JIU-JITSU IS A DANGEROUS SPORT

Experts Can Break Bones by Simple but Painful Means ---What Bothner Says.

In view of the jiu-jitsu match between Tremblay and Iamagata at Sohmer Park Friday night, George Bothner's story of his experience with Higashi, another expert at the Japanese game, will be interesting. Bothner says:

"About six months ago, when it had become a fad, I concluded I'd get up a public contest. Men asked me what chance a wrestler would have against a jiu-jitsu man. I said it could only be determined by a trial, and finally, to test it, I offered to meet any of the jitsu experts in this country.

"At the West Side Republican Club they had an entertainment, and I was to meet one of the Japanese wrestlers, but he did not appear. Then a friend of mine saw Higashi and proposed a trial test. Later I saw him myself, and he seemed satisfied with the conditions I named.

"The only hitch was about wearing the kimono. You see, with that garment the Jap is perfectly at home, as he has always practiced with it, and knows just where to find the vital spots in his opponent's body.

"Another thing, when a Japanese wrestler once gets hold of the garment at the neck a man never knows what his opponent is going to do. I had observed that the garment played an important part in wrestling, and, being cautious, there was much haggling about it.

"It was two months before I finally agreed to wear a kimono. The one that I did wear was not delivered to me until a few minutes before the performance began. I found it was much heavier than the ordinary kimono, being of a white canvas fabric, something like sail cloth, of double thickness around the shoulders and neck, exceedingly clumsy for a novice. Besides that, and an important point for the Jap, was that this collar was extra thick and stiff. The garment weighed four pounds, was sewed by hand with double linen thread and very strong.

"Of course, when I got into the kimono just before the contest was going to come off I recognized the disadvantage of it, and, being always used to wrestling stripped to the waist, I felt awkward.

"I had reason for being wary, because while teaching at Princeton I had learned a lot about jitsu of a couple of Japs down there who were teaching the boys. They gave me an idea of what they could do. Among other things they threw an instructor over their heads, twenty feet high, he landing on his skull.

"When I recalled all this I came to the conclusion that it was the kimono business that would do me up if I didn't keep my eyes open, so I resolved to be very cautious. There is no doubt that once a Japanese wrestler gets his hold on a man—say a big, strong man who attacks a Jap on the street—no matter how big he may be, the Jap can handle him like a child. You see, I was so well posted on how a lot of bone-breaking tricks are done that I was determined to do just the opposite to what the Jap wanted me to do.

"The first thing was a strangle hold. I knew if I stood up and the Jap once got his clutch on me he would throw me over his head, as I had seen it done in Princeton. So I resolved to take no long chances, and that is why I got down on my hands and knees and waited my chance to get at my opponent. Then, again, I wanted to tire him out, let him do the worrying and I do the watching.

"When on my hands and knees with my thumbs inside my clinched hands I gave him no opening for trying any of his bone-breaking tricks, so there was nothing left for the Jap to do but confine himself to the strangle hold, while trying to dig his thumbs into my neck or into the vital spot that the Jap knows so well behind the ear.

"There is a place there where a quick pressure of the thumb nail will put a man to sleep instantly, and then a blow or two will knock him out. I could feel the Jap clutching around and digging into my neck. Having pulled the kimono over my head, which covered up the work of his thumb in the strangle hold, he could hide his movements, while the audience was naturally in the dark and saw no interest in it.

"I knew well what he was after. When people thought I was doing nothing I was fighting to save myself my own way. Look at my eye where the Jap got his thumb in. You see, it is swollen. It would have been a close call if he'd once got in his fine work and disabled my eye.

"I have been criticized by some for not standing up, but with this explanation you can see why I did not stand on my feet like an ordinary wrestler. I was on my hands and knees simply to await an opening—to catch the Jap off his guard. I knew that if I could once get a fair hold of him and do one of my stunts I could land him. The fact that I won out in the end, securing three straight falls, shows that I was right in my theory of wrestling with a jitsu man."

