

KILLED ON SHORE LINE.

Ernest Jansson, a Swede,
Met a Terrible Death
at Duck Cove Yesterday Afternoon.

Ernest Jansson, a section man on the Shore Line Railway met with a fatal accident yesterday afternoon near Duck Cove. He was dragged about one hundred yards by a rapidly moving train and received injuries from which he died about eleven o'clock last night. Jansson was employed in clearing the line of the N. B. Southern between Carleton and a point about ten miles below, where the regular train is stalled in a snow-drift, and as the workmen cleared each cutting a relief train was run through the opening.

When the accident happened the train had given the warning whistle to the workmen to get out of the way, and all of them had climbed up the slanting snow bank. As the engine and cars shot past Jansson felt the snow give way beneath him and to his horror he found himself being irresistibly borne upon the advancing cars. He struck the last car, and became entangled. Before the engineer was aware of the accident and could bring the train to a stop Jansson had been dragged between three hundred and four hundred feet.

He was alive when the workmen reached him, but his injuries were soon to be terrible. His face was crushed in, the bones being broken, and the flesh hanging in shreds. His right arm also was nearly severed from his body.

As soon as possible he was brought back to Carleton and Dr. Wheeler was summoned to attend him. The ambulance was summoned and Jansson was removed to the public hospital. Though breathing, he was in an extremely weak condition, and about eleven o'clock he passed away. He leaves a wife and three small children, all girls. He was a Swede by nationality, but came out to this country about nine years ago, having married but two years previous to his emigration.

RECIPROCITY

IGNIS FATUUS.

An American View of the Treaty With Newfoundland.

(Chicago Tribune.)

The reciprocity treaty with Newfoundland which has hung fire in the Senate so long has been amended in so ingenious a fashion as to insure its ratification by that body and its rejection by the Newfoundland government. The object of that government in negotiating the treaty was to secure the free admission to the American market of the salted fish of the colony. In return for that, concessions were made calculated to give the Americans nearly a monopoly of the trade with Newfoundland.

The Gloucester fishermen objected, alleging that they would not get so good a price for their sea food. Senator Lodge stood by them and delayed action on the treaty until he could persuade the Senate to amend it by striking out the provision for the free admission of salted fish. That ends the treaty. As it stood originally it was a reasonably fair give and take, the Americans getting, on the whole, much more than they gave. As amended it is a jug-handle affair which the Newfoundlanders will not touch.

The United States is so good a market for fish, fresh or salted, that it could consume without an appreciable lowering of price all the Newfoundland fish that could send here if no duty had to be paid. The Gloucester men would lose nothing in the long run if Newfoundland fish were let in free, while they are likely to find it more difficult to get in the ports of the island the bait they need. They have been getting it easily heretofore, but the Newfoundland government may change that when it earns the fate of a treaty it was so anxious to see in operation.

This incident goes to show what a waste of breath it is to talk about reciprocity with anybody. With conditions such as they are in the Senate no treaty can be ratified, no matter how advantageous to American interests it may be. There will always be some petty industry to allege that it will be injured, and it will have a senator who will postpone action on the treaty indefinitely or have it amended to death, as the Newfoundland agreement has been.

A WARNING.

The following notice is being sent by the board of health to all proprietors of public conveyances:

Any conveyance that has been used to carry any person suffering from any of the following diseases, smallpox, cholera, diphtheria, scarlet fever, typhus fever, typhoid fever, or measles, shall be immediately disinfected before further use is made of it, and no conductor, owner or proprietor, of any public conveyance shall knowingly carry such sick person without an order from the local board of health.

Any persons who wilfully disobey the above shall be liable for each and every offence to a penalty not exceeding forty dollars, or to imprisonment not exceeding forty days, or until the penalty and cost of prosecution are paid.

"That young Sawyer does more to promote the public health than any doctor in town."

"So I never heard of him as a doctor of special talent."

"No; but his father was the leading doctor here, and the youngest inherited a good part of the old man's practice, and the old patients have so little confidence in him that they don't dare be sick."

