MONCTON DOGS MUST PAY TAX

Police After Unlicensed Canines---Returns From England With a Bride.

MONCTON, Oct. 16.—Chief Tingley and his officers had a busy time today raiding the kennels of canines whose taxes were not paid. The police patrol wagon was also called into service and the first day's raid resulted in the capture of twenty dogs, that found a lodging place in apartments in the rear of the police lock-up.

The Moncton police have a contrivance all their own for capturing dogs whose footing is not paid. The apparatus used resembles a scoop net, only it is on a larger scale. Once the canine is caught in the meshes of the net there is no escaping. The contrivance works so well that Chief Tingley is thinking of having it patented. In the raid on unlicensed dogs several canines belonging to prominent citizens were scooped in and the police anticipate a rush for licenses when the pets are missed from the hearth. It costs one and two dollars to keep a dog in Moncton, according to the law, and an effort is to be made to lessen the number of canines that have hitherto escaped payment of taxes and enjoyed as much latitude as the dog that pays up.

T. R. Wilkes, of the I. C. R. offices here, arrived today from England with his bride. Mr. Wilkes left here about six weeks ago for England and was married on September 21st in St. Andrew's church, Netherton, to Miss Beatrice Edwards. Mr. and Mrs. Wilkes are being given a warm welcome by Mr. Wilkes' many friends here.

Mr. Millington, who has been employed in the I. C. R. draughtsmen's office here for the past four or five months, left tonight for his home in Montreal. Mr. Millington will be absent two months at least and is not sure that he will return to the I. C. R.

Will Humphrey, of the Royal Bank, Ted Green of J. D. Creaghan's, and Leon Melanson of Shediac, left today for Tweedie Brook camp to spend a week shooting.

Moose are reported to be very plentiful in Albert county. A resident of Albert reports seeing a drove of five the other day and it is said there is quite a herd of them on the meadows between Coverdale and Turtle Creek. Several parties in that section have secured heads.

J. C. Mabon, proprietor of the Havelock mineral springs, is recovering from his severe illness and is now able to drive out. Mr. Mabon has been ill for three or four months.

The sons are Messrs. Clifford, James and William. Sisters of deceased are Misses Mary Anne and Julia of this city, and brothers are William of St. George, and John and Felix of St. John. ## Capt. Byron A. Abbott

Yarmouth, N. S., Oct. 16—Capt. Byron A. Abbott died on Sunday night, aged fifty-eight years. He was sent to Maracaibo to look after the wrecked schooner D. J. Melanson, whose crew died of yellow fever and while there contracted the disease. On the advice of a physician he hurriedly left the place and when he arrived here was in a critical condition. Added to his illness he had Bank of Yarmouth matters to worry over, the paying of the double liability taking about all his ready money. He sailed for years for William Law & Co., and later entered the employ of Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, as master of the steamer Tanagra. He leaves a widow, who is a daughter of Capt. Eben Scott, harbor master here, and six children, four sons and two daughters. One of the sons, Capt. Charles, is third officer of the ocean liner Etruria. He was born at Barton, Digby county, and during his long residence in Yarmouth was connected with the Congregational church, of which he was a principal support. He was universally esteemed.

SIR WILLIAM'S FAREWELL

Premier Laurier Entertained Ex-Postmaster General at a Farewell Dinner at Ottawa Last Night.

Ottawa, Oct. 16.—(Special)—Sir Wilfrid Laurier gave a farewell dinner to Sir William Mulock in the Rideau Club tonight. Those present were Sir Wilfrid Laurier, with Sir William on his right and Mr. Aylesworth on his left, Sir Richard Cartwright, Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick, Hon. R. W. Scott, Hon. Clifford Sifton, Hon. Charles Hyman, Senator Frost, Senator [illegible], N. A. Belcourt, M. P., Solicitor General Lemieux, R. Stewart, M. P., W. L. MacKenzie King, Dr. Coulter, E. [illegible], W. H. Dickson and W. Mackenzie.

The toast of the King having been loyally honored, Sir Wilfrid rose and said: "I desire to give you one other toast and it is that of our old friend the late postmaster-general and the new chief justice of the exchequer division of the high court of Ontario. It is to me and the colleagues of Sir William Mulock a very sad and very real sacrifice indeed to have to part with him.

"Let me tell you a secret. This is a matter which has been known between Sir William and myself for at least four years. When Sir William Mulock came back from Australia in the year 1901 his health was so much impaired that he begged me to relieve him from the official duties which he had discharged so successfully as postmaster-general in the administration. I begged him at that time not to insist upon my accepting his resignation but to continue in office and try if possible to recover his usual health. He consented to my suggestion and persevered in his work, but after a couple of years he had to inform me that he thought he could not regain his strength if he were to continue in the very arduous task in which he was engaged.

"You know, my colleagues especially know, that Sir William's duties were of a very absorbing nature. I again begged him to defer a little longer, but now I have come to realize that he cannot ever hope to recover his former strength as long as he continued in such arduous duties.

"We all know our friend, Sir William, and we all know that whatever he undertakes he does most thoroughly. We all know also how arduous are the duties connected with administration in a country like Canada. Therefore I came to the conclusion that it would not have been fair to Sir William had I asked him to remain longer in office and very reluctantly I had, at last, to give my consent to his withdrawing from the cabinet of which he has been an ornament and so useful a member."

Sir William, who was evidently touched, said: "You have just sung that I am a jolly good fellow. I certainly do not feel in that frame of mind, but in quite the reverse. I well recall the night of my entry into Ottawa to take my place as a member of the House of Commons. Today my political life has come to an end.

"I entered public life attracted by its possibilities and by the glamor that is supposed to surround it, and my imagination pictured at that time what it might be possible for one to do.

"I suppose it is the experience of every man, but looking back over many years of effort one sees so little accomplished. Still the effort to accomplish gives an interest to the effort itself and so my twenty-three years in public life become attractive to me, as second nature.

"Nevertheless this is the saddest moment I have experienced since my manhood. Whilst public men come and public men go; whilst we come upon the stage, have one brief stay there and go, some of us, like myself, perhaps, linger reluctantly too long upon the stage, yet we know there comes an end to that life.

"And so I go with a very heavy heart from you all because I was in such perfect accord with you upon all questions and enjoyed so friendly and happy relations with you all, but I will take with me into private life memories, and I trust attachments, that will last as long as life itself. (Long applause.)