CRICKET

Practice This Afternoon

There will be a cricket practice this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Shamrock grounds. All those intending playing this season, or who are anxious to try for a place on the team which is going to Nova Scotia, are requested to attend. All those interested in cricket are requested to attend a meeting at 68 Prince Wm. street, on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

AMERICAN TEAM OUT FOR THE BENNETT POLO CUP

LONDON, May 26.—Craig Wadsworth, second secretary of the American embassy, has organized an American team to contest the James Gordon Bennett polo cup in Paris, about the middle of June. The players will be Richard Tobin of San Francisco, Frank J. Mackay, Lawrence McCreery and Craig Wadsworth.

The cup was first offered two years ago, but as there were no American entries it has never heretofore been competed for. It is considered probable that an English team will enter.

Fitz Ready to Defend Title

Though many have been watching for Bob Fitzsimmons' announcement of his retirement for the past few days, on account of Jeffries' retirement, the old fellow is still in the game evidently, and looking for a mixup. The following explains itself as to why Fitz gave Mike Shreck the preference when other prominent boxers were apparently willing to meet him at the middle-weight limit: "I made the match with Shreck," says Fitz "because some of the other middleweights were not anxious to accept my challenge to meet any man in the world at 158 pounds. I have had $5,000 posted with Al Smith in New York for four months to make a match with any middle-weight in the world, especially Jack O'Brien and Tommy Ryan, but neither of them saw fit to accept, although Ryan wanted to make a match at 154 pounds, claiming that was the middle-weight limit. The limit is 158 pounds, and that is the weight I won the title at and will defend it at that weight. I will make a match with either of the two named for 20 rounds at any time they will cover my forfeit, but they must show their money before talking in the papers. My forfeit also holds good for a match with Marvin Hart, who recently whipped Jack Johnson, the negro heavy-weight. I received another offer from a Philadelphia club for a six-round bout with Hart, but refused to accept it, as I do not like the short contests, and, besides, I have a match on with Shreck. However, if Hart wants to make a match for 20 rounds in Frisco I will close with him at any time.

With the Boxers

Ex-champion Jeffries has reached San Francisco. He said he had grown tired of the show business, although there was big money in it. He said he had made $33,000 this season above all expenses, but as he had saved a good deal in previous years he had enough and proposed to live as he pleased and go into the mining business.

Terry McGovern is going to visit Ireland with Senator Tim Sullivan. They will sail about July 1.

The Hayes Valley A. C. of California has received the July permit from the police supervisors of San Francisco. This shuts out Jimmy Britt's new club, which had figured on holding the Nelson and Britt bout.

Peter Sullivan of New Bedford is anxious for a go with Kid Goodman at 135 pounds.

Benny Yanger, whom the Douglas A. C. managers were trying to match against Kid Goodman, May 30, having broken his arm, the club officialus are now making an effort to get Adam Ryan of Chicago to meet Goodman on that date.

Johnnie McIntyre, of Halifax, the 122 pounder, who is in Boston looking for trouble, was given a try-out with a local boxer yesterday afternoon. McIntyre was a trifle fat, and only a short bout was boxed. With a little more experience the Halifax boy may make good. (Boston Journal, May 23.)

EXHIBITION GAMES WILL BE PLAYED

The Schedule of the N. B. Baseball League Could Not Be Agreed Upon --- Local Teams Play Tomorrow.

For the present at least there will be no New Brunswick league schedule games. This decision is the result of a disagreement as to dates, J. Douglas Black, of the Fredericton Tartars, having sent word yesterday that his team could not agree on the schedule as drawn up.

On the receipt of this word from Mr. Black a conference was held and resulted in the temporary decision as stated.

It has been found that with a three-team league the schedule could not be arranged satisfactorily to all but it is believed that if there were four teams all could be made workable. An effort will be made to get another team to enter and it is thought yet that the matter can be straightened out.

