THE COPPER MARKET

Unless Speculation and Manipulation Affect It the Price Should Remain Around 14 1-2 to 15c.---Comment and Statistics.

(Boston Transcript.)

The New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin continues its bearish analysis of the copper position and outlook. Here are its figures of statistics for the first eight months of 1905:

	Tons.
Domestic production, Jan. 1 to Aug. 31, 1905	283,840
Imports, same period	59,250
Total available	343,090
	Tons
Exports	170,690
Domestic consumption	168,000
	338,690
Surplus, eight months	4,391
Surplus Jan. 1, 1905	54,000
Surplus Sept. 1, 1905	58,391

The Journal of Commerce says: "According to the government returns three-fifths of the producers in the United States had surplus stocks of 54,000 tons Jan. 1, 1905, not including the metal on hand at the refining works nor carried by merchants, bankers or speculators, nor copper in stock at works of consumers. It will be claimed, of course, that the government estimates of stocks are too large, but even if some of this copper has passed into second hands, speculative or otherwise, it certainly has not been melted. To the surplus in this country we must remember that about 500,000 tons is held in stock in China, out of the 70,000 tons that that country has taken from the United States, Australia and Japan. In addition to these facts it is to be remembered that Europe has taken 50,000 tons less copper since Jan. 1 than during the first eight months of last year; that is, the decreased consumption of Europe is greater than the increased consumption in the United States. From now on the tendency will be in favor of consumers, and we are credibly informed that those who hold large stocks of copper, whether here or abroad, are trying to market their holdings cautiously so as not to disturb the market too violently at this time." It says of the statistics which we have summarized: "We base our estimate upon government returns for 1904. It is well known that production has increased enormously since the first of the year and will increase still further during the next four months. Montana will have increased 50,000,000 pounds during 1905, Arizona slightly less. There will also be an increase in Utah, Alaska, Wyoming and Idaho."

On this showing, with no increase in production in the current four months, the United States will show some 934,000,000 pounds' production for 1905, figuring the tons at 2240 pounds, and imports would add 200,000,000 pounds—1,154,000,000 available, plus the 121,000,000 pounds of surplus or accumulated stocks Jan. 1; grand total 1,275,000,000 pounds of copper for 1905. Call exports 575,000,000 pounds, an amount probably too large in view of recent declining tendency, we have 700,000,000 pounds for domestic consumption. At the eight months' rate the year would show 565,000,000 pounds; surplus at end of year 135,000,000 pounds, a heavy total, say one and one-half months' total supply from product and imports. All of this is estimate, and of course it is from the bear point of view, which argues from heavy increase of production and decreasing exports, while consumption halts under existing confusion. But manipulation or not, it is plain that copper is sold well ahead; many of the companies have disposed of balance of 1905 output. "The past, at least, is secure," and 1905 has been a great year for the producing companies. Stockholders have done well in dividends, though it is but just to say that these yet have to increase at all proportionately to the presumable increase in net profits of the year.

Since 1905 began the metal has ruled above 15 cents, and probably 15½ cents is a fair average, which contrasts with 13¼ cents' average in 1904. That 2¼ cents' added profit on 954,000,000 pounds' product, if that estimate of 1905 product is correct, means $21,465,000 more profit to American copper mines than they made last year. There has been an overdoing of copper business, no doubt; the companies themselves welcomed the reaction last week; everyone will concede the greater value of a moderate price, lasting well, in contrast with recent excitement. It may be that a sharp setback is impending, but it looks much more like a return to conditions of the first half of the year, during which copper was comparatively stable. In current discussion it is well to take a middle ground as between intense bulls and extreme bears. With continued good general business copper will be in good request, at home and abroad. The increased production will affect price naturally by increasing supply, but somewhere from 14½ to 15½ cents should be found a stable market for the metal unless speculation and manipulation offset natural law, as has been the case in the past.

FINANCIAL SITUATION

It is Complicated by Low Cash Reserve --- Other Considerations.

(New York Globe.)

The present situation is complicated, by an extremely low surplus bank reserve, which has given rise to fears that in the course of the regular autumn ingathering of crop-moving money, credits extended to speculators will at some stage have to be forcibly curtailed. Whether such a necessity will develop depends upon how fast and efficient the relieving agencies will work, which are set in motion by an advance in money rates. In other words, will the outside capital attracted by higher money come in rapidly enough to counterbalance the drain of cash to the interior of the country and to the treasury? Both of these sources of demand are of a necessitous character, in that they cannot be turned aside or diminished by raising the bids for money. Hence everything rests with an offset being found sufficiently powerful to make good the heavy drafts in prospect upon the bank reserve. Loan reduction occasioned by the substitution of loans by outside institutions for loans of clearing house members is one of the offsets to be counted upon. Extension of credit from abroad, possibly involving gold imports is another. The question is entirely whether these will suffice to make up for the heavy losses on the crop moving and treasury operations during the next two months. If they do prove enough then the speculative community will not be disturbed. If they do not, then sooner or later some of those who are carrying stocks on borrowed money will be asked to pay off their loans, and will find it exceedingly difficult and expensive to obtain their renewal. This probability has perhaps served more forcibly than anything else as an incentive to this week's liquidation on the Stock Exchange.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

