S ISAACS

St. John Girl a Brilliant Graduate of Weil School of Music, Halifax.

Miss Mildred Isaacs, daughter of A. Isaacs of St. John, was one of the graduates of the Weil School of Music in Halifax on Saturday evening last, receiving a teacher's certificate for piano and diploma for elocution. Miss Grace Gilbert of Gagetown also received a teacher's certificate for piano.

The Halifax Evening Mail, in its account of the closing recital and distribution of diplomas on Saturday evening, says that it was "one of the richest musical events in the history of Halifax." Of Miss Isaacs' work it says:—

"Miss Mildred Isaacs, of St. John, has an exceptional talent for one so young, and played the difficult Greig concerto with faultless technique and great power."

Of Miss Gilbert the Mail says:—

"Miss Grace Gilbert, of Gagetown, N. B., played Liszt's aria of Wagner's Gunning Song with great delicacy and expression, and gives promise of much for the future."

Miss Isaacs will not return to her home in St. John for about ten days. Her success as a student is the subject of hearty congratulation, but is not at all surprising to those St. John friends who have had the pleasure of hearing her in music or elocution.

AN S. P. C. A. CASE

Wm. Cox, ex-Fire Department Driver, Charged in the Police Court With Beating a Horse

J. K. Kelley, on behalf of the S. P. C. A., has preferred a charge of cruelty to animals against Ex-driver Cox, of the fire department, No. 3 engine house, and the case came up in the police court today.

Mr. Kelley said that it had come to the notice of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, that Mr. Cox had abused one of the fire horses and that the society had endeavored to have a private investigation, but they could get no information from the firemen. Mr. Kelley said that it was reported that Cox beat one of the horses with a chain trace to such an extent that the animal fell down.

Messrs. Leonard, Day and Donohoe had been subpoenaed and were in court this morning.

Mr. Day said that on the 21st inst. they were hoisting hay in No. 3 Engine house. He heard a noise and saw Cox beating a horse with a chain trace in the yard back of the engine room. He thought the horse did not stand properly and that was the cause of the chastisement. The horse was about to hoist hay, and Mr. Cox had the chain trace in his hand to hitch it with. The witness said he tried to shield Cox when Mr. Wetmore of the S. P. C. A. came to him about it.

refused to go to the fire for Day said that it was that horse's mate that refused. Mr. Donohoe said he saw the horse struck once or twice, but walked away as he did not want to get mixed up in the affair.

Mr. Leonard said he did not see Cox beating the horse. The witness on being examined by Mr. Kelley said that it was pretty hard to tell who had charge of No. 3 Engine house. He said the engineer is in charge if he ever gets a chance. Mr. Leonard said he was the engineer, and his business requires him to be absent from the engine house two-thirds of the time. The witness said he never heard of Cox beating a horse with a chain before. If he did he would report the case to the S. P. C. A. or perhaps to Chief Kerr if he saw him.

Cox admitted he struck the horse. He was bringing him to the place where the hay would be raised from, and on his way to it he stopped to get two chain traces. Going around the corner the horse did not move quick enough for his mate, and he struck him. He also made another crack at him but missed.

His honor thought Cox should not have used the trace, but thought that he was provoked at the time.

The case was dismissed.

FREDERICTON, N. B., June 28.—(Special)—The Women's Auxiliary of the Presbytery of St. John met in annual session at St. Paul's church here this morning with the president, Mrs. MacOdrum of Moncton, in the chair and about fifty delegates present. The usual committees were appointed and reports were presented from several auxiliaries. Mrs. J. Howe Dickson delivered an address of welcome and was replied to by Mrs. McLean of Lorneville.

The prisoner was unable to get a lawyer to defend him, and the one assigned to him by the court was unable to act. He was therefore compelled to conduct his own defence. J. H. Barry and A. L. Slipp represented the crown. Up to noon three witnesses had testified for the crown.

NEW GENERATOR AND ENGINE

Important Additions to St. John Railway Co.'s Plant Are Now in the City.

The new engine and generator which the St. John Railway Company ordered some time ago (and particulars of which appeared in this paper last March) have arrived, and will be installed immediately. The new machine is a duplicate of the large one now in use at the power house, and weighs about 42 tons. The fly wheel alone weighs 25 tons. The new generator will furnish power for 12,000 lights, and with the two machines which are now in use, 30,000 lights can be supplied ordinarily, or if needed at any time 45,000 lights could be furnished for a period of two hours as the machines would stand an overload of 50 per cent for that length of time. There is no absolute necessity for the new generator at present as the company can supply all the light required with their present equipment. The new machine was purchased so that it would be ready for use in case anything happened to the one now in use. During the winter, however, when more light is required both machines will probably be utilized as the temporary one which was used last winter has been taken out. The company is determined to guard against all accidents or delays in their lighting service and so the new generator was ordered. It is now on the cars in the railway yard, and will be brought to the power house at once.

THE SHELBURNE ELECTION CASE

Cowie vs. Fielding Heard in the Supreme Court at Ottawa Today.

OTTAWA, Ont. June 28 —(Special)—In the supreme court today the first case heard was the Shelburne election case, Cowie vs. Fielding in which the petitioner appeals from the judgment of Chief Justice Weatherbee allowing as preliminary objections the service of the notice of the petition and dismissing the election petition with costs. The principal grounds of the decision appealed from are , first that by the statute 94-55 Vic, C20, sec 8, it is imperative that service should be made in Canada while, in this case it was made under special order on 3rd February 1905, in London, England out of the jurisdiction and was void, second that an election petition is a proceeding in personem and not in rem and consequently proper notice was wanting; third, a subsequent service made at Ottawa on March 25 last was also void because service had already ben made or attempted to be made in London. H. A. Lovett and R. V. Sinclair for appellant, Roscoe K. C. and Mellish for Respondent.