In the meantime exhibition games will be played, the first of which will be on the Victoria grounds on Saturday between the St. Johns and Portlands. The Tartars would like to play here on Saturday, but owing to the agreement of the two St. John teams to play the idea had to be abandoned. There is no doubt but that the exhibition games will be just as interesting as any league games. The north and south ends have always been rivals and the Fredericton team is a good one. From the class of ball put up on the 24th it looks as if the season's sport will be bright. Outside of the local matches there will be plenty of games with outside teams.

Jubilees and St. Roses Tie

An exceptionally large crowd attended the West End league game last night, when the Jubilees and St. Roses played a tie game, the score standing 4 to 4 after a red hot five inning game. At the third inning the Jubilees were ahead 4 to 2. In the fourth, however, the Fairville team tied the score. The game went another inning but neither side scored and play was called on account of darkness.

Bent, who pitched for the Jubilees, had four strikeouts, while Quigg, for the St. Roses, had eight. Wolff, of the Jubilees, made a home run.

There will be a game tonight between the St. Roses and Victorias.

Acadia, 17; Windsor, 8

WOLFVILLE, N. S., May 26.—Victoria Day was celebrated by an athletic tournament on the college campus. The weather was perfect, and a large number of visitors from other towns witnessed the well executed events. The first contest was a executed events. The first contest was a Windsor and Acadia. Acadia got seven runs in the first inning, but the rest of the game was even, both sides getting in good play. At the close the score was 17 to 8 in favor of Acadia.

A number of games have been played between the college classes and the academy during the season, the result of the league games being first place for Horton Academy.

TENNIS

Wacissa Tennis Club

HARCOURT, May 25. — The Victoria Day tournament of the Wacissa Tennis Club was a great success. The playing was skilful and the guests spent an enjoyable afternoon, appreciating highly the games and the spread provided by the standing committee. The second court, added this year, has been a source of much satisfaction. Of the nine numbers played five resulted in deuce sets.

The sets played were as follows:—

W. G. Thurber and Miss Minnie A. Buckley vs. W. F. Buckley and Miss J. P. Dunn—6 to 5.

L. P. MacMichael and Miss E. Trinda Wathen vs. J. A. L. Wathen and Miss Etella G. Wilson—6 to 2.

Greene.—"Funny about songs!"
Gray—"I suppose so; but in what way?"
Greene—"The author of 'Do they miss me at home?' never went away from home, and the author of 'A life on the ocean wave' never went to sea. The less you know about a thing the more competent you are to write about it, apparently."

YACHTS AND YACHTSMEN

Fast Time Predicted in Ocean Race --- Fifteen Entries for Dover-Heligoland Race.

Each incoming ocean liner reports weather conditions met with in the journey across that give rise to the hope that the Endymion's record for the transatlantic passage under sail will be beaten by the first of the Kaiser Cup boats to arrive at the Lizard. They report prevailing westerly winds had been encountered varying from twenty to twenty-five knots, with light seas, clear weather, and no ice. These are the conditions prayed for by all the schooners in the race, and suggest that those boats that took the northernmost course will find a clear path with nothing to interrupt a speedy passage. They favor the Atlantic and Hamburg most, and have delighted the yachtsmen who pinned their faith on these two favorites to win the cup. Alfred Marshall, brother of the Atlantic's owner, says that he figured the crack schooner had covered easily 1,200 miles in the four and a half days since the start. This, allowing for the slow progress on the first day, would insure the boat arriving off the Lizard well under the record if the same rate was maintained. He said that Barr intended to go much farther north than was generally supposed, taking every chance with the ice consistent with reasonable safety. He said both the owner and skipper were confident that with such conditions as they have so far encountered they could surely make fifteen knots, and that the Atlantic's speed limit was as high as seventeen knots made on several occasions. The Hamburg, with a record of 16½, is sure to be well advanced, while the Endymion and Fleur de Lys could not have been better suited by the weather man had they ordered their own brand. These four boats, equal in the choice of courses, should be well to the fore, with the Hildegarde likely to be showing almost as good a pace. Neither the Apache nor the Valhalla has anything to complain of unless it be that the wind has not been strong enough to bother the fore-and-aft rigged yachts. Neither has the sea been heavy enough to worry them. Heavy weather these two have prayed for, with westerly gales that would drive them while compelling the others to run close-hauled, if not with almost bare poles. The Thistle, too, wanted this kind of weather.

