THE DAILY HERALD.

CHARLES H. LUGRIN, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

FREDERICTON, SEPTEMBER 20, 1882.

ENGLAND AND EGYPT.

Speculation is rife as to what will be the outcome of the Egyptian complications. Mr. Gladstone has assured the Powers that he does not aim at the territorial aggrandizement of England, and it is not probable that the public sentiment of the English people would sympathize with an Egyptian protectorate, unless it is rendered inevitable by events, or the national honor becomes involved in the establishment of a permanent control of the government at Cairo, in either of which cases Mr. Gladstone would receive the support of the entire people in such measures as would tend to that end. It is plain that British influence must be paramount along the Nile, no matter what treaties may be made, or what reso lutions Conferences may agree upon. "The inexorable logic of blood and iron" has proved that British supremacy is not a diplomatic fiction, but a substantial reality. The Egyptian people will not for many generations forget how the sons of the North defeated the great army of Arabi, almost without firing a shot. Far into the desert will go the story of those men, who, in the grey light of the morning, stormed the entrenchments of Tel El Keber. As the story travels, it will gain in all its interesting features, until in remote districts and among the ignorant of the people the British soldiers will be regarded as something more than human. Over the minds of the people British influence will of necessity be supreme. Upon the governing classes of the country the prompt bombardment of Alexandria, the speedy occupation of the country, the sudden and complete rout of Arabi, and the evident determination of the British government to take care of its own interests irrespective of the action of the other European powers, will have a potent influence. France fumed and fretted; but at the last moment stood inactive; Russia showed its teeth, but quickly covered them; Italy professed an intention of protesting, but thought better of it; Turkey refused to do as Lord Dufferin required on the part of his government, and ended on doing just as she was told. In every respect the policy of the British Government has been successfully carried through, so that Mr. Gladstone may congratulate himself, as an English statesman rarely has an opportunity of doing, upon a triumph, both of arms and diplomacy. Upon continental Europe, the evident ability and determination of Great Britain not to be imposed upon will produce admirable results. No European nation will care to quarrel with the British Empire; and if the demands of Mr. Gladstone are reasonable, they will be acquiesced in, even if they include a recognized control over the canal. We incline to the opinion that if the British Government stipulates for the sole protectorate of the canal the proposition will be acceded to. Practically Great Britain has the control now. With Aden at the outlet of the Red Sea, and Cyprus shadowing the Mediterranean approch, it would matter very little to the rest of the world if Port Said and Suez were British naval stations and garrisoned by British troops. In time of peace every nation could use the canal. In time of war Great Britain would control it, no matter how many treaties forbade such an occupation. Such are some of the ideas which suggest themselves when we read the despatches from Egypt. We do not pretend to forecaste the result.

We think the world has a good cause of complaint against Mohamet Achemet, the so-called El-Medji, or Mahomettan Messiah. A month ago the correspondents of the leading English and American journals served up a pretty bill of fare in respect to this man. What has become of him? That there is such a man is clear enough because he defeated the Egyptians soldiers on one or two occasions. That he started for Cairo with an army seems equally certain, but that he has most absurdly failed to make schedule time is equally clear. He was due at Cairo three weeks ago.

ON Monday the Sun said that the HERALD "has had about two articles a day since the 22nd June, the object of which has been to show that Mr. Blair should be Attorney General and Mr. Ritchie Solicitor General." Commenting upon this the Telegraph says: "It is needless to say that every syllable in this article is false," and further it says: "in fact, for one syllable that the HERALD has ever written in favor of Mr. Blair or Mr. Ritchie's claim to office, the Sun has published scores of articles in denunciation of Mr. Elder while he was a supporter of the government." As a matter of fact the HERALD never mentioned Mr. Blair's name in connection with the office of Attorney General, or Mr. Ritchie's in connection with the office of Solicitor General. The Sun's statement was absolutely and entirely untrue. We would not take tha trouble of saying so if the Telegraph had not referred to it.

