MANY YEARS ON OPERATIC STAGE

Frank D. Nelson, of Robinson Opera Co., has Notable Career

No operatic artist has ever attained such universal popularity in this city as Frank D. Nelson, who will be at the Opera House with The Robinson Opera Co. next week.

Mr. Nelson has been identified with the stage for the last twenty-four years, beginning at the lowest rung of the ladder, and by dint of perseverance and great natural ability, reaching a position of honor in his profession. He has staged many musical and scenic productions, that of "Woodland," of the Savage enterprise, which was one of the sensations of last year. It cost Mr. Savage $62,000 to ring up the curtain on the first performance of this play.

Mr. Nelson began his professional career with the once famous Holman English Opera Co., with whom he remained for several years, and afterwards joined the ranks of the Bennett-Moulton Opera Company, with whom he remained for five years.

Next we find him with the now famous Hitchcock, who was then just forging his way to the front rank of comedians. Nelson and Hitchcock performed a few "stunts" together which were well received.

Soon after this Mr. Nelson took his own company out on the road, producing "Erminie" and "The Black Hussar." By this time his originality had caused him to be looked upon as a valuable man to Broadway managers and for the next few years he devoted his time to production work and was stage manager for Klaw & Erlanger's "Beauty and the Beast." Then he enlisted under Ryley & Fisher and assisted in the production of the great success, "Floradora," playing the part of the dancing master.

The following season he was with De Wolf Hopper in "Wang" as stage director and also took the part of Colonel Fricasse, and when Fisher & Ryley were considering the English opera, "The Medal and the Maid," he returned to their service.

Previous to joining the Robinson Opera Co., Mr. Nelson staged for The Grays of West Haven "The Mocking Bird," which was produced equal to the original production.

Gordon pulled the Reed boy under a sidewalk, pounded him on the head with a brick until he was unconscious and then dug a hole in the earth in which he placed young Reed. Gordon heaped the earth over Reed and allowed him to suffocate.

THE SCOW BROKE

In an attempt to raise the scow loaded with junk, which sunk some time ago at the I. C. R. wharf the scow was broken in two yesterday. Several strong hawsers were placed about the scow and an endeavor made to raise it by means of derricks. The scow broke in the middle and as the pig-iron was mostly in one end, the light end floated. After several attempts, the other part of the scow, with its heavy load, was brought to the surface, and the iron saved.

Today, the government dredge Galveston will clean up at the wharf, at which the scow sank.

Stores open till 10 o'clock. St. John, December 20, 1906