Dover-Heligoland Race

Fifteen yachts have entered in the Dover-Heligoland race for the cup offered by Emperor William, who will personally present it to the winner. For this contest which will take place on June 17, the following-named American yachts are included in the entries; The Ailsa of the New York Yacht Club, owned by Henry S. Redmond; the Thistle of the Atlantic Yacht Club, owned by Robert E. Tod; the Hildegarde of the Corinthian Yacht Club, Philadelphia, owned by Edward R. Coleman; the Fleur de Lys of the New York Yacht Club, owned by Dr. Lewis A. Stimson, and the Endymion of the Indian Harbor Yacht Club, owned by George Lauder, Jr. The yachts Apache of the New York Yacht Club, owned by Edmund Randolph; Utowana of the New York Yacht Club, owned by Allison V. Armour, and Atlantic of the New York Yacht Club, owned by Wilson Marshall, have entered the race for auxiliaries. All these yachts are now taking part in the race for Emperor William's $5000 gold cup.

MONCTON

MONCTON, May 26. — It is evident that the last of the trouble between certain members of the Imperial Coal Company, operating at Beersville, Kent county, has not yet been heard by the public. Since the Seeley-Polley case in the police court here last fall, in which the information was dismissed with a reprimand to some of the parties interested in the prosecution, certain of the New York members of the Imperial Coal Co. have fought shy of Moncton. Recently one of the parties who gave evidence for the prosecution desired to come to Moncton to attend a meeting of another concern he is interested in, but he decided not to venture across the line until he was satisfied that the defendant in the Seeley prosecution would not molest him. The outcome of negotiations is that the New York man is to be allowed to pay a short visit to Moncton in peace, providing he does not make his stay too long. Intimations have been made, however, that proceedings against another New Yorker who figured prominently in the case in question, and who continues his visits here, may not long be withheld.

Henry Cormier, the wholesale dealer in beer upon which a number of saloon keepers have been proceeded against for Scott Act violation, admitted C. T. A violation on Tuesday and was fined $50 for keeping for sale.

The Moncton Rifle Association had a most successful opening of their season's shoot on Wednesday. There were 54 competitors at the range, a large percentage being from the States. The Rifle Association has made many improvements to their range and are looking forward to the most successful season they have ever had.

The Moncton police are getting very strict about allowing people to stand around the streets. A few cases in the courts is likely to be the result of the officers' attempts to stop people standing on the sidewalk and streets. In one or two cases the police have come in contact with well-known citizens. In one case, it is stated, a citizen was ordered off his own doorstep and there was a stormy scene. In another case information has been laid against a well-known resident, charging him with obstructing the street. It seems the citizen declined to move along when ordered to do so by the chief of police. This case will likely be aired in the police court.

H. H. Schaefer, who has recently been appointed district freight agent of the I. C. R. at St. John in place of E. S. Smiley, will not remove his family to St. John until September. Mr. Schaefer's family will spend the summer at Cape Baule, Shediac.

Frank C. Bezanson is home from Sydney to spend a few days.

THE READVILLE HORSE SALE

Some Good Prices Realized--- J. M. Johnson Buys a Bingen Filly and Dam.

Boston,, May 25—The horse sale at Readville appears to be gathering strength, for horses sold better yesterday than on either Monday or Tuesday. There was nothing remarkable before the auctioneer, but there were buyers on hand ready to take the offings at prices which made most of the horses look like an even exchange of the horse for the money.

Royal R. Sheldon, 2.04¾, and Cascade, 2.06¼, divided the top price honors, each bringing $1,200. The former is now the property of G. D. King, of Paterson (N. J.), and the latter's owner is John McGuire, the New York dealer. Both these horses brought a bit more money than was generally expected.

