FINANCIAL SITUATION IN THE UNITED STATES

(Daniel Fisk Kellog in Monday's New York Sun.)

A week ago today prices in the security market touched the lowest level that they had reached at any time since the first week of September. On the previous Saturday the week end statement of the banks comprised in the New York Clearing House had shown that the surplus reserve of these institutions was $1,500,000 below the legal minimum, and this news was followed by the announcement by the secretary of the treasury of his intention not to take any steps, for the time being at least, for the relief of the money situation thus created. As the week opened, too, labor troubles upon more than one of the great railway systems terminating at New York seemed to be impending.

The selling of stocks, however, that occurred last Monday appeared to represent more or less of a culmination of a sagging tendency in the market that had been uninterruptedly in progress for several days. On the following day, however, the general aspect of affairs brightened. The average price of call money which was 15 per cent. on the day previous, fell to 12 per cent. and on the day following to 7 per cent. On Thursday the ruling rate was down to 5 per cent. and on Friday to 4 1-2 per cent. It would be idle to affect ignorance of the belief entertained in many quarters in the financial district that this surprising relaxation in money rates was due to that the money market was being or had been manipulated.

The feature of the week in the speculative markets was a vigorous and almost sensational advance in the price of the St. Paul common shares. The stock in question moved upward nearly $15 a share from its low point on Monday, and a flood of rumors naturally started, partaking of the same general nature as many that have been in circulation for a year or more past. There is no doubt that at some time not far distant the St. Paul company must make another large issue of stock to provide funds for its Pacific coast extension, as the money raised by the recent issue of securities of the company has been devoted wholly to purposes of general improvements, yet it does not seem to be thought that any rights upon the stock are immediately forthcoming and stories of the passing of the company into the hands of other railway systems are authoritatively denied.

The essential evil of our prevailing currency system is its well nigh absolute lack of elasticity. This has been ameliorated, or rather has been prevented from working the harm that it otherwise would, by the large additions to the volume of money in the country that have been made in recent years and by the ingenious, if dangerous and probably illegal devices, employed by the present secretary of the treasury to make the stock of money in the country available for business needs. Events of the last two years, however, have demonstrated that conditions cannot continue as they are for another season without imperilling business interests in the gravest manner.

BUSINESS HELD UP.

The situation has become such in fact that the entire business of the country during the last four months of the year is practically "held up" while the needs of the agricultural sections for money with which to move their crops are satisfied. In times when business in the country is slack these fall shipments of money to the west and south are of small moment; but when business is active and is, particularly, in such a rushing state as it is today, a money stringency is created each autumn by reason of the causes named that acts upon business as a frost and forces the banks to go down deep into their reserve funds to supply the demand for money and puts the conduct of all mercantile operations under constant fear of disaster or panic.

Despite the fact that on the first of November the money in the country, according to the government's figures, was $213,000,000 more than it was at the same date last year, not one dollar of this increase can be found in the national banks, showing that the new money that had been created was in pocketbooks, or passing actively from hand to hand among the people. Thus despite the immense enlargement of the financial needs of merchants and others the lending power of the banks has not at all increased, and these institutions have been forced to curtail credits or hold them stationary until the time when, in due course, the pocketbooks of the country yield up their stores of cash.

ANTIQUATED LAWS.

The commission appointed by the American Bankers' Association proposes in the first place to sweep away the utterly antiquated laws limiting the retirement of bank note circulation to $3,000,000 a month and those compelling the financial receipts of the government, aside from the customs revenues, to be locked up in the sub-treasury. The funds of the government as they accumulate above a reasonable working balance are to be currently deposited in the national banks under various regulations as regards safety, the bank paying for such deposits interest at the rate of 2 per centum per annum.

Why such a disposition of the government's money has not been made in the past has long been a source of wonder to foreign critics of our financial affairs especially. Statistics gathered by the government actuaries have shown that if the national revenues in excess of a balance of $50,000,000 had been deposited with the banks the government during the last twenty-five years would not have lost a dollar, and if it had received at the rate of 2 per centum per annum would have been a gainer to the extent of over $50,000,000.

TREASURY LOSES INTEREST.

Not only have the people of the country thus been kept out of the use of the money that was rightfully theirs, but their treasury has lost immense sums in interest that it might easily have procured. The plan of the commission otherwise includes the issuance by the banks of a so-called emergency circulation on payment of a varying tax thereon, the proceeds of this tax being held in the treasury to secure the new notes issued.

