Society

The past week has been by no means devoid of interest in a social way, quite a number of very delightful events having taken place. The inclemency of the weather was, of course, a very decided drawback, having a tendency to make the attendance somewhat smaller. Indications at present point to considerable activity in social circles during the approaching week.

Mrs. T. E. G. Armstrong entertained at tea, at her home, Queen Square, on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. James F. Robertson and Mrs. Joseph Allison poured tea, and the tables, which were decorated with white chrysanthemums, looked very bright and dainty. There were quite a number present and the event proved most enjoyable.

Mrs. Alfred Porter and Mrs. Edgar March entertained at a very delightful afternoon tea, on Wednesday last, at Mrs. Porter's residence, Charlotte street. Mrs. Jack Porter and Mrs Robt. Ewing poured tea. The table were tastefully decorated, white and yellow being the prevailing colors. During the evening, Horace Porter and Miss Maud March entertained.

Mrs. (Dr) J. H. Scammell was hostess at a very enjoyable afternoon tea, yesterday afternoon at her home, Germain St.

Mrs. John K. Schofield, Wright street, entertained a number of her lady friends at tea, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Roy Campbell and Mrs. Harry Robinson, presided at the tea tables, which presented a dainty appearance with decorations of green and white. Mrs. Schofield is also entertaining this afternoon. Mrs. L. W. Barker and Mrs. Herbert B Schofield are pouring tea.

Mrs. C. S. Everett who has been visiting in the city, has returned to St. Andrews.

Mrs. E. A. Smith was in St. Andrews last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Nevin Cameron, Mrs. S. Catherine and Mrs. Captain Fulton, of this city spent last week with relatives in Mascarene and Letete.

AT OTTAWA.

Captain and Mrs. Masters, who have been spending a few days in town with C. H. Masters and Miss Masters, Stewart street, left Monday for their home in Moncton.

Mrs. Smith, of St. John, N. B., who has been visiting her brother, Principal Gordon, in Kingston, has returned to Ottawa, and is again staying with her daughter, Mrs. Norman Guthrie.

A very enjoyable tea was given by Miss Mary Loucks in honor of Miss Zulu Mattice. Among the guests were Miss Vera Toller, Miss Marjorie Blair, and Miss Edith Fielding.

BRITISH HOUSE PLACES TRADE UNION FUNDS BEYOND ATTACK

London, Nov. 1—The resumption in the house of commons today of the debate on the trades disputes bill including the amendment of Oct. 26 to clause 4, placing union funds beyond the reach of attack, led to some lively scenes.

Members of the opposition twitted the ministers with surrendering to the Labor party. Herbert H. Asquith, chancellor of the exchequer, retorted that the question at issue was not one of principal but of method. He said he saw nothing dishonorable or unworthy in deferring to the feeling of those most interested in the matter, and that it was a question of expediency in which the associations of employers and employed were put on the same level. He unhesitatingly supported the amended clause.

War Secretary Haldane also explained that it was not in deference to James Keir Hardie, the labor member, that he had adopted his present attitude toward the new clause, but rather because there was an enormous preponderance of feeling in favor of doing things in the simplest way.

After other members of the government had spoken in a similar strain, Samuel Roberts, Conservative, proposed to insert the original clause. This proposal was defeated, 372 to 79, amid loud ministerial and labor cheers.

There was subsequently a further heated scene on the motion by a member of the opposition to omit Ireland from the operation of the act. In making this motion, Viscount Castlereagh, Conservative, contended it would give absolute immunity to boycotting.

Samuel Henry Butcher, Conservative, seconded this motion on the same ground.

The Irish members then violently reproached Mr. Butcher for slandering his own country, and for unworthily raking up false reports which have been dead for twenty-five years. John Redmond, the leader of the Irish party, said he could conceive no more unworthy or disgraceful scandal than to come into parliament, when Ireland was in a state of profound peace, and suggest that it was unsafe to give Ireland the same rights as England. This was evidently to be the plan of campaign, in view of next year's legislation for Ireland.

After further heated discussion, in which the speaker ignored appeals to call Mr. Redmond to order, Sir John Lawson Walton, Liberal, explained that the agricultural associations of Ireland did not come within the legal meaning of a trade union.

Lord Castlereagh, on the advice of his supporters, then wanted to withdraw the motion, but the Nationalists insisted upon a division and the motion was rejected, 282 to 35.

The incident then closed.

REPORTS ARE EXAGGERATED

Dr. E. B. Fisher Says Smallpox Situation in Kent County is Not as Bad as Pictured

Dr. Fisher, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, arrived in the city yesterday after inspecting the smallpox districts in Kent Co., and he stated that the reports from Kent Co. about the disease are exaggerated. The doctor alleged that there were not more than thirty-three or thirty-four cases, and no new ones had broken out since the quarantine was ordered put up three weeks ago.

The provincial secretary further states that the cases that came under his personal observation were of a mild type, but Mr. Tozer, chairman of the Kent County Board of Health, claimed that some were of a bad type, and one in Southampton he described as the worst he had ever seen.

Dr. Fisher went to Fredericton today.

A HALIFAX MAN'S VIEW

Harbor Master Butler Says St. John Needs Another Dredge.

John E. Butler, harbor master of Halifax, who has been spending a few days in the city, returned home today.

In an interview last night, Mr. Butler said he did not consider that the appointment of a harbor inspector would prevent steamers from dumping ashes. He characterized the appointment of such an official as a waste of money. He thought, however, that the city should purchase another dredge and the salary of an inspector, if saved, would go toward paying the interest on a first-class mud digger.