O. A. Kelly, of Worcester, paid $800 for the Electmont pacer, Lady Sealskin, 2.16¼. The Directum colt, Directum's Poster, cost J. F. Fitzgerald $1,075. Bither & Palmer bid off Ollie Woodard's Adion mare, Eliska, 2.20¼, at $825, and it would not be surprising if she starts at the Boston driving club matinees with George Graves as her driver. C. H. Belledeu's good matinee trotter, Susie K., went to G. D. King, and will ride in the same car as Royal R. Sheldon. J. M. Johnson, of Calais (Me.), added to his Bingen holdings by getting the Dexter Prince mare Florone, who has a filly by Bingen at her side.

Readville, Mass., May 25—Prices at the horse sale at the Readville track today ranged somewhat lower than on previous days this week and only two horses brought more than $500. Keppewa, 2.07¾, by Kremlin, went to George Leavitt, of Readville, for $620, and Hattie Mack, 2.18¼, by Red Lambert, to John McDermott, of New York, for $826.

Delhi Won Brooklyn Handicap

New York, May 25.—Delhi, last year's champion "Miler," carried the Keene colors to an easy victory this afternoon at Gravesend in the Brooklyn handicap. The speedy son of Ben Brush thereby enriched his owner in the sum of $16,000, while Ostrich, from the "Boston Stable," captured second prize, $2,500, and Graziallo, the Columbia stable candidate, won third money, amounting to $1,500. About 30,000 persons were on the grounds, the attendance being somewhat less than the average handicap days because of the advance in prices at the gates.

Delhi was favorite in the betting and carried thousands upon thousands of public money. As good as 4 to 1 could be had against his chances for a moment when the books opend, but the flood of wagers forced his price to 2½ in a few minutes. Ostrich and Grazaillo were heavily backed for second and third places.

A THIRD TRIAL FOR SANDFORD

A Farmington (Maine) despatch of May 24th says:—

"Rev. Frank W. Sandford, leader of the Holy Ghost and Us colony at Shiloh, arrived here Wednesday for the purpose of renewing his bond of $2,000 for appearance before the present term of the supreme court for Franklin county, should it be decided to try him a third time on the charge of manslaughter.

"There is a probability that the trial of Rev. Frank W. Sandford charged with manslaughter in causing the death through neglect of Leander W. Bartlett, will not be tried at the term of court now in session here, as it has been expected would be the case. Franklin county is a small county, and though fairly well to do for a small community it has no superabundance of wealth and some of the leading citizens here are presenting the argument that it is too much to ask that the county shall bear the expense of a second trial for an alleged offense charged with having been committed in another county. The report is current that the objection being raised to the retrial of the case in this county meets the approval of Justice Whitehouse, who is presiding at this term of court, although he has expressed no opinion in public concerning the matter. Among the attorneys, the belief is now held that the case will be postponed. It is further understood that Mr. Sandford objects to being tried in Franklin county, his contention being that sentiment is as strongly against him here as in his own county."

Pain Across the Kidneys For Three Years.

Suffered Great Agony.

Could Not Stoop or Bend.

No disease is so quiet and stealthy in its approach as kidney disease. That is why it is so dangerous. It may become deep-seated before you realize the danger.

It is therefore of great importance to recognize the early warning symptoms, because in its early stage kidney disease is easily curable. Pain or dull ache in the back is one of the first signs. So are bladder pains, bearing-down pains, smarting sensation when urinating, frequent or suppressed urination, and gravel or sediment in the urine, etc. You cannot be well if your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. In all ordinary cases of any derangement of the kidneys, a few doses of will put the patient right; in old or chronic cases, the treatment should be persisted in.

Mr. Michael A. McInnis, Woodbine, Marion Bridge, N. S., tells of his experience: "For the last three years I suffered great agony with pain across my kidneys, and was so bad that I could not stoop or bend. I consulted, and had several doctors treat me, but I got none the better. On the advice of a friend I procured a box of that valuable life-giving remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, and to my surprise and benefit I immediately became better. In my opinion Doan's Kidney Pills have no equal as a cure for any form of Kidney disease.

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25. All dealers, or direct by mail.