AFFAIRS IN EGYPT.

The following decree, proposed at the Council of Ministers, on Sunday, has been signed by the Khedive:—

Article 1. The Egyptian army is dissolved.

Article 2. Officers guilty of rebellion will be prosecuted and punished according to millitary law.

Riza Pasha, Minister of the Interior, states that as the restoration of order will be impossible unless capital punishment is awared to the leaders of the revolt, he shall abandon the country if any milder sentence is passed against them.

The total surrender here consists of 6,000 men, 70 horses, 15,000 Remington rifles and 50 field guns.

The Times Cario correspondent says: The British troops are eveywhere well received even in the native quarter. Numbers of Egyptain levies are still leaving for their homes, in many cases taking Remington rifles.

The Times Alexandria correspondent says Italian naval Lieut. Paolucci who was placed under arrest on Saturday by Gen. Wood, states that he joined Arabi in a moment of folly, but that he had been in the hospital all the time since entering Arabi service.

The Times Alexandria correspondent says: One of the Egyptian officers who surrendered explains that Arabi left his best soldiers at Kafr-el-Dwar because he thought the move on Ismalia was a ruse, and that the real attack would be on Kafr-el-Dwar. It is known that the Sultan has quite recently been in communication with Arabi through Damietta, and there can be no doubt that the resistance of the commander at that place originates from Stamboul.

The Times says the punishment for the crime of rebellion is death, and without vindicitiveness it may be said that never was that punishment more richly earned than by Arabi and his chiefs.

Arabi informed General Lowe that he trusted himself to English honor as a soldier whose army had been defeated. General Lowe replied he could not discuss the questions of war. His only mission was to arrest him. Arabi considers that DeLesseps shamefully betrayed the national Egyptian party, who depended upon the assurance that he would prevent any landing of troops or war material by way of canal.

Throughout the campaign the Egyptians had a complete system of spies in Alexandria and Ismailia. The rebels expected that the British would attack Tel El Keber at midnight of the 12th, and they remained in their trenches all night. This shows that the attack was not a surprise.

The surrendered rebel officers are interned in the Khedive's palace, Two squadrons of cavalry from Mariout, after having been disarmed, were marched into Alexandria yesterday. Suleman Bey, who is supposed to have instigated the burning of Alexandria, has been captured.

It is reported that gunboats and troops have been ordered to operate against Abdallah Pacha, who is still holding Damietta.

Train service on the railroad between Cairo and Alexandria has been resumed. All the stations will be occupied by English.

A despatch from Port Said states that the commander of Damietta also holds forts Dibha and Ghemileh. The Governor of Port Said sent an Arab to the rebel commander on Friday, but the messenger has not returned.

The British has occupied Tantah.

A very painful accident occurred at Sussex on Monday to Mr. Fairweather, son of Mr. D. M. Fairweather, of the Exchance Hotel. It appears young Fairweather was capping a cartridge when, from some cause, it exploded, badly shattering his hand, a piece of the cartridge striking him in the right eye. Drs. Ryan and Burnett were called in and pronounced the sight destroyed. Dr. Coleman, of St. John, was telegraphed for and has removed the eye ball from its socket, first administering either to the unfortunate sufferer.

The remains of the late Howard J. Kennedy, the unfortunate young man who met his death by falling of the picnic train near Petitcodiac station, on Wednesday last, were buried in the Methodist burying ground at Berwick, on Friday last.

Rev. D. V. Lucas, a member of the Methodist Conference of Canada, has projected a revolutionary alteration of the marriage service of the Church. He proposes to remove from the question proposed to the woman the words "obey and serve," so that what is required of her shall be precisely what is required of the man. The movement, however, unlikely to carry, will find a good deal of support in many quarters.

The Roman Catholic Church at Dalhousie, was partly destroyed by fire on Monday. The building is so far destroyed as to be useless. There was no insurance on the building. The fire is supposed to have origininated from a cigar stump, as no stoves were in the building nor any fire around the Chnrch.