AMHERST NEWS.

Boot & Shoe Co. Get Western Business --- A Good Town Council.

Amherst, N. S., Feb. 15.—The annual meeting of the Amherst Boot & Shoe Co., Limited was held yesterday afternoon in Parish House hall, a large number being present.

The old board of directors consisting of M. D. Pridie, J. R. Luncey, D. W. Robb, Hon. W. G. Pipes and J. A. Dickey, C. E., were re-elected.

The company's output last season was six hundred and ninety four thousand dollars, being an increase of about fifty thousand dollars over the previous year. This is largely due to the opening up a year ago of trade by the company in British Columbia and the Northwest territories, which has been most satisfactory. A dividend of 7 per cent. was declared payable immediately. The stockholders present appeared well satisfied with the past business.

Judging by the committee appointed at the first meeting of the new council the town's business for the current year will be well looked after. They consist of the following:—

Finances:—F. A. Cates, (chairman); A. G. Robb, W. W. Black.

Schools:—Messrs. Black, Cates and Mayor Lowther.

Poor:—The mayor, N. D. Ackles, H. Moffatt.

Streets and Lights:—Black, Cates, Ackles.

Police and Licenses:—The mayor, Ackles, W. McCallum.

Temperance:—The mayor, Moffatt, Cates.

Water:—Cates, the mayor, Black.

Town Property:—Moffatt, Ackles, McCallum.

Fire:—Robb, the mayor, Cates.

Winter Fair Commission:—Black, McCallum, Robb.

Hospital Board:—Moffatt, Cates, the mayor.

Deputy Mayor:—F. A. Cates.

Assessment Appeal Court:—Black, Cates and Robb.

With the exception of the appointment of L. Malar in place of street superintendent Chambers the officers of the town were all reappointed. Mayor Lowther seems to have "got on to his job" very readily, and, if the first night's meeting is an indication of the way he pushes business, there will be little time lost at the council board in unnecessary discussion.

THRONE SUPPORTED BY THE BAYONET.

Present Situation Existing Between the Russian Army and the People.

The rupture of the spiritual ties which bound the Russians to their ruler has left the throne supported by bayonets alone. Henceforth the sovereign must rely exclusively on hirelings for protection. They will know it, and the people will know it. The utmost that he can expect from them will be lip service and veiled contempt.

Like Alexander II., the present czar had a majestic opportunity, but, unlike his great and unhappy grandfather, he let it slip through his hands. It will never recur. Even should Nicholas or his successor ultimately grant the desired reform the concession would be a thankless one. The boon would be looked upon as extorted; suspicion, disparagement and calumny will leave no room for gratitude. Never, in fine, can a Romanoff recover his former place in the popular esteem and confidence. How long the present dynasty can last now depends entirely upon the question how long its representatives can manage to buy the venal services of their soldiers.

As a matter of fact, the rank and file of the Russian army is by no means so stolid and unimpressible as it is often said to be. There never was a time in Russian history when the genuine Muscovites, who constitute the mass of the infantry and artillery—we are not speaking of Oriental or of mongrel—could be exposed with safety to the infection of progressive ideas. The regiments, for example, which had gone through the campaigns against Napoleon, returned to their native country tainted with the ideas of the French liberalism, and in the Decemberist conspiracy of 1825 they took a conspicuous and formidable part. If such was the sensitiveness evinced by Russian soldiers to influence emanating from enemies or strangers, and expressed in a language wholly or in part unintelligible, how much more quickly and thoroughly must they assimilate the thoughts and feelings uttered in their mother tongue by their fathers and their brethren! To take for granted that a large majority of the Russian infantry and artillery will remain for an indefinite period the willing tools of despotism amid an electric atmosphere that agitates the nerves with the flash and rumble of approaching revolution is to disregard physiological and psychological probabilities and to ignore historical facts. It is doubtless possible that barbarous, half-savage levies drawn from the outskirts of the empire—Cossacks, Circassians, Turcomans, Mongols—would confront for a little while the storm of popular exasperation, but how long could they stand against the sixty million Muscovites who form the core and represent the heart and conscience of the Russian nation?