The issue of this circulation cannot be made by any bank that has not been in existence a year and that has not a surplus equal to 20 per cent, if its capital; and it is required that the total of credit notes and bond secured notes thus issued shall not exceed the capital of the bank. Here again statistics compiled by the government authorities have shown that if such a system had been in existence in the past no loss or trouble would have occurred by reason of it.

BORROWS SYSTEM.

In making provision for the prompt redemption through the various clearing houses of the country of the credit currency thus created and in establishing a general guaranty fund as described the commission has borrowed an idea, seemingly, from the Canadian banking system, whose operations have long been the subject of admiring comment, whereby the banks of the country as a whole become more or less responsible for the safety of each other and are, therefore, to a certain extent watchers of each other. There may perhaps be some ground for the criticism that the tax on the emergency circulation has been fixed at too low a figure so that the proposed measure may become a means of financial inflation rather than one affording relief in times of peculiar stress; and a matter that, of course, suggests itself is the possibility that a discrimination may be exercised by the public between the proposed credit notes of the banks and those of the old kind, which are secured by bonds deposited with the treasury of the United States at Washington; but as the new notes will be legal tender and will be as amply secured as any in existence the fair presumption is that they will be as readily current as any.

A GOLDEN JUBILEE

Three Members of the Order of Sisters of Charity Celebrate Jubilee Today.

There is great rejoicing today in St. Vincent's convent as Sister Mary Michael, Sister Mary Bernard and Sister Mary John are celebrating the golden jubilee of their religious profession.

This morning mass was celebrated in St. Vincent's chapel at 6.30 o'clock by Bishop Casey, who addressed the reverend jubilarians. This evening benediction will bring the celebration to a close.

Sister M. Michael has completed 50 years as a religious and has the honor of having in the order of the Sisters of Charity two nieces, Sister Beatrice and Sister Genevieve. She has also two grand nieces, Sister Evelyn and Sister Theckla. Although advanced in years, Sister Michael enjoys excellent health.

Sister Bernard is remembered as having taught at the time of private schools, and also for a time after the introduction of the present system.

Sister Mary John entered the convent when quite young, and many hundreds of competent musicians have received a musical education from her since that time. Sister Mary John is at present teaching music in the Carleton convent.

JAMES BRENNAN LOSES HIS CASE

Chief Justice Tuck Sets Aside Judgment of the City Court.

Argument was heard yesterday afternoon before Chief Justice Tuck in the case of Brennan vs. Gale which came up on review from the city court. The chief justice set aside the judgment in the lower court.

The defendant is captain of the schooner Preference, of which one Dixon is mate. The latter boarded at Brennan's hotel on Union street, and thereby contracted a board bill of $8. He gave as security his mate's certificate. Wishing to ship, he paid $5 at the shipping office and it was agreed that the captain should keep $3 out of his wages for Brennan. The mate revoked his promise and would not allow the captain to keep his money.

Brennan sued the captain and Judge Ritchie ruled that he was primarily liable.

E. S. Ritchie represented Brennan and E. P. Raymond the defendant.

SACKVILLE

SACKVILLE, Nov. 20—The death of Miss Clara Johnson, of Port Elgin, occurred on Sunday morning. Deceased had been in her usual health until Saturday. She was thirty-eight years old.

The death of the eight year old son of Job Trenholm occurred recently after two weeks' illness of spinal meningitis.

Archie Crossman is criticaly ill with slight hope of recovery.

Miss Alice Anderson, of Center Village, was the recipient of a handsome chair recently. It was presented by the congregation of the church, in appreciation of her services as organist.

Henry Lee, of the firm of Lee & Co, brick manufacturers, St. John, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. A. W. Atkinson, yesterday.

Gains Fawcett, of the firm of Fawcett Bros., is confined to his home through illness.

Samaria Stopped His Drinking

A London Lady cures her husband permanently of the drink habit and without his knowledge.

"How glad I am that I overcame my hesitation about writing you for a Free Sample of Samaria. At that time my husband was drinking very hard, and I was in despair. The effect of your treatment was immediate, and now our home is entirely free from the Drink Curse. I gave my husband the tablets in his tea, and he never knew. As the taste for liquor left him, his general health improved and is now splendid—many, many thanks. I will be glad if you will tell others of my experience.

Free Package and pamphlet giving full particulars, testimonials and price sent in plain sealed envelope. Correspondence sacredly confidential. Address; THE SAMARIA REMEDY CO., 38 Jordan Chambers, Jordan St., Toronto, Canada.