Traffic earnings of the C. P. R. system from Aug. 21 to Aug. 31, were $1,539,000, being an increase of $101,000 over the same period a year ago. Gross earnings for the month of August amounted to $4,718,000, contrasted with $4,394,000 for August of 1904. The increase of $324,000 is a reflection of the tremendous increase in business handled by the company. Considering the crop movement has not yet started the probabilities for record figures this autumn are very favorable. The figures in detail are given in another column.

Canadian Pacific land sales for August were 58,542 acres for $327,500.

CHINA PAYS UP

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—In the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., yesterday, Sir Chen Tung Liang Cheng, Chinese minister to the United States, made the first payment of $6,750,000, which his government has agreed to give to reimburse the stockholders in the Canton-Hankow Railway. None of those interested would make known the exact size of the first instalment. Three months hence the final payment will be made.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—Opening prices in the stock market bounded vigorously from yesterday's depression. Gains of a large fraction to a point were very general amongst the principal active stocks. Canadian Pacific jumped 2½, Reading and Smelting were up 1¼, and Union Pacific 1½. The market was broad and active. The market opened strong.

ALLEN DOONE COMING

A new Irish star, in the person of Mr. Allen Doone, will make his initial appearance at the Opera House Thursday next. Mr. Doone, unlike many young actors striving for prominence, has wisely chosen a play with a reputation. He has behind him the good will of Joseph Murphy and the support of Mr. Murphy's admirable company, who together appear in that beautiful old play, "The Kerry Gow," with the necessary scenic equipment and careful attention to detail, the play will be seen in every particular as when produced by its former celebrated star. It has built up its splendid record solely because each succeeding year it endeared itself more and more to the theatre patrons. It is quaint, with a rugged pastoral atmosphere that has almost become extinct in these days of modern society stage whims and freak melodramas. It is simple and pure; not unlike a good sermon, we are better morally for having witnessed it. Its characters are all natural studies and historically correct, handed down from that period in Ireland when foreign control held sway mid tyranny and oppression. There is a rich vein of humor and Irish wit and ludicrous situations throughout the entire action of the play, in fact were space allowable, columns could be written on "Kerry Gow," suffice to say, however, its characters bid fair to live out their welcome which will undoubtedly be as many years to enumerate among the rising generation as the length of its splendid record of over thirty continuous years on the boards. It does not grow old, it does not grow old-fashioned. It is always refreshing, sparkling and bright. Where is there another like it?

GORTON'S MINSTREES

The approaching engagement of Gorton's Minstrels at York Theatre for three nights starting Sept 11th with Wed. matinee is looked forward to with pleasure by all lovers of this popular form of amusement. Gorton's Minstrels have long been regarded as one of the standard attractions which may always be depended upon to more than fulfil all promises, and the addition this season of many new and important features insures a performance of unusual excellence.

A street parade, unrivalled in its magnificent and costly equipment, will be given at noon.

D. M. Pearson, government scaler, of Queens county, left last evening for Bath (Me.).

Nature's Great Remedy.

Mah-pu Mineral Water.

On sale by all Druggists.

In selecting a mineral water the question of its freedom from dangerous impurities must be considered, as well as the health giving mineral elements contained in it. The fact that the celebrated Mah-pu Mineral Water comes from a depth of 268 feet, through an iron casing (the spring having been discovered by boring) and gushes forth under great pressure, rising to a height of 18 feet above the ground, ensures its freedom from the impurities liable to occur in water of surface Mineral Springs.

MAH-PU WATER has won a great reputation for its remarkable curative effect for RHEUMATISM, GOUT, KIDNEY and INTESTINAL DISORDERS.

and hundreds who have been cured by the use of this health giving water have reason to bless its discovery.

The Rev. G. M. Campbell, of St. John, former pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, is visiting the province and holding a series of meetings in the interests of the British and Foreign Bible Society. Meetings have already been held in Kensington, Malpeque, Bedeque, Alberton, Tryon and Victoria. The attendance at the services has been large and an increased interest in the objects of the society has been evinced. Tuesday Mr. Campbell came to the city and met the executive committee for the province. He outlined the work that is being done by the society and gave very helpful suggestions for making it more effective. Last evening he spoke in Montague and on this (Thursday) evening in Souris.—Charlottetown Guardian.