The peasant-recruited regiments quartered at Moscow, Novgorod, Kieff and other cradles of the veritable Russian folk, are characterized by a spirit very different from that which marks the Imperial Guards habitually stationed at St. Petersburg. Harper's Weekly.

Mrs. Greene. "So you didn't discharge your cook, after all?"

Mrs. Gray. "No. Dr. Wyse was very much opposed to it."

Mrs. Greene. "And who pray, is Dr. Wyse, and what has he to do with it?"

Mrs. Gray. "He is our family physician."

PREPARING FOR A THAW.

The I. C. R. Authorities
Fear Its Effects---Effects of the Storms.

Moncton, Feb. 16.—The I. C. R. authorities now fear a thaw more than another snow storm. There is such a quantity of snow piled up along the line that a thaw of any magnitude followed by cold weather would have a more paralyzing effect upon traffic than any storm of the winter. In consequence of this threatening danger the track department of the Intercolonial will be kept busy for the next few days at least putting the line in as good shape as possible for the thaw that must be experienced sooner or later.

The hull in the storm and the comparatively mild weather yesterday gave the I. C. R. fuel department an opportunity of re-stocking the coal bin. The supply was again getting low and another day or two of suspension of traffic between Moncton and Springhill might have resulted in the railway drawing on private coal for its supply to keep things moving.

Philip N. Hamm expects to have his biscuit factory at the corner of Main and Pleasant streets in operation within a few weeks' time. A large brick oven has been constructed and other improvements necessary for his particular business have been made on the property purchased by Mr. Hamm.

Inspector O'Leaves is inspecting the city schools. This is a little ahead of the usual date of inspection, but the inspector finds it impossible to get around to the country schools on account of the blocked condition of the roads. In many sections of the country the roads are almost impassable and even the mail carriers have been unable to make their regular trips.

AT FIRST GLANCE

It Would Appear That Local Remedies Would be Best for Cure of Catarrh.

It would seem at first glance that catarrh being a disease of the mucous membrane, that salves, sprays, etc., being applied directly to the membranes of the nose and throat, would be the most rational treatment, but this has been proven not to be true.

The mucous membrane is made and repaired from the blood and catarrh is a blood disease and any remedy to make a permanent cure must act on the blood, and when the blood is purified from catarrhal poison, the secretions from the mucous membrane will become natural and healthy.

In this climate, thousands of people seem scarcely ever free from some form of catarrh; it gets better at times but each winter becomes gradually deeper seated and after a time the sufferer resigns himself to it as a necessary evil.

Catarrh cures are almost as numerous as catarrh sufferers, but are nearly all so inconvenient that are ineffective as to render their use a nuisance. As a remedy as catarrh itself, anyone who has used douches, sprays and powders will bear witness to their inconvenience and failure to really cure.

There are a number of excellent internal remedies for catarrh, but probably the best and certainly the safest is a new remedy, composed of Red Gum, Blood Root and similar antiseptic remedies and other valuable catarrh specifics.

This remedy is in tablet form, pleasant to the taste and sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and anyone suffering from catarrh may use these tablets with absolute assurance that they contain no cocaine, opium nor any poisonous animal matter.

A leading druggist in Albany speaking of catarrh cures says, "I have sold various catarrh cures for years, but have never sold any which gave such general satisfaction as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. They contain in a pleasant, concentrated form all the best and latest catarrh remedies, and catarrh sufferers, who have used douches, sprays and salves, have been astonished at the quick relief and permanent results obtained after a week's use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets." All druggists sell full sized packages for fifty cents.

There is fully three feet of snow on the level, and the drifts in places attain a height of upwards of twenty feet. Should a rain set in there being no bottom to the snow, travel everywhere would be paralyzed.