C. M. HAYS SUMMONED TO TORONTO POLICE COURT

TORONTO, Nov. ((Special)—William N Robertson, of Toronto, has secured a summons for General Manager Hays, of the Grand Trunk, to appear in the Toronto police court November 8 to answer a charge of disobeying the law by refusing to carry third class passengers at two cents a mile. There are no third class rates on the Ontario section of the Grand Trunk, and complainant says the law requires them.

Mrs. W. L. Hamm left last night for New York, where she will visit her daughter, Mrs. Lambord.

A REAR END COLLISION

Express Trains Clash on New York, New Haven and Hartford Road.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—The Boston & Albany express, which left Boston at 4 p. m., and was due at the Grand Central station in this city at 10.22 tonight, stalled on the tracks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford R. R. at 165th street and Park avenue, the Broux at 10.30. The Stamford local, following it, ran into the rear car of the express. It is said that the usual red lights showed on the rear of the forward train, and that a brakeman had been sent back to flag any trains following. The two hundred or more passengers on the express thain were severely shaken up, ibut no one, so far as learned tonight, was fatally hurt. A brakeman on the express train was the worst injured. He was removed to the Roosevelt hospital. One woman passenger had her nose broken.

The last car of the express train was a parlor car. The engine of the local train was forced into it for about five feet, wrecking the platform and vestibule and smashing in the rear wall.

John Murphy, the engineer, and Edward Moore, conductor of the local, jumped before the crash and escaped injury. Henry Desmond, conductor of the express, was painfully cut by broken glass.

The stalling of the express, it is said, was due to a misplaced rail. While the express was waiting the Stamford local train crashed into it. There were about 20 passengers in the rear car of the express, and they suffered the most from the shock. Among them was Arthur E. Turner, an officer of marines, attached to the U. S. S. Hancock, who suffered cuts from shattered glass. He and the others were taken to the Grand Central station and attended by the railway physician.

DR. MELVIN SPEAKS TO FABIAN LEAGUE

Pulmonary Tuberculosis Formed the Subject of an Interesting Discourse Last Evening.

Only a small gathering listened to Dr. G. G. Melvin's paper on Pulmonary Tuberculosis, read at the Fabian League meeting in Berryman's Hall last night. Despite the small attendance, it was followed by an interesting discussion in the course of which the board of health was freely criticized. Dr. Melvin said that the executive officers of the board should consist wholly of medical men.

W. Frank Hatheway presided and spoke of the advisability, in view of the many accidents at Sand Point, through imperfect appliances, of the appointment by the government of a gear inspector to test all chains used to hoist deals and other cargo, as well as scaffoldings at Sand Point. After the examination of the chains, a tag should be affixed and any stevedore using any gear not so stamped should be liable to a fine or imprisonment.

In introducing Dr. Melvin, Mr. Hatheway said he had read in the papers that there are in the city of New York no fewer than 143,000 persons suffering from tuberculosis.

The lecturer of the evening placed on exhibition under the microscope specimens of the tubercle bacilli and a piece of a coal heaver's lung, who had been accidentally killed in London when sixty-five years old. This was thoroughly impregnated with coal dust. The object of showing it being to prove that the inhalation of dust in itself is not a cause of consumption, although it may predispose the subject to it by irritating the mucous membrane.

In defining tuberculosis, Dr. Melvin said that the tubercle is a small lump of unhealthy tissue which dies and becomes pus or poisonous matter. Its favorable seat is in the lungs, although it may attack any portion of the body. It is also known as scrofula, King's evil and lupus. The latter form, although frequently confounded with cancer differs widely from it. Cancer is constitutional, lupus may be merely local. The above three are the principal forms. Pasteur first began the study of bacteria, and in this connection an important discovery was that of the tubercle bacilli, which are so small that 1000 can lie on the head of a pin. Nearly all forms of bacteria belong to germ life. The two great weapons with which to fight consumption, said the doctor, are light and dryness. Proper ventilation, heat and dryness are of great importance.

Dr. Melvin went on to say that liquor saloons are hot beds for the propagation of consumption, as from the very nature of the business carried on it is almost impossible to keep the places clean. The idea of heredity as regards consumption had been exploded but not in regard to the liability of it.

Dr. Melvin insisted that it is impossible to say too much of the proper nourishment of youth. Food and nourishment needs to be of two types, beef and bread. Good food combined with plenty of free air and sunshine are necessary if children are to grow up healthy men and women.

LIPTON IS HAVING TIME OF HIS LIFE

Boston is Entertaining the Titled Yachtsman in Right Royal Fashion.

BOSTON, Nov 1—Sir Thomas Lipton spent most of his time in Boston today with Massachusetts sailors, professional and amateur. He breakfasted with members of the Boston Yacht Club at their winter station on Rowe's Wharf and then strolled along the water front to the distributing center of Massachusetts fisheries at T wharf. Sir Thomas went on board a number of the schooners and after messing about among the trolls, dories and bait tubs on the decks, came ashore and announced to several hundred hardy mariners that he would offer a valuable cup for a fisherman's race next year in Massachusetts Bay.

From the waterfront, Sir Thomas came up town and attended the lunch of the Massachusetts state board of trade of which one of his most intimate friends in this country, Charles E. Adams, of Lowell, is president. At the luncheon, Sir Thomas reiterated his statement that he intended to challenge again for the America's cup.

The day closed with another banquet, Sir Thomas being the guest of the Boston Yacht Club at an elaborate function at the New Algonquin Club.

The gathering was a representative one including nearly all prominent yachtsmen of the Massachusetts Yacht Racing Association. Speeches were made by men who handled the tiller in many a noted race in American waters, and the occasion was thoroughly enjoyed by the foreign visitor.
