Miss Alice Riley, daughter of John Riley, Hampton, and sister of Miss Mary Riley, of this city, left last evening to enter St. Vincent's Convent, Boston.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

The Pollard Lilliputian Opera Company returned to the city last evening and opened a brief engagement in the York Theatre presenting for the occasion the new musical comedy "In Town."

As on their previous appearance here the Pollards rapidly captured the large audience with their exceptionally clever work and increased their claims on the title of the finest organization of the kind which has ever visited St. John.

— — — — — —

Take in lift.

The piece follows the regular beaten track of musical comedies, having the merest suggestion of a plot, but serving to introduce in their characteristic roles the several members of this exceedingly clever organization, who have already become favorites with a St. John audience.

The entertainment consisted of a dazzling succession of tableaux, scenic effects, and catchy songs, the most popular of the latter being My Wife Won't Let Me; I've a Funny Feeling When I Looks at You, which was very cleverly done by Miss Olive Meare. Teddy McNamara and Freddy Heintz—and Dear Mama, by Miss Daphne Pollard, which, it may be mentioned, was heard here in Captain Reece of the Mantlepiece two years ago.

The precocity of the youthful performers was the wonder of all, and Master Teddie McNamara, as the "young man about town," was heartily welcomed for his clever work, and established himself as a great favorite with the audience. Master Johnnie Heintz at the Coravanserai Hotel showed much originality and was much applauded.

The whole went with a snap and a swing which greatly pleased the audience, and as In Town is to be the bill again tonight, there should be a full house to see the performance, which is probably the best among the many excellent plays in the repertoire of these clever children.

Walter K Hill writing in The Billboard of Oct. 27 on theatricals in New York says: Seven novelties will be presented for the consideration of New York theatre goers during the last ten day of October. There is an item of unusual interest in every one of the announcements and there is a promise of valuable additions to the pages of current theatrical history, insofar as Manhattan Island is concerned.

On Oct. 22, at the Astor Theatre, Viola Allan, in Cymbeline, succeeded Annie Russell's beautiful presentation of A Midsummer Night's Dream, which inaugurated the career of the Astor some three weeks ago.

On the same evening, at Wallack's Theatre, Sam Bernard gave us our first views of The Rich Mr. Hoggenheimer, then succeeding Thomas W. Ross in Popularity as the attraction at that house.

Tuesday evening, Oct. 23, Fay Davis came into her own as a star "on Broadway." She was seen in The House of Mirth at the Savoy Theatre as the attraction to succeed the illfated Lillian Russell venture, Barbara's Millions, which closed, Oct. 20, for good and all.

On Oct. 29, at the Lyric Theatre, New Yorkers will have their first introduction to Lena Ashwell who will then begin an engagement in Shulamite. On the same evening, at the New Amsterdam Theatre, Forbes Robertson and Gertrude Elliott will begin a joint starring engagement in repertoire.

Oct. 30, will mark the dedication of the New Lincoln Theatre, adding one more house to New York's growing list of amusement resorts. The Lincoln will be the second entirely new, and the third practically new theatre to open in Manhattan since the current season began.

The Blue Moon will be presented at The Casino on Oct. 31, succeeding My Lady's Maid, which will be taken hence upon the road. At the present writing the foregoing announcements are all that have been made public; but theatrical matters have formed a habit of making quick changes in New York this season, and there may be more to come.

Brewster's Millions, the production that marks the debut of Thompson & Dundy, formerly of the New York Hippodrome, as theatrical managers, received its premiere Oct. 10 at Taylor's Opera House, Trenton, N. J., The new piece is a dramatization of George Barr McCutcheon's novel of the same name, and reviewers pronounce it a splendid production. It is well staged, the scene representing Brewster's yacht in a storm being an innovation in stage settings. The leading roles, which abound in good comedy, are well cared for by Edward Abeles and Mary Ryan.

Annie Davis, said to be the largest woman in the world, died suddenly one day last week at her home near Hubbardstown W. Va. at the age of thirty. She weighed 730 pounds. The dead woman's sister, 2 years her junior, weighs over five hundred pounds.

Because he was out of employment, Duncan C. Bert, actor of Hillsboro, O., committed suicide at his lodgings in New York City Oct. 18. He was about 40 years of age.

Edward R. Mawson well known here as one of the best leading men who ever visited St. John, has been cast for the leading role in support of Miss Lena Ashwell, a distinguished English actress, who made her American debut at the Garrick Theatre, Chicago, on Oct. 14th. in the Shulamite. Mr. Mawson had the role of Simeon Krillet, a Boer farmer, of the Bible-reading, Puritanical type. The scenes of the play are laid in the Transvaal a quarter of a century ago. Mr. Mawson's work was highly praised by the critics and he is said to have scored the greatest success of any of the male members of the company. This will be welcome news to his many St. John friends.

ARMY HAD BUSY DAY

Commissioner Coombs and Staff Left Yesterday for Newfoundland.

An immense crowd gathered in the Charlotte street barracks last evening when Commissioner Coombs delivered his last address in connection with this year's congress. He took as his subject the doctrine of holiness, on which he spoke at considerable length. The large audience listened with the closest attention, and, at the conclusion of the meeting, quite a number accepted the invitation to go forward to the penitent form.

Commissioner Coombs, accompanied by Mrs. Coombs, Colonel Pugmire and Adjt. Morris, left on the late train last evening en route to St. John's, Newfoundland. The commissioner expressed himself as delighted with the condition of the army and said that no better officer councils had ever been held in St. John.

He was pleased with the welcome the visiting delegates received from the citizens and the interest shown at public meetings. Referring to the new citadel, he said it would likely be started here next spring.

Referring to his future movements, the commissioner said that on leaving Newfoundland he would return to Montreal and Toronto. Later he intended to visit the army colony at Tisdell, which had proved very successful, and would open a new maternity and children's hospital at Vancouver.

HEADLESS BABY FOUND IN LUNENBURG HARBOR

Halifax, Oct. 29—The headless body of a man, with hands also missing, was discovered at noon today beneath Zwicker & Co.'s wharf, Lunenburg, by a young son of Mrs. Charles Johnson. The young fellow was gathering driftwood, when he stumbled across the body, and his horrified cries brought the workmen on the wharf to his assistance. Coroner Burrell was notified and had the body removed to the undertaking rooms of Mr. Hopps, where he began an investigation.

The body was clothed in oil skins and long boots, and as a young man named Willneff is supposed to have been drowned in the harbor a few weeks ago, it is thought that this is his body . The coroner's inquest was adjourned until 2 o'clock tomorrow.
