reappear in the Channel. The insurance rates jumped up once more and the "searc" gave large holders of Hudson Bay stock a very bad twist, and money was lost on all sides.

Building Up a Speech.

Before making a speech Charles Dickens would decide on his various heads and then in his mind's eye liken the whole subject to the tire of a cart wheel, he being the hub. From the hub to the tire he would run as many spokes as there were subjects to be treated, and during the progress of the speech he would deal with each spoke separately, elaborating them as he went round the wheel, and when all the spokes dropped out one by one and nothing but the tire and space remained he would know that he had accomplished his task and that his speech was at an end.

Doing It.

Old Lady (to grocer's boy)—Don't you know that it is very rude to whistle when dealing with a lady?

Boy—That's what the gov'nor told me to do, mum.

"Told you to whistle?"

"Yes'm. He said if we ever sold you anything we'd have to whistle for the money."—London Fun.

Running Conversation.

Collector (angrily)—You know very well, sir, that this bill has been running several years. Now, I put it up to you, what do you want me to do with it? Debtor—By George, I'd enter it in the next Marathon race if I were you!—Luck.

What Did He Mean?

"Yes; I believe that every intelligent woman should have a vote."

"But, senator, I understand that you were opposed to women's suffrage?"

"I am,"—Judge.
