M. SANTOS DUMONT IN FLIGHT

M. Santos-Dumont, who had already won the Deutsch prize of $20,000 with his dirigible balloon, also won the Archdeacon Cup for aeroplanes. Mounted on his original apparatus, he made a fine flight of 60 metres (200 feet) at Bagatelle on October 23. The above photograph is the only one taken during this flight. It shows that the aeroplane did not rise to a very great height above the ground, only about two metres. This, however, was not the question, the great interest of the experiment being the demonstration that one can succeed in attaining level flight without the aid of a support lighter than air.

ROOSEVELT TRAVELS IN STYLE ON TRIP TO PANAMA

Special Arrangements Have Been Made for Comfort of the President on His Southern Trip--Great Interest Manifested in Assembling of Next Congress.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 8.—Now that the elections are over and the result known the country will await the next important event in the political programme which will be the assembling of congress in less than a month hence. The elections on Tuesday have made it certain that the administration will have a majority in congress for the remainder of the president's term of office and while the majority will not be as large as that of the fifty-ninth congress, it is probable, indeed almost certain, that it will be in more complete accord with the administration and less recalcitrant than the present congress, for, notwithstanding the president's programme was triumphantly carried out during the last session, there were some recalcitrant members and senators in his own party. Mr. Wadsworth, who opposed the meat inspection bill and defied the president in well remembered words and whose championship of the beef trust suggested the zeal of a paid attorney has lost his election. The friends of the president and notably his son-in-law, have, I believe, without exception been returned.

The boasts and threats of those sons of labor whose work is mainly with their jaws, have come to naught, not a single member of congress, it appears, having been defeated by the labor vote. Fellow politics has failed to elect its candidate in New York, but it will be some time before the decent and conservative people of the country recover from the shock and awe of Mr. Hearst's almost successful campaign. The country indeed should not be permitted to recover. Radicalism, socialism, anarchy have long been latent and are now crescent in American politics and not until the noxious disease is stamped out should the country abate its anxious vigilance.

The president is speeding ahead with the flashing brine to examine the great ditch on the spot. It may be imagined that his heart is light and that his sanguine optimistic temperament will enable him during the days and weeks of his absence to have hope and faith in the continued welfare and beneficent progress of his administration.

President Roosevelt's visit to Panama will be unprecedented in history and will permanently explore the theory that a president during his incumbency of office must be a prisoner in the country. When that idea first became one of the unwritten laws which have heretofore hedged presidents about the United States had no outlying possessions and a president in leaving his country had no occasion to go outside of the boundaries of the United States, but circumstances have altered theories as well as boundaries and with our growing possessions it would be absurd to inhibit the chief executive from paying calls upon any of them at any time he decided that for their benefit such a visit was desirable. If one of these days the president should decide to visit Alaska, Guam, Hawaii or take a little sail to the Philippines there would be no rational reason why he should be deterred from doing so merely because of an antiquated superstition that the president cannot go off American soil. On the return trip from Panama the president will visit Porto Rico, and that our interests as well as those of the Porto Ricans cannot but be benefited is clear to everybody.

It must also be regarded as auspicious that the first visit of our president outside of the country would be to one of our Latin-American neighbors, to all of whom we stand in the foster parent attitude but to whom we have been always rather patronizing and indifferent. Secretary Root's visit this summer was followed by increased friendliness on the part of our South American neighbors. It is probable that the president's visit in Central America will create a favorable impression and result in better understanding with the Southern Continent. The president will be accompanied on his trip by Mrs. Roosevelt and their quarters aboard the battleship Louisiana have been fitted up with every comfort.

The president's cabins will be separated from the rest of the ship by a temporary bulkhead which in an emergency can be closed and render that section water-tight independently of the rest of the vessel. The admiral's stateroom will be occupied by the president and the captain's quarters have been arranged for Mrs. Roosevelt. The chief of staff's room will be used as a sitting room while the space around the turret has been fixed up for an office and general sitting room for the use of the president and those who accompany him. There have been no added decorations in the quarters but they have been fitted out with desks, easy chairs, wardrobes and such accessories as may add to the comfort of the party.

Trouble in the Carpenter Shops at Moncton---The Westward Movement---A Copper Mine.

MONCTON, Nov. 13.—An investigation has been held into the row that occurred in the I. C. R. carpenter shop last week and the result has been the suspension of two or three employees for a week or two. The employee who is alleged to have assaulted his foreman, is reported missing and cannot be found by the police, who have papers for him. A charge of assault has been laid against him by the foreman. The charge against some of those suspended is drinking while on duty.

Seymour White, a well-known contracting builder, returned this afternoon from Regina. Next spring he intends moving to the west with his family.

E. H. Hall, who resigned recently from the M. and B. Railway to go west, has received an order to work for the C. P. R. on the western part of the road. Mr. Hall left for the west two or three days ago.

Mrs. E. A. Record, who makes her home in Dorchester at the home of Hon. H. H. Emerson, was in the city today and went to St. John, being called there by the illness of Mrs. J. deWolfe Spurr.

The weather during the past two weeks has greatly retarded work at the new I. C. R. shops. The ground is in such a wet and muddy condition that the work has been carried on with difficulty.

BELASCO'S NEW SHOW

The Rose of the Ranch Received its Premiere in New York Last Night.

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—David Belasco's drama of early California life, "The Rose of the Ranch," was presented here tonight for the first time on any stage, and a large and representative audience was present at the Majestic Theatre to welcome the new production.

The play is laid in southern California in the early fifties, when the country was deluged by Americans from the west and southwest. The many called conflicts between the newcomers and the Spanish, Mexicans and Indians, who were the real dwellers of the land, is the basis of a thrilling story which holds the attention throughout. In the cast were Hamilton Revelle, who acted for a long time with Mrs. Leslie Carter; Francis Starr, Grace Gaylord Clark and Chas. Richmond, once the leading man of Daly's and the Empire Theatres in New York.

The production was received with enthusiasm.

"UNSINKABLE" SHIP
MISSING 195 DAYS

The Kineo, With $20,000 Cargo of Sugar, Lost on a Long Voyage.

(New York World). Somewhere on the Pacific or Atlantic the schooner Kineo is supposed to be laboring in an attempt to get from Hawaii to Philadelphia with 4,000 tons of sugar, valued at $20,000. She has been out 195 days, and no word has been heard from her by her owners, Arthur Sewell & Co. She is now sixty days overdue.

Whether the vessel has been wrecked and the crew lost or stranded on some far away island, or whether she has struck the calms of the South Pacific or the icebergs off Cape Horn, are questions which deeply concern the people of Mount Holly, N. J., for their interest in the commander, his wife and little daughter is intense. The commander is Captain Frank Patten, of Bath, Maine, who has sailed the seas since he was a lad. His wife is a niece of Dr. William P. Melcher, of Mount Holly.

The Kineo is named after the largest mountain at Moosehead Lake, in Maine. She is of the schooner type, 2,200 tons, has five masts and is the largest all steel vessel of her class afloat. The boat carries water ballast, has water-tight compartments, is fire-proof and unsinkable. Steam heat is used and everything is done by power except locomotion. The vessel was built as an experiment, and cost $100,000. She is now on her first trip, and if she succeeds in reaching Philadelphia she will have circled the globe. Captain Patten has his family with him on the ship.