THE BRIDGE ASSAULT CASE

The preliminary examination of Wm. Sleeth and Thos. Collern, charged with indecent assault on Mrs. Annie Parker and Miss Jennie Crawford, was continued yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Parker was on the stand and referred to the prisoners as "gentlemen," on the ground that every person should be a gentleman if he's a man.

Mrs. Parker's story was the same as that told by her on Monday. She stated that in referring to Policeman Marshall, she had called him "Turkey," and not "Mister." She denied having struck the man, and declared she had not been drinking the night of the assault, and was not in the habit of drinking.

Miss Jennie Crawford was cross examined, but without revealing any new points.

DAIRY PRODUCE

There is very little change in the condition of the cheese market today, but there was a noticeable dullness in the demand at the boards on Saturday. Country prices showed a decidedly weak feeling, and locally there is not a very good market for the November make that is coming in. Western Septembers and Octobers are about steady at 12¾c. to 13c., and Easterns bring 12¼c. to 12¾c., but trade is quiet.

The lightness of the make and the active local enquiry for butter have had a strengthening effect on the situation, and prices are up today to 24½c. to 25c. per pound for fancy grades of Townships creamery. Medium and under finest grades bring 23½c. to 24c., dairy is very firm at 20c. to 21½c., and separator butter is quoted at 23c. to 23½c. per pound.

Today's receipts were 5,767 boxes of cheese and 418 packages of butter.

MANY CURTAIN CALLS

The Harkins Co. Made a Hit With "Through the Breakers"

Strong situations and thrilling climaxes that brought thunders of applause from the lovers of melo-drama marked the production of Through the Breakers by the W. S. Harkins Co. at the opera house last evening. Balcony and gallery were crowded and down-stairs was fairly well-filled when the curtain went up on the opening scene, and the enthusiasm of the audience grew with the progress of the play. The scene where the villain attempts for the second time to kill the hero of the piece, and is prevented and exposed through the medium of the telegraph code, is one of the most exciting and realistic seen here for a long time. The manner in which villainy is thwarted and virtue wins its reward is the usual manner of the melo-dramatic stage, but the company is so much stronger than the average picked-up aggregation that the acting appeals to the audience much more effectively.

The action is rapid, unhesitating, aggressive; and the comedy element is decidedly entertaining.

The play deals with a scheming guardian and his lovely ward, and the wreckers on the rocky coast of Kent. It is a thriller from start to finish, and there were many curtain calls last evening.

Through the Breakers will be repeated this evening, and should have a large patronage.

Tomorow night will be the comedy night. A double bill will be the offering, "Won on a Bluff," and the three-act comedy, "The Three Hats." Miss Van Dusen will sing, "Fishing." There will be a matinee Saturday at 2.30, "The Crisis."

The Boys and Girls

The Editor of the Times,

Sir—Having read your paper for a long time, and having seen a piece about the bad boys and girls of St. John, I should like to say a few words, if you would be so good as to allow it to be put in your paper. Our young friend, said "arrest the girls," if I am not mistaken, as though it were their fault. Now in nine cases out of ten I say it is the parents' fault. Mothers of today, most of all mothers of a certain class, have no right to be mothers. Before any woman has a right to be a mother she must anyway be a woman, not a lady; for a lady can be a lady without being a woman. A true woman is the living witness of God's love and tenderness, pure, true and noble.

A woman must be this before she is a woman, and cannot bring up children until she has their ways. If I were to say that Sir Wilfrid Laurier and our government were not loyal men to their country and did not try to do all for their country's welfare, I should be called crazy; but, men and women who read this, which is the most loyal, to fight for your country and ten to one get killed before you have killed anyone, or to fight against the evil things that are allowed by the government, such as immoral post cards? A look of one is enough to ruin some of the "bad boys and girls of St. John." Over and over again have I seen these cards, which are poisoning the thoughts, words and deeds of our boys and girls. Who is to blame for the bad boys and girls of St. John? Mr. Editor, I think it would be found that if the immoral things were put away we should find "the bad boys and girls" fewer than today.

One last word. Boys and girls, remember that now is the time you are deciding your future happiness. Your thoughts, words and deeds are growing with you for better or worse. Let our government wake up to the fact that these things are bad for the young ones, and cause a stumbling block, and that Christ said: "If anyone form a stumbling block for any child, it were better he had never been born."

Let me end up with Longfellow's poem on "Maidenhood."

"Oh thou child of many prayers.
Life hath quicksands, life hath snares;
Age and care come unawares."

Yours sincerely,

A. W.
